The outlook in connection with the strike is exceedingly grave.

The Northern Colliery Proprietors' Association met yesterday at Dalgety and Co.'s offices.

The request for a conference was definitely and finally refused unless the men returned to work within a week.

The unions appear to be divided as to whether the terms offered by the owners can be accepted by the unions.

This will probably be decided at the congress of delegates to be held at the Trades Hall to-day.

The Newcastle delegates believe that the men will not resume work on the terms offered.

Mr. Bowling implies that the object of a general strike would be to secure the nationalisation of the mines.

He says there is no doubt about the wharf-labourers coming out.

Mr. W. M. Hughes expresses the opinion that the mines ought to be State-owned.

He declines responsibility for the strike, but urges the coalowners to agree to a conference.

The strike is having a serious effect on the interstate shipping trade.

Passenger steamers are being laid up, and it is feared that if the strike continues the shipping industry will be paralysed.

The closing of the hospitals is threatened if two or three weeks elapse without a renewal of coal supplies.

The effects of the strike are being felt in the country, and the prospects are regarded with apprehension.

The miners at the Zig-zag Colliery, Lithgow, came out yesterday morning.

It is not thought likely that any of the Lithgow mines will be working to-day.

An unusual development occurred at the auction hide sales yesterday.

Just as the sales were about to begin the chairman of the brokers announced that there would be no sale till Tuesday.

DAVID JONES, LTD., SYDNEY.

FOR THE MAN WHO WANTS QUALITY IN 2-PIECE SUITS,

—We have tailored some particularly smart Suits for this season's wear.

Primarily they are built with a view to fashionable wear—to perfection in washable suits for holiday vacation and warm-day wear in the city.

But also we would point out the magnificent value these garments impart. They are made without lining, but are nearly all hand worked to retain their shape. The long flat lapel and athletic shoulders are present. Two patch pockets are in coat, and the trousers are neatly fitting, and can be worn with either braces or belt.

The materials are very superior—striped designs of our own choosing—in new shades of Greys, Browns, and Blues that are not at present to be seen elsewhere in the city.

We can recommend these suits as something very special to men of good taste, as giving a smart style and distinctly superior fit at very moderate prices.

PRICES ARE: 25/, 30/, 35/, 42/.

THE SYDNEY MUFFS' DRAMATIC ACADEMY.

To those desirous of adopting THE STAGE AS A PROFESSION, no better medium is offered than through THE SYDNEY MUFFS' DRAMATIC ACADEMY, 376 GEORGE-STREET.

Pupils trained in every subject essential to a Stage Career. By the many city Performances of the Sydney Muffs Students of talent are brought under the notice of Regular Theatre Managers, and also have an opportunity of PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE IN THE STANLEY McKAY'S TOURING COMPANY.

Read what the Country Press has to say of this combination:—

"NIOBE—ALL SMILES."

This was the late Robert Brough's Favourite Comedy—a comedy which, in metropolitan centres, brought in much cash to the treasury. As presented by the Stanley McKay Company it lost little in effect. Frequently the players had to destroy the continuity because of the applause. The repertoire of this company is an ambitious one, but judging by last night's performance this talented company has not "bitten off more than it can chew."—Daily News, Lismore.

"THE MERCHANT OF VENICE."—Mr. Stanley McKay makes a real claim on our gratitude, and may well feel proud at the close of such a brilliant performance—the best and most elaborately staged five-act comedy ever played before a Grafton audience."—Grafton Examiner.

"We trust Mr. McKay and his high class company will, ere long, revisit Casino, where he will be heartily welcomed and remembered as the man who brought the best company Casino has seen."—Richmond River Express, Casino.

"DAVID GARRICK."—Mr. Stanley McKay's fine Shakespearian and Comedy Company were welcomed back to Lismore by a large audience. This speaks well for the versatility of the company and for the choice of play, for what may be excellent in its way is sometimes caviare to the few. The acting was of a high order, and nothing was lost in its presentation.—Northern Star, Lismore.

Get your Photograph taken in time for Christmas.

YOUR OWN PHOTOGRAPH
AS A CHRISTMAS OR WEDDING PRESENT.

A GREAT EFFORT.

Ever since we have been in Sydney we have made a special offer for our Christmas customers. Therefore we now make our and in doing so we assure our friends that we have bent our whole strength to make this positively the best offer ever made in first-class photography.

This is absolutely the most astounding value ever put BEFORE THE PUBLIC, viz., ONE DOZEN Cabinet Portraits, mounted, and an ENLARGEMENT on a specially-selected mount, and framed in a most expensive Frame, for 21/. Size of Frame, 26 x 22 inches.

NOTE.—The frames are of the best quality three-ply Veneer Imported Oak, the whole frame being cut out of a large sheet of oak, and in only one piece. There are no joins in it. Splendid value. Please call and see it. Truly a wonderful offer and marvellous value. SPECIMENS ARE NOW ON VIEW. Do not overlook it. The ENLARGEMENT is FRAMED at this price. To each sitter for this special offer we will supply proofs of different position WITHOUT EXTRA CHARGE; therefore everyone will be sure to get satisfactory results. It has taken us many years of constant effort to build up our splendid reputation for HIGH ART WORK, and our friends may feel assured that every order (even at this very low price) will receive our best attention, and the work will be our very best, and will prove a pleasure to our customer and a credit to our good name.

A SOCIAL CUSTOM.

Every year we are charmed by tokens of love from friends who help to make life happy by their silent messages and fraternal greetings, with the season's compliments, in a well-chosen Christmas Card. The more chaste and artistic the card the more pleasure it gives. Many desire something quite new in this direction, something that will excite admiration and inspire thoughts of love. It is indeed to send your photograph as a Christmas present, especially when it is the work of a master artist, and finished with artistic taste and mounted in our up-to-date style. Our Cabinet and Paris Panel Mounts are choice examples of the combined skill of the mechanic and artist, and supports a photograph

RICH IN ARTISTIC MERIT.

This combination of mount and photograph is admitted by artists to be

AN IDEAL LOVE TOKEN.

KODAK SELF-TONING PAPER APPEALS TO AMATEURS AND PROFESSIONALS.

* PRINTING PAPERS can be divided into two classes—those that are good and those that are good for nothing. If the Photographer is wise he'll always choose the good kind, and if he makes a rule of relying on KODAK SELF-TONING PAPER then his satisfaction will be assured, for it always gives splendid results. It's a Collodio Chloride paper, which yields very agreeable tones by simply fixing in the Hypo Fixing Bath. It is remarkably easy to work, and tones quickly and evenly.

MANDOLINIST!
When we claim superiority for the CHEAPEST "Gibson" Mandolin over the MOST EXPENSIVE of any other make, it is surely worth investigating. It costs you nothing. In "Gibson" construction due attention has been paid to the law of acoustics and the value of artistic outline; graduated soundboards and backs, not bent, but carved out of solid blocks of wood, leaving the grain layers in their natural position, free for vibration. Suspended guard-plate, no ribs or braces to become unglued. "Gibsons" are sold on easy monthly payments, with no increase on net catalogue price. The best only is worth buying. "INVINCIBLE" ENGINES NEVER STRIKE.
You can always rely on them. They KEEP GOING under the most strenuous conditions, because they are STRONG, HIGH-GRADE ENGINES, built for STEADY SERVICE and PERMANENT SATISFACTION.
TO BE SURE, BUY AN "INVINCIBLE."
Whether you want to run around the Harbour or go Five Hundred Miles to Sea, the "INVINCIBLE" is the Engine for you. The German Government's "Meewe," with a 66-h.p. "Invincible," went from here to the Solomons, and has done a three-months' trip around the Islands, the engine giving splendid satisfaction each day and every day.
We are pleased to be able to say that we have plenty of power at Woolwich, the coal supply being reckoned to be equal to two months. So we shall keep steadily on making "Invincibles." The big trade we are doing has meant a very busy time for our works. The reason is the steady growth of PUBLIC APPROVAL.
INVINCIBLE MOTOR CONSTRUCTION CO., Works and Head Office, Woolwich. Town Office and Show Rooms, 25 Pitt-street.

Messrs. Waugh and Josephson.
Dear Sirs,—
We have the pleasure to inform you that the 8-h.p. double-cylinder "Standard" Engine which you installed in our boat, replacing another make of engine, has given us the greatest satisfaction.
We consider the "Standard" Engines to be more economical, powerful, and reliable than any other make of engine on our markets.
Our boat is engaged in the Fishing Industry on the Coast, and we are out in all kinds of weathers, and have never once had any difficulty with the engine.
Yours faithfully,
(Sgd.) ERNEST C. SMITHERS.

THE GIRL WITH THE RED HAIR.

A STORY OF AN UNDERGRADUATE, RELATED BY ONE OF HIS SET, AND EDITED BY MAX PEMBERTON.

CHAPTER I.

ERIK AND MONA.

I did not understand until the curtain fell why Erik had been the only one amongst us who did not laugh at the tragedy; but then I understood and wondered.

Of course, he was in love with her. It would have been just as impossible to doubt it as to ascribe learning, wisdom, or modesty to the Three Musketeers who had accompanied us to the play—though why they were called the Three Musketeers, if it were not for their habit of slouching across the court, arm in arm, and with their backs bent as though by the weight of their knapsacks, I really cannot say.

Which is to tell you in a word that all these events about to be narrated began in the second year of the gods presently to be named, and that it has fallen to my lot to speak of you of Erik and his fortunes—Erik, the Norseman, the leader of leaders, the mystery.

How it ever came about that so serious a minded man as Erik of Calmar—as they called him in his own Sweden—made friends of the frivolous set in the college, how it came about I don't know. Perhaps he liked to contrast his own earnestness of purpose with the merely human weakness of the four who were his inseparable companions; to say nothing of myself, who made a fifth of an epicene or merely neutral order where scholarship was concerned.

I had gone up to Cambridge to get a blue if I could, and a degree if the river permitted. My good father cared, I think, more for the river than the schools; and I do believe he would sooner that I had rowed stroke in the Cambridge eight than have been a Senior Optime upon a doubtful knowledge of mathematics which would have been no good at all in Throgmorton-street. So it didn't matter to me; but as Erik said, Tassy, the doctor, would have been an idiot to get ploughed, for he had a good practice waiting for him in Derbyshire, while as for Jack Drake, the parson's son, he would go to the devil in a motor car if he didn't get a degree.

Jack, you should know, was the first of the Three Musketeers, and as good an actor as ever trod the boards. He could speak French like Henry Bue himself, and once when he was "progged" he pretended to be a Frenchman, and the proctor, who could only stammer, "Je ne parle pas Francais," had to walk away because the crowd laughed at him. Jack followed him all down St. Andrew's-street, gesticulating and speaking Paris slang until at last the fellow almost cried with rage and humiliation. This was but one of a hundred exploits which helped us to apologise when we called him d'Artagnan; and I will say that, as a swordsman, Jack had few equals in any salle d'escrime in England—for his father was once chaplain at Montreux, and his son had lived quite half his life in France.

Athos was Arthur Ainsworth, a slim cynic, whom you could not dislike if you tried. He had to be called Athos to make up the trio; but he used to say he was an agnostic, and get himself excused from chapel after breakfasting with the Dean during his first term. That was the famous occasion upon which he declared if he were really inclined to any religion at all it was to the Shintoism of the Japanese. This impressed the Dean very much; but as Ainsworth had a letter from his people, and they were both living in Japan, he got off, and used to play golf every Sunday at Worlington. So, as he said, there was something in Shintoism after all—especially when you were on your game.

Porthos I know you would have just loved. He was so fat, and everyone likes fat men. When he came up, they tried to make him row, but none of the clinker eights was wide enough for him, and old Tom, the boatman, said he'd be —— if the gentleman would go into a barge. So they gave him up, and afterwards he took to golf, too, and used to cut chapels on Sunday to play with Ainsworth. His real name was Cooke, and his father lived at King's Lynn, and was a very Low Churchman and a teetotaller. I remember that he came to see his son at Cambridge once, and for three days Cooke had to drink mineral water, which, as he said, was bad not only for the excise but for the constitution. They all lunched with me one day, and when it came to passing the audit round, I apologised for offering the tankard to Cooke, "for," said I, "we all know you never take it." This pleased his father very much, and when he had gone away we had a little dinner and a bottle of champagne each for our pains.

Tassy, the doctor, I have told you about. He came from Melton, and was a rare fine horseman. He would have made a much better musketeer than the others; but his big practice waiting him if he could pass depressed him very much.

Now, these four fellows all went with Erik and myself on the night we first saw Mona Craven. I remember that Tassy and I had to go in with one ticket because the stalls were full; so we tore his into halves, and put each half into a separate envelope. By the time the attendant had discovered it we were lost to sight.

The play, I would remark, was styled a drama, and there was a wonderful peer with brown boots and a frock coat in it.

The peer made love to a dancing girl on the cliffs at Cromer. They danced a two-step, during which the peer's bowler hat blew over the cliff, and he hit his son on the head with an umbrella because he expressed some pious sentiments. Afterwards the peer opened a coffee shop in the Old Kent Road, and all the smart people went there to discover which of them had stolen the diamond.

The thing would have been hooted off but for Mona Craven, who played the part of the dancing girl, and played it with such real charm and spirit that every man in the audience stood up and cheered her as though she had been Ellen Terry.

Now I must say from the very beginning that Mona—for really after all the strange events of the last few months, I cannot call her by any other name—I must say that Mona was altogether a different kind of actress from those you would expect to find in such a play as "The Son's Dead Heart." She had a style about her I cannot describe, and while she was very tall, and her figure quite beautiful, she danced with a lightness and grace I have rarely seen equalled upon the stage. What struck me as even more remarkable was her evident interest in that shabby story; for she played the most worthless scenes as though she believed in them, and when she cried in the last act because the peer in the brown boots sent his son to America to marry cold bacon, you could actually see the tears on her cheek.

I am not a seer where other men's love affairs are concerned, and Erik is not a man to wear his heart upon his sleeve, but I do think it was Mona's earnestness which first won his attention. He had sniffed at the melodrama through three terrible acts; but when Mona danced he never took his eyes off her. And, as I said at the beginning, while we were all shouting for the peer in the brown boots at the end of the play, and laughing disgracefully because the son had stabbed himself with a paper knife, Erik sat quite silent, and watched for Mona to appear. The way he applauded her in the end would have betrayed him, if nothing else had done; and I knew he was in love with her before he had left the theatre.

Erik in love! Erik, the cousin of kings, as d'Artagnan Drake will call him when he is in a flowery mood. Had it been any other it wouldn't have mattered a snap of the fingers. Cooke, I knew, played the Porthosian part regularly each vac. There is always the photo. of a pretty girl upon his mantel, and he changes them every term, getting, as Ainsworth says, thin ones for the summer, and something heavier for the cold season. It wouldn't have turned a head had he applauded Mona, nor should we have listened to the cynical Ainsworth, who would have quoted Otway, I suppose, and spoken of "damnable deceptive woman." But that Erik, the son of wisdom, should have done this thing was something to set one thinking—and think I did all the way back.

Perhaps I should have spoken to Erik about it then and there but for the fact that a man had introduced himself to our party during the entr'-acte, and had come right back to the porter's lodge. Then, of course, he was stopped, for it was after ten o'clock; and when he learned that he could not come in his annoyance was touching.

"What a queer idea!" he said, pulling a heavy black moustache, and standing first on one leg and then on the other. "Do you mean to say they shut you up like ducklings?"

"Yes," said I. "To keep out the rats," and at that Porthos nearly choked.

"Well," says the fellow, "I shall be down here all the week, for I'm in charge of the front of the house while this show is running. Suppose I look you up to-morrow afternoon about tea-time. My name's Aliot, Captain Aliot. Yours, I think, is Macgregor?"

He looked at me while he spoke, and I looked back at him.

"MacWalker is my name," said I. "My father took it after the famous engagement at Bunkum Hill."

"Oh, come," said he. "I am sure we have met, but if you have forgotten the circumstance——"

"Indeed, no," said I, for a sudden idea had come to me. "I remember it perfectly well, and shall be very glad to see you to-morrow at four."

He thanked me and said "Good-night."

I had really asked him in to discover what I could of Mona Craven, if possible to introduce her to my friend Erik.

So Captain Aliot came to my rooms at four o'clock precisely. He was quite a man of the world, but one whom the world had knocked about considerably; and you might have thought that his smart clothes had been rubbing against the edge of the world's wardrobe for a long while past.

What amazed me was that Erik had not come as he promised. It was rather a poor return to me; and when we talked about Mona Craven, and the captain declared that she would be the greatest actress in England in three years' time, I rather thought that Erik had made a fool of himself, and would admit as much by and by.

Immediately after the tea things were taken away Jack Drake suggested a game of "blind hookey," and the captain fell into the trap without a murmur.

I had guessed he was a card-sharper, and when he produced a pack of cards from his pocket and remarked that it was odd they should be there, I said that it was not only odd but lucky: and this was so, for the best part of our pack was already in Jack's boot, while Ainsworth and Cooke had stuffed their sleeves with aces taken from miscellaneous rooms, whereof the owners played bridge. So we were quite ready for the captain.

And firstly the stakes we played for.

Cooke began by betting Ainsworth seven hundred pounds, and paying him in counters. As I knew that Cooke's worldly capital was about three pounds ten at that particular moment, it was splendid to see the way he carried himself, and the dramatic pose he took when Ainsworth won, and merely paused to remark with Horace that increasing wealth is apt to be troublesome. The three of clubs had turned up, I should tell you, and it came to Jack Drake to bet next, whereupon he remarked that Ainsworth was always a lucky dog, and that he would begin now, say a mere hundred and fifty as a start. These bets, made in all seriousness, opened the captain's eyes, and when it came to his turn, he almost blushed when he said: "Oh, a sovereign," and won. Ainsworth paid him immediately with an old ivory counter, having a picture of the devil upon it, and he was in two minds whether to take it or not.

"They say it's a good likeness, perhaps you know," Ainsworth remarked with a laugh. The captain answered: "Not yet," and upon my word I think he meant it.

"Well," said Ainsworth, "there's plenty of time," and then he dealt again, and Cooke immediately bet fourteen hundred against the bank and lost it. He said "d——n" so naturally that he would have deceived anyone; and when he added that he would have to sell Angelos, and that they were at a rotten price, the captain looked at him for a full minute as though he couldn't make head or tail of him.

"Do you hold Kaffirs?" he asked.

"No," said Cooke. "Not when I can let go of them."

"I could introduce you to a broker," the captain went on; but Cooke stopped him immediately.

"Thank you," he said. "I do my own breaking," and turning immediately on Jack, he swore he had been cheating.

"What are you doing with your boot?" he asked pointedly.

Jack said that he was smoothing out the tongue, whereupon Cooke laughed defiantly.

"The tongue's in your cheek," he said. "I saw you take the ace of hearts out of your sleeve."

"Sir," said Jack, rising majestically, and as he did so, the cards fell out of his sleeves like bills out of a woman's pocket. "Sir, do you insult me?"

"Certainly," said Cooke, and he stood up tragically and pointed a stern finger at Jack, while the ace of diamonds was sticking out of his cuff all the time, and he pretending to be quite unconscious of it. Then the captain rose, and bade us farewell.

"This is not the kind of game to which I am accustomed," he remarked severely. Ainsworth immediately rejoined that he was sorry to hear it, for he thought he would have been very much at home at it; whereupon the captain took his hat and his gloves and marched straight to the door with his chin in the air, and the devil in his eyes.

NOTES.

In the recent team match between the Tramway Club and the Glebe Workers' Institute the former was represented by Messrs. A. E. Vore (captain), T. Young, C. Aveling, G. Murden, J. Oakley, A. Saunders, E. Walters, E. Sachanthal, A. Hammer, H. Burling; the Glebe by Messrs. W. A. Cobbin (captain), R. Rixon, V. Richards, J. Ball, G. M'Leod, J. Young, R. Houston, W. Fortescue, T. Vallancy, D. M'Kenzie, and C. Newberry.

A team match between the Rozelle Mechanics' Institute Draughts Club and the Leichhardt Institute was played a few days ago at Leichhardt with eight a side. Result: Rozelle, 16 wins; Leichhardt, 11 wins; and 5 drawn.

Mr. S. Brown has challenged to play Mr. J. Drury, the champion of New South Wales, for the title and a stake of £10 or £20 a side, and has posted a forfeit. He says that if it is not covered in a reasonable time he will claim the title.

A sweepstake tournament on lines of the recent Australasian tourney, I believe, would be popular, there being many first-class players in the city and suburbs who would take part.

THE SECRET OF YOUTH.

De Soto looked for the secret of youth in a spring of gushing, life-giving waters, which he was sure he would find in the New World. Alchemists and sages (thousands of them) have spent their lives in quest for it, but it is only found by those happy people who can digest and assimilate the right food which keeps the physical body perfect that peace and comfort are the sure results.

A remarkable man of 94 says, "For many long years I suffered more or less with chronic costiveness and painful indigestion. This condition made life a great burden to me, as you may well imagine.

"Two years ago I began to use Grape-Nuts as food, and am thankful that I did. It has been a blessing to me in every way. I first noticed that it had restored my digestion. This was a great gain, but was nothing to compare in importance with the fact that in a short time my bowels were restored to free and normal action.

"The cure seemed to be complete; for two years I have had none of the old trouble. I use the Grape-Nuts food every morning for breakfast and frequently eat nothing else. The use has made me comfortable and happy, and although I will be 94 years old next fall, I have become strong and supple again, erect in figure, and can walk with any body and enjoy it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Michigan. "There's a reason."

CURRENT LITERATURE.

THE AMERICAN EGYPT.

Under this title Channing Arnold and Tabor Frost write an exceedingly interesting record of travel in Yucatan. The authors thoroughly explored the uncivilised north-east portion of the peninsula and the islands of the eastern coast. Mayan archeology has attracted many American, German, and French workers, but the authors claim to be the first Englishmen who have seriously studied Yucatan. The field is a fascinating one. Within it lie the unsolved problems of American ethnology. Whence came the Mayan civilisation, with an architecture that rivals Egypt? Were its creators in any sense members of the American Indian race? And if so, how did they evolve their architecture from the snowhouse of the Eskimo or the wigwam of the Sioux? The authors take up an original attitude. They assert that the Mayan race is not extinct, and that the oldest Yucatan ruins do not date back more than six centuries. In a word their theory is that these buildings were the work of Buddhist immigrants from Java and Indo-China. The Mayans, they say, belong to the Appalachian stock, and the mythical Toltecs were identical with them, this being merely the name given by the invading Aztecs to the inhabitants of Mexico. The wildest theories have been suggested for the date and origin of the Yucatan ruins. Le Plogeon advanced the view that the Mayans taught architecture to the ancient Egyptians, and dated their civilisation at its zenith back 11,500 years. But the isolation of these ruins, the absence of any evidence of evolution in building skill, and the lack of buildings throughout the rest of the continent all suggest an exotic origin for the art, and in that case it may be relatively recent. If the origin of the architecture is to be found in Asia, then it was not brought at any time by migrating tribes across the Behring Straits, for in that case traces of it would be found along their line of route to the south. They must have come direct to Central America by sea, and this reduces their migration to a late date. With China and Japan the buildings show little affinity, and on the other hand India and the Malay Peninsula can produce some striking parallels. The buildings of Central America were, with few exceptions, raised on pyramids, and the truncated pyramid is characteristic of Buddhist art. The Mayan arch, made of stones, over-lapping like an inverted staircase, is found in ancient Buddhist edifices and nowhere else. The authors collect a mass of detail in support of their argument, and then proceed to discover parallels between Buddhism and the Mayan religion—where they are on much less safe ground. They then discuss the question how their immigrants got across the Pacific, and point out that there are currents that would take them pretty directly to Central America, without following the famous Japan current up the Pacific coast of Asia, and down that of North America. Their theory is best tested by an examination of the age of the buildings concerned. It has been usual to assign a remote and romantic antiquity to these ruins. The authors think that the earliest can be shown to be not older than the ninth century, while the latest belong to just before the Spanish conquest in 1517. Another interesting problem is the origin and meaning of the Mayan hieroglyphics, to which so far no certain key has been found. Many of the signs are now supposed to be merely numerals: others are signs for the days and months—there were twenty days in the Mayan month, and eighteen "months" in the Mayan year. It seems that no alphabet can be formed from the glyphs. Beyond these arguments the book is an excellent volume of travel, fully illustrated, and dealing in a most interesting way with the Yucatan of to-day. (Dymock.)

A LIFE OF WOLFE.

Mr. Beckles Willson has produced a very readable volume in "The Life and Letters of James Wolfe." Naturally the chief interest is in the large collection of hitherto unpublished letters which, taken together, give a remarkable composite photograph of the young soldier who took Quebec. Another striking feature of the volume is the large number of illustrations that have been collected with tireless patience and admirably reproduced. The reader may see the room where Wolfe was born in Westerham vicarage, and follow the story in picture and portrait down to the silk dressing gown worn by General Wolfe in the camp at Montmorency, the gown in which his body was brought to England. The letters form almost a detailed record of Wolfe's military life from his first campaigning in Flanders and the Rochefort expedition to the Quebec command. A letter written four months before the taking of the city shows that Wolfe had already determined the course of events. Mr. Willson tells the story of the famous siege with great vigour and a wealth of detail; but Wolfe's own official correspondence is even more graphic and telling in its simplicity and directness. The biographer is enthusiast enough to defend with all arms the legend about the recital of Gray's Elegy; but he adduces nothing beyond the customary evidence. Mr. Willson in general is rather more the enthusiast than the critic, but this does not make his book the less readable, and the narrative may be subjected to judicious discount now and then. Wolfe's letters begin in boyhood, and the earliest of them are not the least interesting. (Bell.)

SOUTHERN RHODESIA.

In "Southern Rhodesia" (Bell) Mr. Percy Hone gives a good, though decidedly solid, account of the administrative and industrial development of Southern Rhodesia since its occupation by the British South Africa Company. The charter was granted in 1889, and it covers an immense tract of 440,000 square miles, stretching from the Transvaal to Lake Tanganyika. Mr. Hone confines himself to the southern portion, including 148,575 square miles. The Boer war, with its prologue and epilogue, accounts for a long period of stagnation, in which the record of the territory was mainly one of failures, as a result of which the British investor lost heart. During the last few years, however, a brighter outlook has begun to dawn. Mr. Hone briefly describes the country and its people. The white population numbers something over 15,000. Salisbury and Bulawayo have about 5000 between them. These towns are laid out, optimistically, on the American fashion with regular wide streets and avenues. A problem to which we are unaccustomed is at once suggested by the fact that the two provinces of Southern Rhodesia, Matabeleland and Mashonaland, have between them a native population of over half a million. Every native is registered, and the system seems to be working well. In addition thousands of aliens enter the territory every year, seeking for work, a proportion of whom settle down permanently, and perhaps marry a native wife. Natives not directly employed by whites are segregated in large areas reserved for them. Comparatively few of them can be persuaded to work. Physically Southern Rhodesia is a vast tableland some thousands of feet above sea-level; and the climate is therefore not severely tropical. The seasons are regular, and the rainfall of about 32 inches constant. Mr. Hone gives a careful study of the government of the territory, erring perhaps on the side of minute detail. Naturally there has been a constant agitation on the part of the whites for representative institutions, but of late years the general prosperity has reacted in favour of the administration. As to farming, the great set-back has been the outbreak of rinderpest, said to have been brought from the north by game in 1895, which destroyed Rhodesian cattle by the thousand. This was followed in 1901 by African coast fever, which spread still worse havoc. In an ironic kind of way, however, these pests have encouraged agriculture. Indian corn is the principal product, but English cereals have been grown with success; though until a rust-resisting wheat is bred there is little to hope for in this direction. Tobacco is profitably cultivated, both Turkish and Virginian varieties. Both crops and live stock still suffer severely from the ravages of wild animals. A full account is given of early mining legislation, and of the ordinances at present in vogue, the tendency at present being to encourage small workers. Notwithstanding all reverses, the gold output has advanced by leaps and bounds, until Rhodesia has become the fourth greatest gold-producing colony of the Empire. A good steam coal is found in thick seams. Perhaps the most suggestive parts of the book are those that discuss the administration of the country by the Chartered Company as a commercial enterprise. The Chartered Company has made great mistakes, but it has learned lessons from them, and its methods are now reasonably well calculated to promote general prosperity.

A KIPLING BOOK.

Macmillan and Co. publish Mr. Rudyard Kipling's new volume "Actions and Re-actions." The title itself suggests a certain lack of spontaneity, a certain growth of introspection, and each of the sixteen stories here collected has, in fact, some "intention" at the back of it—whereby it is so much the less a story, and so much the more a presentiment of Kipling philosophy, a philosophy as wide as a church door, but not as broad as the ditch the genuine philosopher has to jump to 'scape the life to come. Mr. Kipling long since proved himself a man of immense talent, and no genius, and this book suggests a composite photograph of the talent. That the stories are clever goes without saying; that they fail to break new ground might have been foretold; that they have come to be craftsmanship rather than nature might have been expected. But of their cleverness there is, except in one case, no doubt. Of their subtle suggestion of the Kipling view of the Empire there is no doubt either. It comes out directly in such a potent allegory as the "Mother Hive," with its detail of corruption by an intrusive wax-moth; but it underlies the first story, for instance, of an American millionaire, broken down with nerve strain, who feels the call of English country life stirring some unexpected thing in his blood, or in the farce without humour called "The Puzzler," wherein a certain maker of Empire is shown in the attitude vulgarly known as "off the chain." And to stress these applications Mr. Kipling to many of his apologues appends a copy of verses in which the moral is specifically set forth. This is certainly autobiography, but it fails to be art. The book in fact is a "multum in parvo" of Kiplingese. A good percentage of the stories are faint remembered things from the days of "Soldiers Three," less the crude power and freshness of the original, and plus a certain new insight. Psychologically perhaps the cleverest thing in the book is "The House Surgeon," a thrice superfined ghost story. Perhaps the most inane is "With the Night Mail." In this Mr. Kipling anticipates A.D. 2000. He opens with a run to Quebec in an aerial postal packet (a dirigible), in which we incidentally learn that the A.B.C. (Aerial Board of Control) has superseded international politics. The treatment is a caricature of "The Ship that Found Herself"—a medley of minute engineering detail that one suspects will not stand analysis. Worse still come the pseudo regulations of the board, and lists of casualties for the week, followed by notes from an aero-magazine, and specimens of its advertisements. All this seems feeble in the extreme, and it has no saving grace of humour. But there is no other such lapse from high intent, and the book as a whole is worth reading.

A BUSH CALENDAR.

Amy E. Mack's "A Bush Calendar" (Angus and Robertson) is a very pleasant narrative of nature study. The letterpress originally appeared on the "Women's Page" of this journal, but most readers will agree that it was worth putting into permanently accessible form. The author is master of a pleasant, descriptive style, which is carefully kept at the same level throughout; but, what is perhaps more important, she knows her Australian bush thoroughly at first hand. Without pretending to be science, her descriptions are scientific, inasmuch as they report clearly and simply things seen. The calendar begins with August. A chapter is given to each month, brightly enunciating some characteristic experiences, and concluding with a careful list of flowers blooming, birds arriving or breeding, and so on. In book form, the narrative gains materially from many beautifully-executed photographic illustrations; and the printing is all that can be wished. For the Sydney-sider, it makes as dainty and satisfactory a gift-book for inquiring youth and meditative eld as could be wished.

RECENT FICTION.

Mr. E. W. Hornung has resurrected Raffles. "Mr. Justice Raffles" (Bell) is taken up with practically a single exploit of the cricketer-cracksman, in which he pits himself against Dan Levy, an unscrupulous money-lender. There are some comedy turns in this struggle, but for the most part it is rather deadly. Raffles constitutes himself guardian deity to the Garlands, father and son, both of whom were in the Jew's clutches. When he rescued the boy by a smart piece of work, the Jew became exceedingly vindictive, and tried to trap Raffles. This was a foolish thing to do, and incidentally led to the "trial" of Levy by "Mr. Justice Raffles"—the scene gives the book its title. We are not quite sure that Mr. Hornung has given us the same old Raffles, but the story is interesting and readable enough.

Nowell Griffith's "Dorrien Carfax" (Bell) is a lengthy and ambitious novel, with chapter headings after the manner of the late Charles Dickens. There are no less than fifty of these chapters. The Carfax family had fallen on evil days, and in 1872 sold the Old Hall and migrated to Canada. Here William Carfax took to drink and drugs, and Dorrien Carfax was born. His mother took him back to England, and settled in a little village in Hampshire, where there was a friendly vicar, who taught the child. After that, by the friendliness of the vicar, Dorrien went to a preparatory, and in due course to a public school—all told with immense prolixity. Then he went to Oxford, and did quite usual things for several chapters. Then he became a tutor in Park-lane, under the guidance of the Countess of Gallantly; and this naturally brings in the beautiful Wanda. Incidentally, so far there has been much preaching against English methods of education in general; but Dorrien settled down with his tutorship, and presently the whole household went to New York, and then to Canada. By that time Dorrien had made up his mind to marry Wanda. Gradually a tangle of melodrama comes into the tale, and we begin to see something of the nature of a plot—but its coming is too long delayed, and the author involved in its intricacies forgets why he told us so much about Dorrien in the first half of his book.

A. Whisper's "Black Mark" (Blackwood) is an eighteenth century costume story, with highwaymen in the foreground. Letty, madcap for adventure, dresses in her brother Lord Beander's clothes, and meets the redoubtable Black Mark. Fred had taught her to fence well, but she was no match for Mark in swordsmanship. As luck had it, the highwayman learned, when the sword went flying out of her hand, that he had been fighting a girl. So begins a pretty enough romance, successfully handled, though with no attempt at the pseudo-romantic style of prose. Letty was only seventeen, and she loved "darling Mark" with all her heart. Of course he was a Montagu: led to the roads by gaming and killing people in duels and so forth. Naturally, when he told all this Letty saw nothing particularly wicked in it, and a priest married them out of hand. The end could only be tragedy, but the reader could hardly wish it otherwise. The story is quite one of the best of its kind.

Mr. Batson's "The Gay Paradines" (Stanley Paul) is another successful excursion into the eighteenth century. The story is a full one, but the elaboration of it is done with no little skill. The central character is Anne, Lady Paradine's little daughter. Lady Paradine was exceedingly religious, and her family were not. So she thought it best to trust baby Anne to the godly sister of a servant, and in the way of romance Anne was lost for a long time, and handed over to the parish. The details of this picture are carefully and convincingly worked in and made to dovetail with the complex doings of the "gay" Paradines. A good deal of space is given to working out the industrial conditions of the period, and a good deal more to its peculiar religious experiences. Anne was apprenticed to a farmer, and a certain Mr. William Paradine soon found himself very much in love with her—in natural ignorance of who she was. In the meantime she married a young farmer. When he learns of the complications with William he determines to sell his unlucky wife in the market-place. Sold she was for 10 guineas to William himself with a halter round her neck. Immediately afterwards the repentant farmer shot himself—he was a very religious man. The workmanship of the narrative is good throughout, and at the back of it is a careful study of the social features of the period.

"The Secret Terror" (Stanley Paul), by "Brenda," is a dramatic story with a military setting. It opens in Simla, where a major has married an exceedingly plain young woman without any obvious reason. The story tells how he came to do it. The style is somewhat crude, and the narrative does not work out very smoothly, but it reveals the sordid lot of an elder sister of the young officer who has taken to secret drinking. The plain Harriet Sorby came to the rescue when the crash came, and five years later Anthony married her out of love and gratitude.

Two readable examples of Stanley Paul's shilling fiction are Noel Williams' "A Ten-round Penalty" and E. R. Chatterton's "Marriages of Mayfair." The first is a racing story, just the thing for those who appreciate the jargon of the king of sport, and to such it may be cordially recommended. The second is an adaptation of the well-known Drury Lane success of Cecil Raleigh and Henry Hamilton. It brings out the points of the story, and makes as bright and attractive a novel as it did a play.

SHORTER NOTICES.

The Diocesan Book Society, Melbourne, forwards "Christian Citizenship," a series of addresses given in St. Paul's Cathedral, Melbourne, during last August and September. The lectures deal with such topics as the Christian as employer or shareholder, the Christian as employee, home and family life, and the Church in relation to social and economic change.

The many friends of Archdeacon D'Arcy-Irvine will be pleased to know that his little volume of "Poems" has reached a third edition, copies of which ar enow to hand. Six or seven new poems add to the interest of the volume.

Notes by Mr. L. S. Crakanthorp.

(a) This square would be better reserved for the queen's knight.
(b) The bishop might as well return at once.
(c) Neither does this retreat seem advisable.
(d) A pure blunder. KtxB is obviously better.
(e) In view of the strong attack upon white's king given by the position of the knight, this capture seems unnecessary, but in these two-hour games the fear of the adjudicator is the beginning of wisdom.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

Mme. Ada Crossley, who has been appearing constantly since her return to England, joined Mme. de Navarro (Mary Anderson) in assisting on October 6 at the opening of Harvard House, Stratford-on-Avon, by the American Ambassador (Mr. Whitelaw Reid), her own contribution being that long and rambling melody, "The Star-Spangled Banner." It seems that through the influence of Miss Marie Corelli, who lives at Stratford, the old house has been presented to Harvard University, U.S.A., by one Edward Morris, of Chicago. It will be kept in sixteenth century order, and will be doubtless visited by numberless Americans as the years roll on. Harvard House was the home, in her girlhood, of Katharine Rogers, the mother of John Harvard (founder of the University), who was a neighbour, and most probably a friend, of William Shakespeare. The singing took place in the old pannelled music-room of "Mason Croft," the house of Miss Corelli, where more than a hundred distinguished people were entertained at lunch. A week or two earlier the Australian contralto was engaged for the ancient "Three Choirs Festival" at Hereford, singing both in the "Messiah," and in Beethoven's "Mass in D." The "Times" regarded the quartet of solo artists in the mass as unequal, adding that Mme. Crossley and Mr. Elwes "did splendid work," whilst the "Standard" more specifically states that "Miss Ada Crossley and Mr. Gervase Elwes seemed to be the only members of the quartet who possessed the vocal ability to properly perform the music." The probable explanation is that the music was difficult, and not usually in a soloist's regular repertoire. On September 25 the Australian contralto sang Elgar's "Sea Pictures" at Newcastle with the London Symphony Orchestra, when Sir Edward Elgar conducted, and when the mail left she had just appeared in the opening day of the famous Birmingham Festival in the "Elijah," which was originally produced there with Mendelssohn as conductor. The favourite contralto was to sing again in the "Elijah" at the Royal Albert Hall (London) on November 4, and was to meet similar engagements until Christmas, when she was to appear with Miss Agnes Nicholls, and our one-time visitors, Mr. William Green and Mr. Watkin Mills, in the "Messiah" at Leeds.

The revival of "The Silver King" at the Theatre Royal to-night will bring Mr. G. S. Titheradge into his own again after a lapse of nearly five-and-twenty years. The first production of the drama in Australia was on October 27, 1883, with the late Arthur Garner as the Spider, the late Arthur Redwood as Father Christmas, the late Phil Day as Jaikes, and Miss Annie Mayor as Nellie Denver. Since that period no play ever written has been produced in this part of the world as often as this early effort of Henry Arthur Jones and Henry Hermann, who were undoubtedly assisted by the authorship and invention of the late Wilson Barrett—the original Wilfred Denver, at the Princess's Theatre in November, 1882. These Australian revivals have sometimes been memorable for casts in which all the parts from top to bottom have been well played. Mr. Titheradge was the hero of several of the early revivals in 1884-1885-1886, after which the Silver Kings in the order of their accession to the throne of popular favour in this city furnish the following remarkable list:—Lawrence Cautley, George Rignold, Edward Sass (who had previously appeared here as the Spider), Walter Bentley, Scot Inglis, King Hedley, Wilson Barrett (1888 and December, 1901), Harry Plimmer (who appears as the Spider this evening), Julius Knight (Palace Theatre, 1906, and Theatre Royal, 1907), and now G. S. Titheradge once again in 1909. On almost every occasion there has been a different Dan'l Jaikes, and during one long run two, so that a second list of nearly equal interest is forthcoming:—Phil Day, H. H. Vincent, G. W. Anson, J. R. Greville, Sterling Whyte, Bland Holt, Lachlan M'Gowan, William Elton, Harry R. Roberts, D'Arcy Stanfield, Horace Hodge, Herbert Leigh, G. P. Carey, Hubert Willis, and now Eardley Turner. Amongst the many Nellie Denvers recollection dwells fondly on Henrietta Watson, the most forcible and sympathetic of them all, Lilah MacCarthy, and Maud Jeffries.

Mme. Mabel Neima, an operatic soprano born in Yorkshire, but most of whose life has been spent in Milan, has arrived here to make a brief stay whilst transacting business affairs. The newcomer, who was known as a child-actress, under Mrs. Nye Chart at the Brighton Theatre Royal, whilst at school in Paris visited the Marchesi Academy, where her elder sister was having lessons. Her voice was tried, and Mme. Marchesi declared, "It is you, rather than your sister, who should be here." On her return to Milan, Mme. Neima accordingly sang to Signor Tito Ricordi, the great connoisseur and publisher, who advised her to study under Signor Guarino, a famous teacher, with whom, and others, she worked for five years. After her concert debut in Milan, the youthful soprano was engaged for a long tour of India, Java, Batavia, and Singapore in such roles as Martha, and the Queen in "Les Hugenots." This was seven years ago, and the following year she was engaged at the Teatro Dal Verme (Milan), and sang throughout Italy in a repertoire which, including Margherita and La Tosca, gradually embraced a score of different characters. Two or three years ago the lyric soprano visited South America and Brazil, and the carnival season before last at the Oporto Opera found her supporting Carpi, the Italian star tenor, whose fee was £100 a night, and Signora Fabri, a mezzo famous for her Orfeo, who received 15,000 francs for the short season. Towards the end of last year Mme. Neima was singing at the Malta Opera House, where the season lasted until May, 1909, and she brings with her many highly favourable press notices, as well as decorative programmes recording her appearance before the Duke and Duchess of Connaught at the San Antonio Palace. The singer then returned to Milan, where she had an interesting interview with Signor Hazon, in which he put her au courant as to the social and climatic advantages of Sydney, where it is to be hoped the prima donna may make a few appearances before sailing once more for the Land of Song.

The revival of "The Merry Widow" for the Melbourne races carnival has proved so popular that the Royal Comic Opera Company will not make any change until next Saturday, when Sardou's "The Lady Dandies" will be introduced in the sister capital. Miss Rosina Buckmann, recognised as one of the finest stage-singers in Australia ever since her Sydney debut in Alfred Hill's "A Moorish Maid" in April, 1906, is at last to have a trial with this combination, opening in the work named as Illyrine to the Lodoiska of Miss Florence Young. Illyrine, vocally a brilliant character, was played in Sydney by Miss Fanny Dango, who was necessarily overweighted in it, and the re-formed cast, with Mr. Reginald Roberts in the principal success of his career as Dorlis, should prove highly effective. The Royal Comic Opera Company will possess yet a third brilliant soprano voice before the end of the year, as Miss Fannie Bauer, fresh from her Continental experiences, is due by the Morea in mid-December.

At the Melbourne Theatre Royal the new edition of "Cinderella" has drawn to a close, and this evening the Clarke-Meynell-Gunn firm will revive "The Girl Behind the Counter," which has not yet been produced in Sydney, where it is expected to form the Christmas attraction at the Criterion. This firm will shortly bring out Mr. George Willoughby and 10 new artists, who are now in London rehearsing "The Night of the Party," under the direction of the author, Mr. Weedon Grossmith. Mr. Charles A. Wenman, stage director of the Cinderella Comic Opera Company, has just reached Fremantle on his way back from London, where he has been completing arrangements for the early production of "The Arcadians." His stay in the metropolis was brief, but he several times saw "The Arcadians," which was in the middle of a tremendous run at the Shaftesbury, and was also pleased with "Mr. Preedy and the Countess," which this firm has also acquired for Australia.

"Babes in the Wood" is the subject of the new pantomime which Mr. John Wallace is rehearsing in Melbourne at the King's Theatre, and during the next fortnight the new artists engaged in England by Mr. Wm. Anderson will begin to arrive. The new Dame will be Nat Clifford, a comedian immensely popular here during his six months' tour of Australia with Mr. Harry Rickards, whilst the principal boy will be Lilian Lea, described as a stage beauty, who has filled a similar position with success in England. There was an intention of securing Miss Rosina Buckmann as principal girl, but that brilliant singer ultimately decided not to make an appearance in pantomime.

HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE.

THE FAMOUS REMEDY FOR COUGHS, BRONCHITIS, PNEUMONIA, PLEURISY, ASTHMA, & CONSUMPTION.

Those who have taken this Medicine are amazed at its splendid healing power. Sufferers from Bronchitis, Cough, Croup, Asthma, Difficulty of Breathing, Hoarseness, Pain, or Soreness in the Chest, experience delightful and rapid relief, and to those who are subject to Colds on the Chest it is invaluable, as it effects a complete cure. It is most comforting in allaying Irritation in the Throat, and giving Strength to the Voice, and it neither allows a Cough nor Asthma to become chronic, nor Consumption to develop. Consumption is not known where "Coughs" have, on their first appearance, been properly treated with this medicine. No house should be without it, as, taken at the beginning, a dose or two is generally sufficient, and a complete cure is certain.

BRONCHITIS AND PNEUMONIA
CURED BY
HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE.

AFTER OTHER TREATMENT HAD FAILED.

Mr. W. G. Hearne. Dear Sir,—From a strict sense of duty I feel that I should publish the following statement, so that others may know what to do when the awful fact is evident that a life is in danger of being lost:—In September, 1906, my little girl, aged at that time three years, contracted measles, and in the following October was attacked by Bronchitis, Pneumonia, and Congestion of the Lungs. She was attended by a legally qualified doctor of high standing, but his treatment was not successful in arresting the progress of the illness. On Saturday the 21st October, 1906, he said that her life was in danger—that there was very little hope for her. For eight days and nights she had been prostrated by cough, pain, and fever, and was lying like a statue, unconscious. At this stage I was persuaded by a friend to obtain Hearne's Bronchitis Cure, with its auxiliary medicine for the fever and congestion of the lungs, as directed in the Catalogue of Medicines which accompanies each bottle of the Bronchitis Cure. I gave the medicine as directed, and there was an improvement from the first dose of Hearne's Bronchitis Cure. The improvement continued after each dose of the medicine. In a week she was perfectly free from the Pneumonia, Congestion, Cough, Pain, and Fever, and was well except that she was still weak. In a fortnight she was quite recovered, and is now in splendid health, and stronger than ever. Any person asking for the information about this grand medicine can be supplied by me, or by any of my neighbours, who have witnessed its wonderful effects. It absolutely snatched my child from an early grave. Yours gratefully,
D. GARDINER.
Police Station, Geelong East, Feb. 5, 1908.

BRONCHITIS.

A SUFFERER 73 YEARS OF AGE.
THOROUGHLY CURED BY TWO BOTTLES OF HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE.

IMMEDIATE RELIEF—EFFECTS WONDERFUL.

Mr. Hearne. Sir,—I was very ill with Influenza and Bronchitis. A friend of mine persuaded me to try your Bronchitis Cure. The first dose gave me immediate relief, and after taking the second bottle I am thoroughly cured. Its effect on me has been most wonderful. I am 73 years of age, and I trust that you will make use of this statement by publishing it for the benefit of humanity generally. Yours most respectfully,
THOMAS R. TRESIZE, Reedy Creek, Victoria.

CONSUMPTION.

TOO ILL TO LEAVE HIS BED—A COMPLETE CURE.

Mr. W. G. Hearne. Dear Sir,—I am writing to tell you about the wonderful cure your medicine has effected in my case. About three years ago I began to cough. At first the cough was not severe, but it gradually got worse, and I became very weak and troubled with night sweats, pain in my chest, and great quantities of phlegm. On several occasions there was blood in the expectorated matter. I had been treated by a doctor, who pronounced my case to be consumption, and various other treatments had been tried, but without benefit. It was at this stage that I heard of your Bronchitis Cure, and sent to you for a course of the medicine. When it arrived I was too ill to leave my bed, but I commenced taking it at once, and gradually improved. I am glad to say that the two lots of medicine you sent have effected a complete cure, for which accept my very best thanks. Yours gratefully,
J. BLAIR, Westminster Bridge-road, S.E., London.

CURED BY
HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE.

AFTER OTHER TREATMENT HAD FAILED.

I, Prudence M'Kee, of Carr-street, South Geelong, in view of the importance of a person making it quite clear what treatment was successful in curing a serious and complicated case, when the medicine, directions, and treatment of a legally-qualified doctor had failed, state as follows:—

My son, Henry M'Kee, then aged 8 years, had been attended by a legally-qualified doctor, who pronounced him to be suffering from Pneumonia, Pleurisy, and a stoppage of the passing of urine. Under the doctor's treatment the child gradually got worse, and the doctor pronounced the case hopeless. He told me that the child could not live. At this stage I obtained from Mr. W. G. Hearne, chemist, of Geelong, a bottle of Hearne's Bronchitis Cure, and gave it to the child according to the direction which accompany each bottle of it. The child improved after the second dose of Hearne's Bronchitis Cure. He continued to improve each day from each dose of Hearne's Medicine alone, and within three days he was free from the Cough, Pneumonia, and the Pleurisy, and the urine was passing satisfactorily. He was out of bed at the end of a week, completely recovered, and he is now in perfect health.

BRONCHITIS AND PLEURISY.

A SEVERE CASE CURED BY TWO BOTTLES OF HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE.

AFTER OTHER TREATMENT HAD FAILED.

Mr. Hearne, Chemist, Geelong. Dear Sir,—Some months ago in Sydney I suffered from a severe attack of Influenza, and was confined to my room for about a week, at the end of which time, feeling somewhat better, I got up and tried to transact my business as usual. But I got up too soon, for the very next day I had a relapse, and suffered tortures from what the doctor told me was Pleurisy and Bronchitis. The pain from the former in my chest and shoulders was frightful, and for four long weeks I was confined to my bed under the care of a well-known Sydney doctor, and all the time his medicine gave me but temporary relief. The landlady of the hotel (The Cleveland) where I resided told me of a medicine —Hearne's Bronchitis Cure—from Victoria, which had cured her of a bad attack of bronchitis and pains in the chest, and begged me to try it. I did so, and, in thanks and gratitude to you, tell you that, after the second bottle, my cough had ceased, but what is more astonishing the pains from pleurisy entirely left me, and in about a week I was able to attend to my duties as usual.
Yours faithfully,
. BRAHAM, Melbourne "Punch" Office, Melbourne.

ASTHMA—A 17 YEARS' CASE.

PREVIOUS TREATMENT FAILED—CURED BY THREE BOTTLES.

Mr. Alex. J. Anderson, of Oak Park, Charleville, Queensland, writes:—"After suffering from Asthma for seventeen years, and having been under a great many different treatments without benefit, I was induced to try Hearne's Medicine for Asthma. After taking three bottles of this medicine I quite got rid of the asthma, and since then, which was the beginning of 1883—fifteen years ago —I have not had the slightest return of it. The medicine quite cured me, and I have much pleasure in recommending it."

Speaking in February, 1908, he says:—"I am keeping very well. Never had the slightest return of the asthma."

"Hearne's Medicine cured me of Asthma, from which I had been suffering for twenty-five years, during which time I had used almost every patent medicine on the market—including asthma inhalations—without getting a cure. It was eight years ago that the cure was effected by Hearne's Medicine, and I now feel stronger than I have felt for years—in fact, I feel splendid."
C. WISEMAN, Meredith, Victoria.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS! The great success of HEARNE'S Bronchitis Cure has induced a number of unprincipled persons to make imitations, each calling his medicine "Bronchitis Cure," with the object of deceiving the unsuspecting, and so getting a sale for an imitation which has none of the beneficial effects that HEARNE'S Bronchitis Cure has. Consequently it has become necessary to draw your attention to this fact, and to request you in your own interests to be particular to ask for HEARNE'S, and see that you get it.

HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE, Small Size, 2/6; Large Size, 4/6. Sold by all Chemists and Medicine Vendors, and by the Proprietor, W. G. HEARNE, Chemist, Geelong, Victoria. Forwarded to any address when not obtainable locally.

LIFE IN LONDON AND THEREABOUT.

(CHRONICLED BY HENRY W. LUCY.)

His Majesty and the Crisis—Excitement in Political Circles—"The Crime of the Congo"—What Becomes of Gold Coin?

WESTMINSTER, Sept. 8.

The probable intervention of his Majesty with intent to avert the pending struggle between the two Houses of Parliament, indicated in this column last week, has in the meantime assumed the position of a certainty in the public mind. The coming and going of guests at Balmoral has been closely watched for indication of the current of events. For some days the political parties were authoritatively represented by the Secretary of State for War, and Lord Cawdor, sometime First Lord of the Admiralty in the last Government. Lord Cawdor is a comparatively newcomer to Ministerial office. For many years he was the trusty and successful chairman of the Great Western Railway. He abandoned the post on the invitation of Mr. Balfour to "come over and help us." It was a significant circumstance, noted at the time, that when temporarily withdrawn from attendance on the House of Lords, the Marquis of Lansdowne nominated him to the seat of leader. Hence it will be seen that Lord Cawdor possesses in full degree the confidence of his party, and shares the inner counsels of its chief.

The crowning sensation came to an excited crowd in the House and lobby when the news leaked out that the Premier, having made a hurried speech in debate on the Budget Bill, had rushed off to catch the night mail to Scotland, in obedience to a summons from the King. Close on the heels of this incident came the announcement of adjournment of the Commons for a full week, precedent to taking up the Budget Bill on the report stage. It is quite possible to make too much of these events. The "Court Circular" announces the arrival of the Prime Minister as "the Minister in attendance on the King," succeeding Mr. Haldane, who has returned to town. That is designed with obvious intent of representing that there is nothing unusual in the procedure. It is, nevertheless, unusual, if not unprecedented, that at the busiest time of the Parliamentary session the Premier should be called away to perform what, in the ordinary course of events, are principally ceremonial duties any member of the Cabinet is qualified to fulfil. Such an arrangement is not only personally inconvenient to an overworked Minister: it is embarrassing to the course of public business.

As for the unexpected boon of a week's holiday, it carries no portent. On its announcement wild rumour ran about proclaiming Ministerial intention of dropping the land tax clauses as their share of a bargain with the Lords that would result in the passing of the rest of the Budget. On the face of it this is sheer nonsense. The land clauses form the most popular section of the Budget scheme. For the Cabinet to drop them would be equivalent to dropping their seals of office and running off home. The simple fact is that an interval between the closing of committee and the report stage of an important bill is a familiar essential part of Parliamentary procedure. The Development Bill having been dexterously got through with the assistance of the bait of a holiday, there remains no work for the Commons to do, and they are merely following the precedent created by the Lords when they adjourn for a week.

Sir Conan Doyle is a busy man, the work of his pen commanding princely rates of pay. But he is always ready to give his best for nothing if the tribute will serve his fellowmen. At the close of the Boer war he wrote a pamphlet which, translated into twelve foreign languages, comprising an edition of 100,000 copies, freely distributed, placed the true facts of the case before the peoples of Europe. Stirred by the iniquities perpetrated in the Congo under the personal auspices of the King of the Belgians, he comes to the front again with an effort to put a stop to them. In a pamphlet entitled "The Crime of the Congo" he tells a story in some respects worse even than the atrocities in Bulgaria, which stirred the souls of civilised nations to their depths. In Bulgaria there was at least the excuse that homes were devastated, men slaughtered, and women ravished on the impulse of racial hatred and religious fanaticism. These are not high motives. But they stand far above the mere greed of money which is at the bottom of the iniquities that have desolated the Congo State. Sir Conan's pamphlet—issued at the price of sixpence so that all may buy, the profits being devoted to the work of foreign translation—is appropriately presented in a gruesome black cover, on which is reproduced a photograph of one of these poor people mutilated on hand and foot because he fell short of accomplishment of the full task allotted to him, in the way of bringing rubber to the hoards of a rapacious master.

Telling the ghastly story in full detail, Sir Conan offers practical suggestions for putting a stop to a state of things that is a shame to civilised humanity. He abandons hope of appeal from the Sovereign who has battened on the plunder literally wrung out of the blood of these hapless natives to the Parliament and people of Belgium. As he says, the Belgians have had nearly twenty-five years' undisturbed possession of the Congo, "and they have made it a hell upon earth." He finds the best solution in a congress of the European Powers, who, having ordered Belgium out of the country, should partition it between France and Germany, reserving a centre for the natives living under an international guarantee. Failing consent of the Powers to interpose, he calls upon England to grapple single-handed with what should be a common task. The launching of this thunderbolt has aroused angry protest from Brussels, which will serve the good purpose of advertising the pamphlet on the Continent.

What becomes of all the gold poured into this country in a steady stream and minted into sovereigns? We are all ready to testify that only an inadequate proportion reaches our private pockets, a fact which makes more urgent the inquiry. What becomes of the rest? Time was when California was the principal, if not the sole, source of the gold supply of the world. Then came Australia, and of late, youngest but most fruitful of all, South Africa. We read of bar gold valued at £966,532 arriving from the Cape on the Armadale Castle; of the Norman due with £47,974, the Walmer Castle following a week later with £686,970. It is reported that, including amounts just arrived, there is now over 2½ millions sterling in gold on its way to this country. This goes on week after week throughout the revolving year, and yet no one seems a sovereign the better than his fathers were sixty years ago, when the rush to the Californian goldfields set in. The material life of a sovereign must cover a considerable space of time. The coin grows a little thinner with continual use. But when it falls below a certain infinitude of reduction in weight it is called in by the bank, melted, and born again. The shower of gold that only once fell upon Danae refreshes this island every week, sometimes twice a week, without apparent result in the way of accumulation of fruition. I suppose if the supply were suddenly to stop the money market would be disturbed. What troubles the ingenuous inquiring mind is the mystery of its quiet absorption and the absence of evidence of material accumulation.

COPENHAGEN.

BUTTER, BEER, AND BICYCLES.

(BY H. D. B.)

In a visit to Copenhagen one cannot but marvel that such a small kingdom can have such a fine capital city. In area it would take about eight Denmarks to equal in size Great Britain and Ireland, and about 13 Denmarks would be required to fill up France. The country, exclusive of its dependencies, has slightly less than 700 square miles. A big chunk of Denmark that was embraced ni Schleswig and Holstein was chopped off in the unfortunate war with Prussia and Austria in 1864, and now forms part of Prussia. Nearly one-quarter of the people of Denmark live in their beautiful capital city, which has somewhat over half a million population. It is apparent, therefore, that Copenhagen is a big town for such a small country, and one must naturally wonder what is the basis for its size and its apparent prosperity. I ascertained that the prosperity of Copenhagen rests chiefly on a foundation of butter. It is the greatest butter market of the world. The exports of butter to Great Britain alone amount to nearly £10,000,000 yearly. A big amount of cheese is also exported, chiefly to Germany. There are over a million cows in Denmark feeding on the green grass lands, and it is the rich milk from these cows that is the prime source of the prosperity of little Denmark and of its big, gay capital city of Copenhagen. There is no part of the world where dairying is such a scientific, careful business as it is in Denmark. The dairies are mostly under co-operative management, and the utmost attention is paid to purity of supply, and to proper milking conditions. The largest co-operative dairy uses about 77,000lb of milk a day, and produces 12 to 14 tons of butter a week. Pasteurisers and refrigerators are attached to all the separators. The separated cream is stored 24 hours before being churned into butter. The separated milk goes into vats for making cheese, and what is not retained for cheese is sold to farmers, to be given to pigs and converted into pork, hams, and bacon. There are over a thousand good-sized dairies in Denmark, and they give large employment to male and female labour, notwithstanding the extensive use of up-to-date machinery.

In Copenhagen milk is a cheap and absolutely pure and good article of diet. The leading vendor of milk, the Copenhagen Milk Supply Company, was started a few years ago by some philanthropic business men, who were determined that in Copenhagen milk should be a source of nourishment, and not of poison, to those who drank it. This company gets every day about 5000 gallons of milk from about 40 farms, where the most rigid provisions for the feeding and management of cows are enforced. It is all carefully filtered, and drawn off into glass bottles, mechanically corked, and then sealed and tied by girls, who wear nice clean white dresses and caps. The cans which brought the milk from the farms are all cleaned before their return. They are scrubbed in hot water and soda, given a bath in lime water, and any germs that might still survive are then forced by sterilisation to join the great majority. All the profits of this company above 5 per cent. go to reduce the price of milk sold to charitable institutions. It seems to me that the Copenhagen business men who founded this company are just the kind of practical philanthropists who should be models for all the world, where commercialism and humane regard for the health of the children of the poor do not always unfortunately go together.

The brewery, as well as the dairy, products of Copenhagen are making a name for themselves all over the world, and the reason for such increasing prestige is the same—scrupulous attention to cleanliness, and to honesty and purity in the article sold. I visited one of the great Copenhagen breweries, which covered 60 acres of land, and produced 44,000 gallons of beer a day. It employed 1200 people, and pays out in salaries about £600,000 a year. In their exterior the buildings looked almost like palaces, so artistic and monumental were they in their architecture and ornamentation. The fermentation vaults had air that seemed sweet and clean. Everything about the breweries gave one an impression of extraordinary cleanliness. The pasteurising and bottling departments especially add to this impression. There are enormous storerooms for keeping the product till it is ripe, altogether nearly 200 big vaults for storing the beer. In the department over 500 tons of ice are made every day. The Copenhagen breweries are public-spirited, and support in Copenhagen several very important scientific and artistic institutions.

It is indeed very striking, the great number of bicycle-riders on the streets of Copenhagen. In the morning, and toward evening, there is one perpetual stream of cyclists. The leading streets looked like Michigan-avenue in Chicago in the heyday of our bicycle craze, and before automobiles began their reign of terror for all other kinds of vehicles. The streets of Copenhagen are well paved and level, and the country roads are good, so it is a pleasure cycling, especially as, with the exception of a few taxi-cabs, there are no automobiles tearing about the streets and making them unsafe for the cyclists. The bicycle is such a pleasant and wholesome form of exercise and recreation that I was glad to note that there is at least one big city of the world where it is still in popular vogue and not an out-of-date fad.

People who are interested in opportunities for women's work should get a valuable idea from Copenhagen. There are several women there who drive cabs through the streets, and do their work just as well as men, perhaps better than many men. They wear ordinary feminine costume, except they have high boots like the men cabbies. They seem to enjoy their vocation. It requires no physical strain for which they are not fitted. They do not see why they should not drive cabs as much as the men, and I cannot myself see why it is worse for them to compete in this pursuit than in many others, where they equal or excel the men.

The hotels of Copenhagen are very comfortable, and not expensive. The cooking is delicious, but so many courses are served that toward the end the appetite wanes, and the food cannot be appreciated. There are many dishes in which the Danes excel. One of these is a kind of lobster a la Newburgh, with curry sauce; another is fruit jelly with rich cream. The soups are very savoury. There is a great variety of good-flavoured fish. Eggs and poultry are invariably good. Denmark is famous for cabbages and carrots, many of which are exported even to America. One always likes to spread fine Danish butter over the bread, and use it freely, but, strange to say, it is necessary, like in England, to specially request it, as for all meals except breakfast, it is considered mostly a dessert dish, to go with cheese. The Danes, I think, should set an example of larger use of butter on the table, and so help along the consumption of their greatest product. I do not believe there is any country in the world where the butter consumption per capita can at all approach what it is in the United States.

The shops of Copenhagen are attractive, especially in silver jewellery and porcelain articles, and for gloves, furs, hand-knitted woollen articles and wood-carvings, all produced in Denmark or its colonies. Also while Denmark is an agricultural country, chiefly, and not industrial, yet the very fact that there is no effort made to "protect" local industries tends to make the shops full of many good cheap imported articles. For instance, cigars are said to be cheaper here than anywhere in Europe, even cheaper than in England. Travellers on their way to Russia, where cigars are enormous in price, frequently get as many cigars in Copenhagen as they think they will be allowed to carry without question as personal effects, into Russia.

For original home-produced novelties, Copenhagen is famous for its wonderful porcelain animals of all kinds, and all attitudes and expressions. The real royal Copenhagen ware is very expensive, but for artistic design and for insight into animal expression and bodily symmetry, and for its beautiful blending of white and greyish colours, and fine polish, it is unexcelled, and well worth the money. A cheap imitation ware is also made, which is good for the money, and has a big sale, but to those familiar with the other ware, the difference in quality is easily noticeable. I understand this Copenhagen ware is made from local clays. I desired to visit the establishments where it is made, but learned that the process is secret, and no visitors are desired. Everyone who goes to Copenhagen must feel tempted to return with a "zoo" of these porcelain animals—which make such attractive ornaments for a mantlepiece, a desk, or a cabinet. Many beautiful vases and plates are also made of this porcelain, but the animals are the most unique and interesting. It will be remembered what an attractive feature they were at Denmark's exhibit at the World's Fair, in St. Louis.

The people of Denmark are very well educated, and most of the business people and upper classes can talk English fluently. Copenhagen is an easy city for English and American people to tour, and it is very pleasant for them to mix with the Danish people and see something of their happy life. Even just two days, which was all the time I could spare, can yield a great deal of interest and pleasure. The Danes by their industry, thrift, and honesty have come to excel in dairying, beer, and porcelains. They have big success in raising chickens and eggs, splendid horses, and fine horned cattle. And yet they are also pre-eminent for social gaieties and amusements, love music, dancing, and a bit of rollicking Bohemianism. One of the greatest amusement places of Europe is the "Tivoli," of Copenhagen, a great popular pleasure garden, where there are all sorts of entertainments. The one which yields the most fun is the famous "Black Kettle." Here there is music and dancing and many pretty and vivacious girls about, but the leading feature is the throwing of confetti—tiny bits of coloured paper. There is continued warfare all the evening in the Black Kettle—in fact, the cauldron is incessantly boiling with fun and good-natured fight with these little paper bits, with which everyone is bombarded; everyone throws at everyone else, but usually the prettiest girls are those who are the targets for the most active fire. Many of them are good sharpshooters themselves. The confetti gets into all the inner recesses of one's clothing, and often hides about one's person for weeks afterwards, like rice thrown at a wedding. After my own bombardment of a few moments in the "Black Kettle" it seemed as if I never could get rid of all these little paper bits about my person, which would fly out from somewhere at unexpected times, if I took out a handkerchief, took off a glove, or paid out a coin. For instance, when going to a bank to draw money on a letter of credit it was rather embarrassing to drop confetti on the counter together with the letter, or when making a dignified call to send in some confetti with my card.

THE TRANSFORMATION OF BRAZIL.

DANGERS OF THE REPUBLIC.

WEALTH AND ILLITERACY.

(BY PROFESSOR MACMILLAN BROWN.)

It was after dinner when we approached the entrance to the harbour of Rio de Janeiro. The moon in its second quarter shone with a light that only mellowed the stars and softened the night. It was extinguished when the eyes looked ahead. There on the near horizon the shore was all ablaze with points of light, stretching for miles, and in the centre of them stood "a fairy palace of delight" that seemed a realisation of the gleaming dômes and tower and minarets of Coleridge's unfinished opium dream. It was this year's exhibition building lit up in honour of the South American Medical Congress that was meeting in the capital of Brazil.

We passed the entrance and the Pan de Asucar that guards it like a gigantic canine tooth blotted out the edifice of light. Instead there opened up the circlet on circlet of fire fringing the bay, and marking the miles of Praia that stretch their massive masonry from the middle of the city to Botafogo and its gardens. And up the hillsides were sown the vari-coloured lights of the suburbs; whilst through them moved the gleaming tramcars like shuttles across an Oriental web. Around the great steamer as it crept to its moorings a swarm of firefly launches and tenders darted hither and thither, with their red and green lamps and their flakes and crowns of fire.

I have never seen a night-spectacle so gorgeous outside of the region of pantomime. And no pantomime ever had a stage so titanic or scenery so impressive. I had entered this splendid harbour by night before; but the city was then ill-lit, and the few little twinkling lamps that made effort to show the line of shore only deepened the darkness. It was an Oriental vision that met our eyes now.

THE TRANSFORMATION OF RIO.

We inquired after the Aladdin who had worked this marvellous transformation. It was the Tramway, Light, and Power Company of Rio de Janeiro that had made the dream possible. A Dr. Mackenzie had come south from Canada for his health, and settling down, had set himself to illuminate and quicken the pulses of this city of dreadful night. He got from the State and the municipality the rights required—for ample consideration, of course. He drained all the hills around for 30 miles into a huge lake far up amongst their heights, submerging a dozen villages and hundreds of houses in the process. And from this reservoir he drew the power that sends the electric trams in all directions over the capital, that drives hundreds of machines, and that turns the whole harbour into a fairy paradise at night.

But illumination and swift transport would have been a mockery in this nursery of yellow fever and plague uncleansed. I remember seeing on my first visit to this Brazilian city the yellow hearse that bore the victims of its deadly disease to burial pass frequently along the streets; and on the occasion of a later visit I heard a young Brazilian boast that there were then only a hundred and fifty deaths a week from yellow fever. But the Rio de Janeiro City Improvements Company, a British corporation, began the good work of purification nearly half a century ago, and aided by the reconstruction of the city these last three or four years, has at last rid the port of its old enemies and its evil name. For a time it was hampered by unsound finance owing to the lowering of the exchange; but later contracts fixed the payment on a permanent and satisfactory basis; and the result has been the most efficient drainage of the whole district, and a sound foundation for complete sanitary reform. The plague has been routed out, and yellow jack has finally died.

This ultimate cleansing of the city would have been impossible without the complete renovation of its heart. I had not seen Paris before it was Hausmannised with wide boulevards, or Vienna before it had its wide Ring Strasse. But I should think no city in the world has undergone so complete a transformation as Rio has in the last three or four years. Hundreds of slums have been torn down, and great avenues have been run for miles across the spaces they made foul. The Avenida Central, with its hundred feet of width and its great buildings, is especially impressive. It is perhaps the most fantastic street I have ever seen outside of a theatre, so ambitiously selected is its architecture and so theatrically gorgeous are its effects. But it has given breath and health to a city that used to stifle and infect. I sought out the old Regent-street of Rio, the Rua de Ouvidor, but now, even with all its wealthy shops, it looked a poor little lane. Nor did it help me much in finding my bearings. The new plan has ignored it and its old importance. Instead of the medi[illegible] Portuguese city of my former visits, the [illegible]azilian capital is a fantastic realisation of an Aladdin's dream.

A WHITED SEPULCHRE.

But the spirit is still the same. Corruption is not much less rampant than it was before. The eight million and a half that was borrowed from London to build docks and wharfs has largely gone into this reconstruction of the city. The foreshore has been embellished with stately praias and avenidas; but steamers have still to lie out in mid-bay and empty their cargoes into barges, and their passengers into the row-boats of rapacious long-shore sharks. Another eight millions is needed to do the work that the first eight failed to do. Something has manifestly been done, and something is still being done, but most is still to do in order to make this as efficient a port as Santos, away to the south. And money has as manifestly been poured out like water on the city reconstruction scheme and on other municipal undertakings, like the municipal theatre, which, with its marbles, cost a million sterling.

UP-TO-DATE HIGHWAYMEN.

As long as the empire lasted corruption hid its head. But with the Republic it became open and unashamed, and there were a hundred of its proteges for every one before. Fonseca, the soldier who led the bloodless revolution in 1889, and, deporting the Emperor, established the Republic, made as the first act of his dictatorship the twenty provinces independent States in federation, each with its own congress and governor, and its own powers of imposing taxes and Customs duties. Every one of these States, as well as every municipality in them, has its eye on the money markets of Europe as a source of revenue, as surely placed in their way by a kind Providence as the money-bags of merchants in the way of the old highwaymen. The commonest procedure is to raise a loan, and within a few years have it funded on terms of a depreciated paper. But to work the accounts so as to tempt the lenders, and default immediately after the loan has been spent, has not been unknown. As far as the London market is concerned, the game is almost played out; for it has come to know that the central government repudiates all responsibility for these local loans. The municipalities and States are going further afield in their operations, Germany being a favourite hunting-ground for some years.

SANTOS AND SAN PAULO.

Of course there are some of them that are sound, if not wealthy. States like San Paulo, the chief coffee country, have great taxability. It is one of the sights of Brazil to enter at the now transformed port of Santos, go up the wonderful incline of the prosperous British railway, and see the fine streets and buildings of the city of San Paulo. In spite of the lower price of coffee, the signs of prosperity and wealth are everywhere. Santos used to be one of the worst yellow fever centres of South America. You can still see the skeletons of sailing ships that had to be cut adrift because captain after captain and crew after crew sent to bring them away had fallen victims to the yellow death. Now, though there are mangrove swamps stretched for miles around the actual site of the town, and the whole peninsula over which it spreads, have been drained by a British company, the Santos Improvements Company. It has also supplied the citizens with a plentiful supply of pure water, with electric light, and with mule trams. Two immense iron scaffolds are being erected on each side of the lower harbour to convey electric power from the mountains beyond. Seconded by the Santos Docks Company, which has filled in and faced with masonry miles of the water frontage, where the largest ocean steamers can lie, and take in or discharge cargo, this company has made Santos the finest and healthiest port in Brazil.

The San Paulo railway had to contend with almost as great difficulties in bringing the produce of the rich State to its port; it had to surmount the coastal range of thickly-wooded hills, and cross it at a height of 2500 feet, within the space of a few miles. It manages this by means of a cable, worked in five sections, with a powerhouse for each. And the amount of masonry in walls and viaducts, and of tunnelling and water-channelling, it has had to do, makes this roadway one of the most remarkable in the world: it seems to be constructed for all time, and is evidently kept in the highest state of efficiency. Six million pounds are said to have been spent on it; yet it clearly earns a high rate of profit, for it pays 14 per cent., and after providing for expensive stations (that at San Paulo cost a quarter of a million), and making every allowance for depreciation, it places large sums to reserve, invested in gilt-edged securities. The success of the company has roused opposition; and the State Government has been forced to break through its concessions and build a rival line. State management of railways in Brazil has proved a dismal failure. They get over-staffed and ill-staffed with political proteges, and all the possible profits leak away in unconsidered trifles or backstairs ways. The Central railway, run from Rio to San Paulo, is the chief road that remains in the hands of the Federal Government, and it is a chronic warning against all such State enterprise in the country. Many that were run unsuccessfully by the State have been made highly profitable by being leased to private companies. The Leopoldina system, extending over a large area to the west and north of Rio, is an instance to the point; and so is the Great Western system, which serves the coasts and back country around Pernambuco.

BRAZIL'S GOLD MINES IN EUROPE.

Some of the States have taken over part of all of their railways. But as a rule they are too impecunious to venture on such a course, and most of them have defaulted at one time or another. Even the State of San Paulo, which covers the wealthiest district of Brazil, has got so near to bankruptcy in its legislative efforts to corner the coffee market, that it has had to appeal to the Federal Government to guarantee a loan of 15 millions, which was made by the Continental money markets on the security of 70 million bags of coffee. The finances of the States and the municipalities in Brazil are in fact coming to be recognised as a quicksand for European money. One or two States, like Minas Geraes, have rich gold mines, but hitherto the richest of all have been in Europe. But the richest levels have been exhausted by injudicious methods. That eagerness to get something for nothing, which is so manifest in Spain, and even in Portugal, has penetrated the public life of all these South American States. There is little evidence in the streets of that habit of beggary which harasses the visitor to the Spanish Peninsula; the country is too prosperous for that. As far as one can see, the financial freebooter system based upon this trait has concentrated itself in the political life and the administration, though I have heard of its appearance in commercial life, especially in Bahia.

LUCK AND WEALTH IN BRAZIL.

To judge by the Brazilians who have travelled in the Asturias from Europe and by the coastal passengers, there is as vigorous a passion in Brazil for trusting to luck and getting something for nothing, as in Portugal and Spain; and on shore lottery tickets are thrust into one's hands everywhere. They are evidently the most marketable commodities. Wherever this is so much in evidence there is a lack of foresight, common-sense, and energy in the nation. But there is also evident no lack of money; not only amongst the first-class passengers, who represent, of course, the well-to-do, if not the wealthy, but in all the streets and shops of the towns there are innumerable signs of overflowing riches; there is a love of extravagance that gauges the excellence of a thing by its cost, and not by its quality or beauty. The influx of immigrants, the inclusion of vast new lands every year in the productive areas, and the suction of public loans and private capital into the country are exactly the conditions that make new wealth overflow. The region is in process of transformation from a crude land, fit only for the uncivilised, into one of the richest territories on the globe.

THE RICHES OF BRAZIL.

Nothing can surpass its possibilities in the way of production; for, unlike Argentina, which is more developed, it has the widest range of soils, climates, and products from the richest and most tropical to those of the temperate zone; and it stands third in area amongst the States of the world; it covers a fifth of America, and fortunately for its development, it has the greatest variety of its climates and products on the eastern seaboard, which is so close to Europe; there an ancient range of hills runs from north-east to south-west, and rises in terraces to the plateaux and savannahs of the centre, so that there is no gradation of climates bordering on the coast in every latitude. For centuries it was a maritime fringe and nothing more. It was only when it became an independent empire that it began to push cultivation and settlement into the interior; and it is chiefly since its establishment as a republic that it has been drawing its share of the European overflow. The Emperor, Dom Pedro II., did much to encourage immigration and development, giving preference to the Teuton; he got large bodies of Germans to settle in the south, and he had even Swiss and Russian colonies. But spontaneous immigration has grown up chiefly under the republic. And the result is that Brazil has now above twenty millions, as much as all the rest of South America put together. The Italian immigration has been far the largest, rising to nearly two millions. But recently the Spanish immigration has been growing more important. The most successful have been the Germans, especially in San Paulo. The wealthiest and largest coffee planter is a German who arrived not many years ago with a few marks in his pocket, and he has an English name, Francis Smith, and must be of English descent, though he has Brazilianised it into Francisco Smith—a practice which, I heard a German lady complain, the Germans too frequently follow, at the same time throwing off their nationality.

A REPUBLIC THAT IS NOT A REPUBLIC.

But it is the population taken as a whole that will be the chief obstruction to the progress of Brazil. For more than half are negroes and mulattoes, and a considerable proportion of the rest are crosses between the negro and the Indian. And in Santos I could see a sprinkling of Japanese amongst the dock labourers. What the ultimate transformation of Brazil will be with such a medley of peoples to unify is beyond the prediction of science. But it does not inspire one with hope to see the largest element from a race that closes its natives in childhood. And still more hopeless seems the outlook when we know that 80 per cent. of the population can neither read nor write. The Republicanism of this Republic is, in fact, infinitesimal; it is a government of office-holders and a politics of office-seekers. And the wonder is not that there are so many revolutions (there was an abortive one in 1904), but that there are so few. The best that can be hoped is that the descendants of the Teutons in the south will take command, and by spreading education make the Republic a reality. The best sign, in what politics there is, is that after the first two Presidents, Fonseca and Peixoto, the politicians have managed to keep the office in the hands of civilians, generally journalists; the new President to be elected in March will be a civilian. The soldiers have been eliminated from the contest.

By the time, however, that the Teutonic south comes to be native born, and to take a hand in politics, a greater evil will have become rooted, the division of the people into a mass of poverty and starvation, and a small class of nouveaux riches. The advanced protectionism of Brazil will soon secure that. And the Republic will be transformed merely from a bureaucracy to a plutocracy; for the holder of the purse is always the master in new, and especially in corrupt, Republics. Rubber in the north, coffee and cotton in the middle, cattle and maize in the south, and minerals all over will give the Germans the lead in millionairism. And they are bound to use it for the command of political power in order to secure their wealth. And the elevation of the masses does not fit readily into such a programme, nor does purity of government.

AMUSEMENTS.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.

There will be a special holiday matinee of "A Country Girl" at Her Majesty's Theatre on Monday. The revival of this bright musical play, with its picturesque rustic surroundings for the first half of the story, and the magnificent effects of the Directoire period for the second, has proved highly popular, Mr. W. S. Percy's success as Barry being especially marked; and the ensemble as a whole evidently attractive.

CRITERION THEATRE.

"Othello" will be performed as a holiday matinee on Monday (the usual Wednesday afternoon performance being omitted) at the Criterion Theatre. Shakespeare is triumphing all along the line at the Criterion, where continuously crowded audiences are stirred by the pathos of the tragedy, as represented with power and emotional warmth by Mr. Oscar Asche, Miss Lily Brayton, and the artists of their English company.

His Excellency Lord Chelmsford and party will attend the performance of "Othello" to-night.

Mr. Clyde Meynell, of Clarke, Meynell, and Gunn, will arrive in Sydney this morning from Melbourne on business connected with the firm's interests at the Criterion Theatre.

THEATRE ROYAL.

The reappearance of Mr. G. S. Titheradge as Wilfred Denver in to-night's revival (at 7.45) of "The Silver King" should prove an event of especial interest, and on that account is referred to in our "Music and Drama" column. The unusually long cast demanded by the melodrama will also include Mr. Hardley Turner as Jaikes, Mr. Harry Plimmer as the Spider, Mr. Dion Titheradge as Corkett, Miss Grimston as Olive Skinner, and Miss Warwick as Nellie Denver. The play will be elaborately staged.

THE NELLIE STEWART SEASON.

Miss Nellie Stewart will open her brief farewell season at the Theatre Royal next Saturday with a revival of Paul Kester's charming comedy-drama "Sweet Nell of Old Drury," in which this favourite actress will appear once more as Nell Gwynn, the character she has played throughout Australasia and the United States. Mr. Harcourt Beatty will be seen again in his original character as Charles II. Preliminary booking arrangements are duly notified.

THE MELBA CHARITY CONCERT.

News from Mr. H. N. Southwell, who is sharing the honour of management with Mr. John Lemmone (director), shows that the concert at the Melbourne Exhibition Building on Monday next in aid of the Countess of Dudley's Bush Nurses' Association, is causing the most extraordinary advance booking. The prices generally are 10s 6d, 5s, and 2s 6d for the diva's farewell appearance, and as the Victorian State Government is paying the rent (£50, reduced from £100), it is believed that a great sum will be realised.

MR. WALTER BENTLEY'S TOUR.

Mr. Walter Bentley returned here yesterday from his Queensland tour, which, opening in Brisbane, extended as far north as Townsville and Charters Towers, where, as throughout the tour, his appearance in "Hamlet" never failed to draw large and deeply interested audiences. Visiting Rockhampton, Bundaberg, Gympie, Toowoomba, Newcastle, and other centres on the way back, the Shakespearian artist is now resting here for a few days prior to leaving for Melbourne. He will open there at the King's Theatre, under Mr. Wm. Anderson's management, as Hamlet on December 4, with Miss Eugenie Duggan as Ophelia.

PALACE.—"THE SCARLET TROUBADOURS."

Matinees are announced by "The Scarlet Troubadours" both for this afternoon and Monday, and Mr. Edward Branscombe now marks the initiation of the last six nights by introducing another new programme. The new costume-entertainment, opening with the choral "Song of the Strolling Players," will include the new nautical scena "The Sailor's Life" and the choral finale "Off We Go," with humorous and sentimental solos, scenes, and duets by Miss Gertrude Parker, Miss Maud Fane, Messrs. Edgar Warwick, Sydney Mannering, Alfred Cunningham, and Ford Waltham. Mr. Claude Leplastrier will execute curious conceits in chalks and crayons.

"THE HEART OF A HERO."

Next Saturday Mr. George Marlow's Dramatic Company will reopen at the Palace Theatre with the first production of Lingford Carson's drama "The Heart of a Hero," an exciting story which centres round the murder by Nell Resdale (Miss Nellie Ferguson) of the scoundrelly Mark Marie (Mr. Tyrer). The hero, Jem Resdale (Mr. Kenneth Hunter) assumes the burthen of crime, but ultimately escapes from prison. Miss Ethel Buckley has a strong soubrette part as Susie Slack. The plan is at Elvy's.

TIVOLI THEATRE.

At the Tivoli Theatre, Mr. Harry Rickards, who returns from England to-day, announces holiday matinees for to-day, Monday, and Wednesday next. The programme will include the Sisters Trapnell in their star acrobatic turn, Brown and Robinson in new songs, Miss Bertha Stuart, the Scottish character-vocalist, Mr. Fred. Curran, Miss Dolly Harmer, Hassan, the conjurer (last week), Fred. Bluett, the Australian Dartos, and many other artists.

NATIONAL AMPHITHEATRE.

Holiday matinees are in train at the National Amphitheatre for to-day, Monday, and Wednesday next, when the entertainment will introduce the Two Wheelers, trick cyclists, Vera Kearns, soubrette, the National Duo (juveniles), Deno and Campbell, pantomimists, and the Rose Sisters, duettists and dancers. More than a score of other artists assist, and in addition to the Prince Foot Cup race, the Miorama will show new pictures.

GLACIARIUM.—WEST'S PICTURES.

At the Glaciarium, where Mr. T. J. West announces holiday matinees for to-day, Monday, and Wednesday next, the new programme will include new dramatic films, "The Remorse," "The Ferryman's Daughter," "The Seventh Day," and "The Way of the Cross," scenes on the Engadine and on the Pyrenees Alps, such comics subjects as "The Old Sinner Caught," and some capital stories, such as "Bobby, the Boy Scout." Mr. De Groen's Band will play.

LYCEUM.—SPENCER'S THEATRESCOPE.

At the Lyceum, where holiday matinees are notified for to-day, Monday, and Wednesday, Mr. Charles Spencer's Theatrescope Company will present the latest new films, comprising the beautiful story of "The Leopard Queen," "The Seventh Day," and "The Tragic Idyll." An interesting series will show "Steam Trawlers in the Arctic Ocean" and "Tobacco Culture," thus taking the audience from north to south, whilst the new comic happenings will include "Gussie and the Heiress."

THE HAYDN BECK CONCERT.

On Tuesday evening next Haydn Beck, the new child violinist from New Zealand, who was so warmly encouraged by Kubelik, Marie Hall, and other visiting stars, will make his debut at the Town Hall. The gifted boy, who will be accompanied by Miss Gertrude Palmer, will be heard in the "7th Concerto of De Beriot," Bohm's "Gavotte," the final movement of a sonata by Veracini, a "Souvenir" by Drdla, a "Brindisi" by Alard, and a "Serenade" of his own. Generous artistic support has been offered, so that the brilliant little prodigy player will be supported by Mme. Annie Perry, Misses Elsa Fischer, Estelle Mabel Ward, Van Henckelum, and Messrs. Laurance Phillip, A. L. Cropp, Cecil J. Ryan, Harold Widdop, W. H. R. Woods, the Sydney String Quartette, and the Parramatta Convent Girls' Orchestra and the Federal Vocal Quartet. Already many seats have been reserved at Nicholson's.

LEWIS SCOTT TESTIMONIAL CONCERT.

Monday, November 22, has been fixed for the date of the testimonial concert to Mr. E. Lewis Scott at the Y.M.C.A. Hall, where so many first-rate artists will assist that success is already assured. The list will comprise Mme. Slapoffski, Misses Amy Murphy, Emma Sussmilch, Estelle Mabel Ward, Elsa Fischer, Ada Baker, Mab. Fotheringham, Roma Villiers, Lilian Frost, Esther Kahn, Van Henckelum, Messrs. Cyril Monk, Bertram Flohm, Laurance Phillip, Gladstone Bell, Percy Herford, Sid. Macdonald, Emil Sussmilch, Ernest Truman, and Lewis Scott. The hon. secretaries, Messrs. Sidney T. Price and J. Geo. Merrin, report a great demand for seats. The plan opens at Nicholson's to-day.

MISS LUCILLE BENSTEAD'S CONCERT.

Thursday, December 2, is the date of the concert which Miss Lucille Stuart Benstead will give at the Town Hall under the patronage of an influential committee of friends and admirers. The new soprano has already made a name for herself at Perth and on the goldfields of Western Australia, and it is hoped that her forthcoming concert may assist her to realise her ambition for further study in some European centre. Miss Benstead, who will sing famous operatic arias and ballads, will be supported by leading artists.

MISS OHLFSEN-BAGGE'S MATINEE.

On Tuesday afternoon next Miss Rita Ohlfsen-Bagge will give a concert and pianoforte recital at St. James's Hall, at which her pupils will assist, when she will herself join with Miss Vera Rudd in a Grieg "Ballade," with variations, and with Miss Vivian Murray in Saint-Saens' "Phaeton." The assisting artists will be Miss Emma Sussmilch, Miss Lilian Frost, and Mr. Emil Sussmilch.

MR. FRANK E. DOWN'S MATINEE.

A matinee "invitation" will be given by the pupils of Mr. Frank E. Down at Paling's Concert Room on Wednesday afternoon next, when professional assistance will be given by Miss Dora Rancland and Mr. G. Faunce Allman.

MISS MINNIE DANIEL'S CONCERT.

A concert entertainment will be given at St. James's Hall next Thursday evening, in aid of the Children's Hospital, by Miss Minnie Daniel. That well-known pianist will be assisted in an attractive musical programme by Mr. Orme Darvall, Mr. Cyril Monk, and other leading artists; whilst on the dramatic side Miss Daniel has secured the co-operation of the Bona Nova South Wales Club in "Barbara," with Miss Tempe Pigott and Miss Cecily Innes Noad in leading characters.

MISS LOUIE FOULIS'S CONCERT.

At the Y.M.C.A. Hall on Tuesday, November 23, a concert will be given by Miss Louie Foulis, assisted by Miss Emma Sussmilch. The whole of the programme will be from the works of Franz Liszt. Seats can be reserved at Paling's.

"SISTERS OF THE CHURCH" ENTERTAINMENT.

A dramatic entertainment in aid of the Sisters of the Church will be given at St. James's Hall on Tuesday evening, November 23, when the programme will include "Shades of the Night" (Misses Hanbury-Davies and Ruth Oliver, Messrs. Nathan and King) and "A Happy Pair" (Miss N. Newman and Mr. E. F. Bock), with humorous items by Mr. G. Norton Russell. The plan will open at Paling's on Monday.

MISS MAY FETHERSTON'S CONCERT.

Miss May Fetherston and her students will give an invitation concert at the Y.M.C.A. Hall on Wednesday, November 24, when the assisting artists will be Miss Florrie Fetherston, Miss M'Conley, Mr. H. Weir, and Mr. Cyril Monk. The plan will open at Paling's next Wednesday. Tickets obtainable at "Rosstrevor."

MISS MACNICOL'S ENTERTAINMENT.

At her annual pupils' entertainment of recitation and comedy at St. James's Hall on Friday, November 26, Miss Mary MacNicol will herself deliver a scene from "Macbeth," whilst the students' contributions will include the comedietta "The Little Female Academy." Invitation ticket holders may reserve seats at Paling's as notified.

HERR KRETSCHMANN CONCERT.

At the Town Hall, on Tuesday, November 30, an invitation concert will be given by the pupils of Herr Josef Kretschmann. Madame Slapoffski and Mr. Rex de Cairos Rego (who will make his debut since his return from Europe) have been specially engaged to sing at this concert. In anticipation of a big rush for tickets, a plan will be opened at Paling's on Wednesday next, when seats can be reserved as notified.

BIJOU PICTURE PALACE.

At the Bijou Picture Palace the latest films shown have included "Andreas Hofer," a stirring story of revolutionary warfare; "The Way of the Cross," a story in the same style as "The Sign of the Cross"; the humorous incidents of "An American Marriage" and "The Boy Scout," with scenes from the White Sea fishing industry. The aero-cinephone will operate.

VICTORIA HALL PICTURES.

This afternoon and evening, at the renovated Victoria Hall, the latest films are being brought forward, including the tragic Roman drama, "The Way of the Cross," the romantic play "A Traitor to his King and Country," the industrial theme of "White Sea Fisheries," and such comic subjects as "Liberty for an Hour."

QUEEN THEATRE GLOBE PICTURES.

At the Queen's Theatre holiday matinees are notified for this day, Monday, and Wednesday next. The new programme of the latest star subjects from Europe and America is headed by a vivid series entitled "The Power of the Big Coal Miners' Strike." Many humorous and dramatic films will be shown.

CLAY'S VAUDEVILLE COMPANY.

At the Royal Standard Theatre this evening and on Monday night Mr. Harry Clay's Vaudeville Company will present a newly-varied programme of the latest songs, dances, moving pictures, and illustrated songs, in which new artists will be introduced with old favourites. Next week's suburban circuit will open at Balmain on Tuesday, Newtown Wednesday, Ashfield Thursday, and North Sydney Friday.

TOWN HALL ORGAN RECITALS.

The city organist, Mr. Ernest Truman, will render the following interesting items to-morrow, at 3.15:—Rheinberger's "Sonata," op. 165; "Prelude and Fugue in G major" (Bach); Elizabeth's Prayer and introduction act 3, "Tannhauser," and "March and Procession," op. 41 (Guilmant).

A MUSICAL MATINEE.

At Beale's showrooms on Thursday afternoon, another enjoyable musical matinee and afternoon tea was held, at which an excellent programme was provided. Special mention might be made of Miss Violet M'Neil (contralto), in "Teach me the charm" (Noel Johnson), and of Mr. Percy French in "Take a pair of Sparkling eyes" (Sullivan). Mr. Carl Badden-Morris besides rendering the second rhapsodie of Liszt successfully, accompanied the singers.

NEW ZEALAND VIEWS.

The Tourist Department of New Zealand has arranged, through the Government Agency, 330 George-street, Sydney, to hold a private display of animated pictures descriptive of the Dominion's scenic wonders, at the Lyceum Theatre on Thursday, at 3 p.m. A few additional invitations are available on application.

THE WILBUR WRIGHT AEROPLANE.

Since the first announcement by Messrs. J. and N. Tait of their intended exhibition of the Wilbur Wright aeroplane, prior to the flights of same, the interest in the event has been daily increasing. Mr. Colin Defries has arrived, and from his interviews we gather that a remarkable epoch in aviation will shortly be recorded for Australia. The Wilbur Wright machine, which will arrive by the Otranto to-day, will be transported to the Town Hall on Monday, and the construction of same will be commenced on Thursday. In order to afford the many thousands interested in aerial navigation a chance of witnessing the construction in question, Messrs. J. and N. Tait are issuing a limited number of tickets at 5s each at Paling's from 9 o'clock on Monday morning next. Mr. Colin Defries will be present, and will explain all details. Biograph pictures of recent aerial flights will also be exhibited.

DECADENCE OF FAITH.

THE VOLUNTARY SYSTEM.

BISHOP GALLAGHER'S VIEWS.

GOULBURN, Friday.

The golden jubilee of the Sisters of Mercy, now amalgamated throughout the diocese and constituting one order under one Mother-General, is being celebrated this week. A bazaar was opened on Monday evening by the Mayor. A central mother house, with novitiate and training college, has become a necessary consequence of the diocesan union, and the fine residence at North Goulburn of Mr. W. M. A. Arnold, St. Michael's, with grounds of 13 acres, has been secured for the purpose. The object of the bazaar is to meet the expenditure incurred. Speaking at the opening of the function Bishop Gallagher said that Christians must admit with sorrow—while, on the other hand, many viewed it with pride, satisfaction, and hopefulness—that not merely in the effete civilisations of Europe, but in large sections of their own Australian population, Christian faith was dying out, that a godless science was taking the place of divine revelation, that ethical culture was fast replacing Christian morality as founded on the teaching of the Gospel; that the physical or materialistic evolution of history was to be—so at least extreme socialists declare—the religion of the future. Commenting on the non-granting of State aid to Catholic institutions, the Bishop said that the energetic zeal and intelligent direction of the clergy acting on the faith and generous co-operation of a devoted people would, slowly it might be but assuredly, develop the voluntary system, as it was called, into an effective organism which would be able to meet all the requirements of learning, of charity, of religion. Socials, concerts, and bazaars might for some time yet have to be called into requisition. But yet a little while, and even the necessity of resorting to these not altogether desirable methods of raising funds should have passed away.

CADET DAY.

A CAMP WITHOUT CANVAS.

Preparations are well in hand for celebration of Cadet Day on Monday. Over 2000 cadets will participate in what promises to be a unique juvenile military tournament.

At the Agricultural Ground, Moore Park during yesterday the advance parties were busily engaged putting things in readiness for the incoming cadets. The First Battalion (Metropolitan and South Coast) Senior Cadets arrived in the afternoon, and went into camp. The Second (South) and Fourth (West and North) Battalions travelled during the night, and will arrive in camp early this morning. In all there will be about 1230 cadets under canvas. "Under canvas" is on this occasion a misnomer. There are not half a dozen tents in all. It is a camp without canvas. The pavilions in the Royal Agricultural Society's ground will be used. The First Battalion will inhabit the vehicle pavilion, near the entrance gates. The Seconds will camp in the old pavilion near the Paddington end. The big industrial pavilion will accommodate the Fourth Battalion. Excellent arrangements have been made for meals, cooking, and sanitation by Captain Smith.

Major Wynne will be in command, with Major Dove staff officer. Captain Smith is Brigade Quartermaster, assisted by Lieutenant Jess, S.O., Senior Cadets. The medical arrangements are in the hands of Captain Rice, A.A.M.C. There are eight staff instructors. The First Battalion Metropolitan and South Coast Senior Cadets will come into camp about 400 strong under Capt. Edmunds, with Lieutenant Goodger as Quartermaster. Major Alderson commands the Second Southern Line Seniors, with Lieutenant Dixson Quartermaster. These should muster about 375 strong. The Fourth Battalion (west to Forbes and north to Singleton) will have about 460 under Major Baxter, O.C., and Lieutenant Mortimer Quartermaster.

To-day the brigade will participate in the King's Birthday review in Centennial Park. On Sunday a church parade will be held, and on Monday the Junior Cadets will flock to Moore Park to join with the seniors in celebrating Cadet Day.

An Everyday Struggle!

Men and women of every occupation overtax the kidneys and suffer daily miseries when the kidneys begin to fail. Any work that is a constant strain on the back is bound to hurt the kidneys. The lifting, digging, and planting of farm work; the constant bending over a desk or sitting at a sewing machine, working for hours on jarring, jolting waggons; the stooped positions, and the reaching, pulling, and heavy lifting of a hundred different trades—all these are hard on the back, and must wear, weaken, and injure the kidneys, because the kidneys are in the very part of the back that feels the strain. When the kidneys are sick every exertion sends a sharp, stinging pain through the back or loins, and you are weary and tired all the time. Many tasks, like housework, that do not require great physical strength, are very trying on the back and kidneys. That is why backache is so common. That is why so many women are unnaturally tired and sleepless. Doan's Backache Kidney Pills have cured thousands of working men and women—have given them strong backs for their daily work. We would sincerely advise every man or woman whose work is hard on the back to take an occasional dose of Doan's Backache Kidney Pills. They will keep the kidneys well and the back strong, and keeping the kidneys well is half the task of keeping the body well. Read the following testimony from people cured to stay cured by this grand kidney remedy:—

SYDNEY PEOPLE CURED.

Here are 2 Instances, no Room for more, but we have Hundreds like them:—

FROM NEWTOWN.

Mr. James Hudson, 14 Lennox-street, Newtown, Sydney, says:—"I work in the Bondi sewer. There is a constant drip there, and when working it mostly happens that one is wet through. Some parts are better than others, but while working in the shafts one is continually damp, and this affected my health. My trouble came with a bad cold in my kidneys, which caused terrible pains in the back. I did my work, but it was most fearful torture for me to do so, as you can well understand. I was exceedingly bad with these pains when I saw Doan's Backache Kidney Pills advertised, and it struck me, by the name of the remedy, that it should be good for my complaint. I procured them, and they cured me in a fairly quick time. I could not take them constantly, being afraid to take them while working in the wet sewer, but I managed to take two doses a week. The nature of my work caused me to have slight returns of the pains, but I take a dose of Doan's Backache Kidney Pills, which never fail to cure me. I am never without them in the house."

This statement was made nine years ago. Mrs. Hudson says to-day:—"My husband is still well, and free of backache, and he has been ever since he used Doan's Backache Kidney Pills nine years ago. These Pills are excellent for the Kidneys."

FROM GLEBE.

Farrier-sergeant Grace, late of the First Regiment, Australian Bushmen, now living at 102 Darling-street, Glebe, Sydney, wrote from Klip Drift, S. Africa, March 1st, 1901:—"I am very pleased to state that we have your famous Doan's Backache Kidney Pills in the midst of our regiment. I was very much troubled in the early part of the campaign with pains all over me, especially in the back. You see, I was always trekking about in bad weather, and sleeping on the damp ground, and one would want an iron constitution to withstand the inroads on the system. Many mornings I have tried to get up, but failed until I obtained assistance. My agony was often so bad that I have felt inclined to rush into the zone of the enemy's fire and put an end to my sufferings. All the military doctors who treated me failed to do me any good. One day a comrade gave me three boxes of Doan's Backache Kidney Pills, and told me to try them. The first box eased me greatly; the third box completed the cure. Many of my comrades used them, and they swear by this wonderful medicine. Indeed, this testimony expresses their gratitude to Doan's Backache Kidney Pills as well as mine."

Eight years later Mr. Grace says:—"I am still quite free of kidney trouble, and have been ever since Doan's Backache Kidney Pills cured me eight years ago."

Get what you ask for Get DOAN'S. Don't accept something "Just as Good." All Chemists sell DOAN'S BACKACHE KIDNEY PILLS, and will give you what you call for. Some may endeavour to substitute an article they make more profit on. Insist on getting the genuine, and save money and misery. Price, 2/9 per bottle (six bottles 15/3), or will be posted on receipt of price by Foster-McClellan Co., 76 Pitt-street, Sydney.

CONGO ROOFING is made for all weathers. An unusually severe storm won't hurt it. An extraordinary hot spell won't hurt it. An extra long cold snap won't hurt it. It will stand any kind of exposure. The weather finds no way in which to attack Congo Roofing.

RAIN can't damage it, because there is nothing in it that is affected by water in any way. If Congo Roofing were put at the bottom of a pond, the water would never disintegrate it.

AIR can't damage it, because there is nothing in it that is volatile—nothing that will evaporate. If Congo Roofing were hung out like a flag for years, so that air could get at both sides of it, it would stay just as pliable and elastic as when new.

CLIMATE can't change it, because there is nothing in it that is affected by either heat or cold. The heat on roofs is often terrific, and in cold weather the snow thaws and freezes there for weeks, but Congo has never shown any effects of such exposure.

IT can't rot, because there is nothing in it that can decompose. It is because we know the nature of the materials we use that we venture to say that Congo Roofing is practically indestructible.

EVERY foot of Congo Roofing is carefully inspected as it comes off the machine. No imperfect rolls are allowed to leave the factory. Every pound of the material that enters into the composition is carefully tested before being used, and strictly held to standard. Should it fail in the slightest way, it is immediately discarded. Congo Roofing is handsome in appearance, being of a uniform slate-grey colour.

PEOPLE who buy Congo Roofing for a building once don't buy any more in after years—for that building—because it is there to stay, although the roof costs but little. They do buy more for their other roofs. Everyone who tries Congo is soon a convert, and he becomes more enthusiastic the longer he waits for the roof to wear out.

CONGO ROOFING is put up in rolls 36 inches wide. Each roll contains 216 square feet, sufficient to cover 200 square feet and allow for a two inch lap. The rolls are finished with an attractive wrapper and label, and are capped with a special metal cap to protect the ends of the roofing. A steel rod runs through the centre to hold the caps and cement securely in place.

SUFFICIENT Congo cement, nails, and tin caps for applying are neatly packed in the centre of each roll, so that you pay nothing for extras.

CONGO ROOFING is easy to apply. Skilled labour is not necessary. You don't have to hire an expert to help. If you can drive a nail you can do all the work that is necessary.

CONGO DAMP COURSE.

Congo Damp Course is an effective armour against underground dampness and vapours. It should be used under basement and cellar floors, and cemented tight with Congo Cement. The lime in mortar will not injure it, the earth gases will not hurt it, water is powerless against it, white ants find that it contains certain antiseptics which they cannot attack, vermin and rodents likewise leave it strictly alone. Congo Damp Course costs so little, and is so easily put in place, that you cannot afford to build without it.

SCIENCE NOTES.

BY W. G. P.

THE PERIODIC LAW.

Mr. A. E. Garrett contributes to the International Scientific Series, edited by Mr. F. Legge, a volume on the "Periodic Law." The choice of subject was well timed, though in the nature of the case it cannot receive very popular treatment, and some exact knowledge of chemistry is needed to follow the argument. But in the light of modern views of the atom as a complex of electrons the data for earlier theories as to the evolution of the elements become once more of special interest, and the important fact about the Periodic Law, as enunciated by Lothar Meyer and Mendeleef in 1869, was that it gave the first sound basis for a belief that all the so-called elements were really complexes of some primary units. Of this we have now the strongest independent evidence, but we are apt to forget that this evidence is the accumulation of the last decade, and that almost up to the end of the nineteenth century the Periodic Law was the only guide to the philosophic chemist who wished to speculate on the origin of the elements. Progress has been so rapid and the changes of view have been so fundamental that nineteenth century theories as to the origin of the elements strike us as painfully crude; but it was at this time that the solid foundations of chemical knowledge were being laid, and the Periodic Law sums up in reality an immense mass of unselfish and strenuous work. Attempts to express some relationship between the weights and properties of the elements began almost as soon as Dalton had made his famous generalisation, and long before the atomic weights were known with any certainty—a fact that put most of the earlier writers very much off the track. But Mr. Garrett's account of their efforts is very instructive, and it provides material that has not previously been available in so convenient a form. The subject might perhaps have been treated with more direct reference to the evolution of the elements, but the author prefers the safer ground of historical exposition. On the whole this is clear and sufficient. In brief, the Periodic Law expresses a quantitative relationship between the properties of an element and its atomic weight, and these properties are found to recur periodically as the atomic weight increases. Knowing the atomic weight of an element, therefore, it should be possible to predict its properties. When the elements are arranged in ascending order of their atomic weights, and at the same time allowed to fall into related groups, certain gaps in the classification have to be left, and it was Mendeleef's great triumph to predict the discovery of three unknown elements to occupy those gaps. All of them have been found. There are, however, many more gaps left to fill, and on the other hand new elements, such as the argon group, have been found, for which there at first seemed no place. The more recent elaborations of the periodic classification, however, satisfy most requirements, though there are one or two outstanding difficulties. Mr. Garrett brings his work reasonably up to date, and the volume forms an important addition to the series. The Periodic Law will never lose its value, though we have now discovered that the problem of chemical synthesis it sets us is immensely more complex than the nineteenth century dreamed of.

SNAILS AS FOOD AND MEDICINE.

According to Pliny, a certain Fulvius Hirpinus first instituted snail preserves at Tarquinium, about 50 B.C. He bred several varieties, some of which came from Africa, while the Illyrian snails were noted for their great size. Hirpinus fattened them on meal and wine. Snails, however, were not regarded by the Romans as a particular luxury. Horace recommends them as a stimulant to the appetite. Snail gardens still exist in many parts of Europe, but the French markets are mainly supplied with snails gathered in the open country, particularly from vineyards. Here the snail is a pest, and as many as 240 gallons of them have been collected at a time. Before being sent to table at the fashionable restaurants the snails are fattened on bran. The Roman Catholic Church permits their consumption during Lent, and very large numbers are then eaten. Though the practice never seems to have been common in England, it is not unknown, and some curious reports on the subject are extant. Since classic times snails have been used as a medicine, and prescribed for a puzzling range of complaints. In modern times a belief has been prevalent among the poorer classes that snails are good for consumption; slugs, as being being minus a shell, were preferred by many patients. Here is a not very appetising prescription from the cookery-book of Mrs. Wolfe, the mother of Wolfe of Quebec. It is called a good water for consumption:—"Take a peck of green garden snails, wash them in beer, put them in an oven; then beat the snails, shells and all, in a stone mortar. Then take a quart of green earthworms, slice them, and strew them with salt, then wash and beat them, the pot being first put into the still with two handsful of angelico, a quart of rosemary flowers, then the snails and worms, egrimony, bears' feet, and dock roots, Barbary brake, bilbong, with wormwood each two handsful; one handful of rue tumerick, and one ounce of saffron well dried and beaten. Then pour in three gallons of milk. Wait till morning, then put in three ounces of cloves, hartshorn grated. Keep the still covered all night. This done, stir it not. Distil with a moderate fire. The patient must take two spoonsful at a time."

THE EGGS OF MOLLUSCS.

Reproduction among the mollusca takes place by means of eggs. As a rule, the eggs are "laid," and have to trust to luck; in a few cases the young are hatched before the eggs are expelled. The number of eggs laid by various species ranges from 60,000,000 down to 14,000 or 20,000; while less commonly only from 40 to 100 eggs are produced. In the case of some large tropical shellfish the eggs are as large as a sparrow's or a pigeon's. Eggs are deposited in many curious ways. In one species what looks like a thick piece of sandpaper is curled into a spiral. Sand, in fact, is agglutinated by mucus into a kind of sheet, on which the eggs are deposited in regular layers. In other cases the eggs are enclosed in leathery capsules, of which a single mollusc may produce some hundreds. In other species the ova are contained in small cylindrical cases, of which hundreds may be attached together like bundles of young carrots. Certain species lay their eggs on the outside of their own shells, the shell being the only stable object available in their habitat. Usually breeding takes place in the winter with marine forms. Land molluscs of temperate regions usually breed in the summer, while in the tropics the breeding time is determined by the occurrence of the rainy seasons.

CONCERNING ALUM.

The ancients procured their alum from natural deposits, of which those of Egypt and the island of Melos were the most famous. According to some authors it was used to paint wooden buildings as a preservative against fire. Probably alum was first manufactured in the East, and the process was introduced to Europe by the Turks. The early Italian dyers procured their alum, along with other materials, from the Levant. In the fifteenth century there were alum works in the neighbourhood of Constantinople, from which John di Castro learned the art. At the same time alum was a staple product of Smyrna. John di Castro established some of the earliest works in Italy. He had been at Constantinople when the city fell into the hands of the Turks, and was a great trader in dye-stuff. His alum was sold largely to the Venetian and Florentine dyers, and Pope Pius II. himself has left us an account of the industry, inasmuch as the discovery was regarded as a sort of victory over the infidel. This was about the year 1460. Aluminous earth was calcined in a furnace, and the alum extracted by boiling with water and subsequent crystallisation. The industry was a very profitable one in those days, and soon established itself in various parts of Italy. Turkish alum was formally excommunicated, according to some old writers; certainly many of the Popes issued bulls against its use. In the sixteenth century, however, a revolt arose at the high price of the Italian article, and mines were established in Spain and Germany. The first alum works in England are said to have been erected in Yorkshire in the reign of Queen Elizabeth. James I. was a great promoter of the industry.

A MILITARY COLLEGE FOR AUSTRALIA.

(BY COLONEL FOSTER, R.E., DIRECTOR OF MILITARY STUDIES, SYDNEY UNIVERSITY.)

Compulsory training will shortly be adding greatly to the numbers in the ranks of the citizen forces of the Commonwealth, but this increase will little affect the military strength of Australia unless it be accompanied by some means of providing these ranks with officers so trained that they know their work.

How this may be effected is a question of immense importance to all Australians, whether they be the politicians and journalists who will be responsible if the men are sent to war under incompetent generals and inefficient officers, or the mere voters on whom the sufferings of defeat and the burden of wasted lives will actually fall.

When using the word officers it should always be remembered that it applies to three different categories—the regimental officer, from lieutenant to colonel, who is the leader of the men in ranks; the commander, from the brigadier to the commander-in-chief; and the staff officer, who assists the commander.

THE REGIMENTAL OFFICER.

The regimental officer should essentially be a leader of men—that is, a man whom others will follow into danger and through hardships. Now, men will not follow unless they have confidence in their leader and are dominated by his character. This latter influence is innate in the individual, and can hardly be cultivated by education, but the confidence of the followers rests on their conviction of the leader's capacity and judgment. These qualities are the outcome of his professional attainments, and the training of his faculties. It is to develop these that military training is required. It will, of course, not alter character, make a vacillating nature resolute, or a meek man masterful, but by training the strongest will be all the better equipped for war, and the weaker less deficient.

The duty of the regimental officer is comparatively simple. Belonging to one arm of the service, he has only to know its drill and tactics in action, and to be in close touch with his men, knowing them individually, aware of their feelings, and gauging their spirit or morale. In the field his responsibilities are limited to directing and caring for his men, with whom he constantly remains, sharing their mode of life, their food, and their shelter, as well as their hardships and risks. The military virtues of the regimental officer are resolution in action, endurance to give an example, and to be fair and yet firm with his men.

THE STAFF OFFICER.

The staff officer exercises no personal command, but needs a far more extensive knowledge of his profession than other officers. He should be conversant with the tactics and capabilities of all the arms of the service, and with the complexities of army administration, the supply of food and ammunition, the difficulties of transport, and the medical service, which do not trouble the regimental officer.

The staff officer is charged with the direction of the troops to the right place at the right time, without confusion or delay. He has to work out the details as to time, distance, and numbers, so as to embody the intentions of the general in sound, clear orders, which must be transmitted promptly and safely to the troops.

Some of the staff are occupied in getting information about the enemy, from every possible source, including their own personal reconnaissance, reports of patrols and scouts, and spies. This information has to be carefully compared and analysed, and the result laid before the general, so that he can use it to arrive at a decision on his plans.

The above are only the main headings of the duties of the staff, and each comprises an immense amount of detailed work, demanding special knowledge, to be properly performed. A good staff officer must have decision, and readiness to take responsibility. He must concentrate his faculties on the task in hand, regardless of risks and fatigue, knowing that on its performance vast issues may hang. At the same time he should be cheerful in adverse circumstances, to avoid depressing the troops, and must have tact to reduce the friction inevitable in war. He should be a good horseman, go for long hours in the saddle, and for hard work at the desk.

In a staff officer any self-seeking or disloyalty to chief or comrades, is, of course, opposed to all sense of duty and honour.

A good staff officer cannot be improvised. Practice and training are necessary, even for an intelligent man, to make a good staff officer, and his judgment and knowledge of his profession will be severely tested, especially if slightly trained troops are to be handled.

The working of a staff is exactly what it is in a well-conducted business, where each man is employed on one kind of work, with a proper supervision of labour under a central control, which co-ordinates the details of all the work of the staff into one whole, thus avoiding contradictory orders or duplication of labour, and consequent friction.

With an inferior staff the troops cannot fail, through no fault of their own, to suffer hardships and privations, and to be overworked and placed at disadvantage in battle. The better fitted the staff for its duties the more free the general in command will be to attend to his own work, and the subordinate commanders to carry out orders with cooperating intelligence. A good staff are hands, eyes, and ears for the general, and a brain and nervous system for the army, without which its movements will be spasmodic, and its action un-coordinated.

STAFF AT HEADQUARTERS.

In addition to the officers carrying on the above duties with the army in the field, some staff officers must be retained at the Department of Defence, where an immense amount of work has to be done to carry on the war. Troops have to be mobilised and concentrated, and moved to various theatres of operations, entailing complicated arrangements and much movement of men, horses, and stores, by rail, or by sea. Garrisons have to be completed and supplied; troops in the field fed with reinforcements, food, ammunition, and clothing, which have all to be collected first. Reports from commanders have to be considered, and instructions given them. Appointments and promotions of officers must be made; the sick and wounded disposed of, all deaths notified.

It would be difficult to exaggerate the confusion which would reign at headquarters and the ensuing delays and disasters, if the staff officers on the military board and their assistants have not broad views and good judgment, as well as high professional qualifications for their arduous and somewhat thankless task.

THE COMMANDER.

The responsibilities of the commander of a body of troops, and still more that of the Commander-in-Chief of the Army, greatly exceed those of other officers. He should have been himself a good regimental, and perhaps also a staff, officer, but he must essentially have studied the art of war, strategy for the main operations, tactics for the encounter, so that he may be able to give the best directions to his troops, without which their pluck and efficiency cannot tell.

But on the moral side lie the real difficulties of command. Right decisions must be arrived at under circumstances of perplexity. The different capacity of subordinate commanders must be allowed for in determining their actions. Above all, the qualities of the opponent must be correctly estimated, so that his action may be foreseen, and his weaknesses played upon. There are, too, times in war when a commander has to place his reputation at stake as much as his life, to harden his nature against pity and regret, and to exercise all the "driving power" of which his will is capable, so as to get his troops to act up to the last limit of their endurance of hardships on the march, or of losses in action.

NUMBERS OF STAFF OFFICERS REQUIRED.

The above short summary of the duties falling on commanders and staff officers in war shows the desirability of providing opportunities for training them in peace. We shall appreciate this better if we consider the numbers required if all the forces of the Commonwealth were mobilised for war.

There are ten brigades and eight garrisons, each requiring a commander and at least one staff officer, the larger brigades two, or some 40 in all.

Some of the brigades will be grouped in larger bodies to facilitate command, each group needing a commander and two staff officers; say, 12 in all.

The commander-in-chief would require a commander of his line of communications, with his staff, and a headquarters staff for himself, making a total of 12 to 20.

At the Defence Department the four military members, with their staff, must comprise at least 12 officers.

The total would amount to some 80, of whom 24 would be commanders. Allowing 20 per cent. for officers not available, absent or sick when war breaks out, and to replace casualties during operations, we get a total of 100 trained officers required to be always available to fill commands and staff appointments, if Australia wishes to be prepared for war. Success will depend largely on their efficiency. Hence no effort should be spared to train staff officers for their duties, which will, therefore, be the main function of the proposed military college, the other being the training of regimental officers.

TRAINING OF REGIMENTAL OFFICERS.

This must take place mainly with the men, where alone can officers learn to command. But it can be usefully supplemented by teaching the officer the tactics of his arm, and how to train his men. Instruction can also be given in discipline, regimental duties, military regulations and etiquette, and in the conduct of correspondence. Such a course cannot fail to interest the officer, and make him more intelligent and effective, and so enhance his influence with his men.

TRAINING OF STAFF OFFICERS.

A consideration of the varied duties required from staff officers, as sketched above, suggests that a military college might provide instruction in the following subjects:—

The war organisation and tactics of each arm of the service, and of all in combination.

Making reconnaissances and reports on roads, railways, ground for defence and attack, landing places, camps, outposts, etc., etc.

Drafting orders for movements and for fighting.

The means of obtaining information about the enemy.

The working of the administrative service, both with the force in the field, and on its lines of communication.

Writing appreciations of different military situations, which means summing up what can be said about them, and the pros and cons of the courses open for dealing with them. This forms the best practice for correct decisions in war.

Military history, the record of experience from past campaigns, which is the only foundation for the study of the art of war.

The college must therefore fill two separate functions: First, help militia officers to become more efficient as leaders of their men; secondly, train selected officers in staff duties, so as to ensure that there will be always enough available to furnish commanders and their staff for the forces.

For the first object, a body of permanent officers called the instruction staff exists, whose duty is to train the militia. Their efficiency for this work is most important, and if they are trained at the college, it will be indirectly assisting to educate the militia.

This could be effected, first, by passing the existing instruction staff through a course of a few months at the college, in successive batches till all have been through. Next by training all aspirants for this position for one year, so as to ensure that none become instructors unless they are competent. Short "refreshing" courses would afterwards keep the instruction staff from rusting.

But besides the above indirect action, the college could give direct training to militia officers by bringing instruction to them. If they cannot spare time to come to the college. An ambulatory class should be formed to give an opportunity of instruction to the militia at the large centres, which it could visit, one after the other, for a few weeks at each throughout the year.

But besides these ambulatory courses militia officers should be invited to attend the college for such a time as their civil avocations permit, which would generally be limited to two weeks. These courses might be devoted to instruction in staff duties, and special advanced courses could be formed for selected officers who have passed through the more elementary ones.

In addition, whenever officers are selected to enter the staff college in England, or that in India, in order to train them for the Imperial General Staff, they should attend the military college for some months, so as to prepare them for the examinations.

As all the above courses would be simultaneously carried on more or less continuously throughout the year, it is thought that the staff should comprise the following:—

A commandant; an assistant commandant; two chief instructors and four instructors, including one specially conversant with the work of field artillery; one civil servant as secretary and accountant, to conduct correspondence and finance, and relieve the commandant of all work not instruction. A few good staff-sergeant instructors to assist the instructors, and a couple of shorthand clerks, would be required.

There should be formed for the college a complete military library of all necessary books, for use of the staff and of the officers attending the college. It should include a good collection of maps, and the secretary could act as librarian.

At first no quarters need be provided. All officers could receive lodging allowance while attending the college. There would be required two or three lecture-rooms, a library, some offices, and ground suitable for practical instruction. Little equipment would be needed beyond furniture, stationery, and some instruments and models of a simple description.

CONCLUSION.

Whatever may be the details of the instruction proposed, it is of vital importance to Australia that a scheme for training her officers for war shall be initiated without delay, not only to avert national disaster, but in the interests of the men who will have to bear the brunt of war.

The credit and safety of the country might conceivably be snatched from ruin by the courage of her sons, aided by some good fortune their leaders will not have deserved, or by mistakes of the enemy they could not have counted on. But even then, at what a price—by needless sacrifice of life, and unnecessary sufferings! It is, however, far more likely that without efficient leaders the patriotism and spirit of the men will only add to their losses, without ensuring success.

To avert this result, should Australia have to face war, is a matter which comes home to every family in the country. Parents, sisters, and sweethearts who have those dear to them in the ranks are vitally concerned in making sure that those who lead the men shall know their work.

THE CHRISTMAS "GRAPHIC."

We receive the Christmas number of the "Graphic," and as usual it takes a leading place among the annuals. The two large colour plates are this year specially good. They include capital reproductions of Woodville's "The Storming of Dargai Heights," and Mrs. Seymour Lucas's "For Ever and Ever, Amen"—two contrasted subjects that make a pleasing pair. The cover design is rich, novel, and effective, and not less striking is the pictorial title-page. There is a wealth of colour plates, in which the delicacy of process work reaches its limits, and the humorous drawings are also for the most part in colour. J. Hassall, Lawson Wood, and others collaborate at this point to provide a splendid bill of fare, and they are well seconded by the writers of Christmas stories, who include on this occasion Dion Colthrop, F. M. White, and others. The whole production is worthy of the highest praise, and will no doubt prove popular.

POULTRY.

Questions relating to fancy or commercial poultry-breeding, diseases, etc., should be addressed to "Ancona," Herald Office.

Enquirer.—Your request re the popularity of breeds in England is exhaustively replied to in this column.
Watson's Bay.—The mixture is not intended for chickens the age you mention. Bran and pollard, with the house scraps, meat, or soup, or both for the morning food, whole meat or cracked corn for the other two meals, will give good results. The perches mentioned are quite suitable.

Mr. Thompson, Hawkesbury College poultry expert, reports that the October weather conditions were favourable for egg production, the pullets averaging three eggs per pen more than in October of last year. For the seven expired months of the present test, the 60 pens averaged 648 eggs, as against 656, 605, and 646 of the three preceding competitions. Following are the leading ones up to the 31st ult.:—R. Maxwell, S.W., 815; R. H. Stewart, W.L., 812; Range Poultry Farm, W.L., 811; A. R. Brown, W.L., 807; J. Jensen, W.L., 777; T. Partridge, W.L., 767; A. R. Kennedy, B.O., 758; S. E. Jones, W.L., 753; E. Reynolds, B.O., 740; Tipper and Rose, W.L., 737; J. Waugh, W.L., 735; Wharepaka, W.L., 735. The two-year-old hens averaged 102 for October, against 104 in the previous test, the total average for the seven months exceeding that of last year by 48 eggs per pen. Messrs. Herps, Bright, and Thompson, Mrs. Snowden, Brierley, Ellis, Kelly, and Forest Home lead for the 19 months. The average laying of the ducks exceeded that done by either hens or pullets. Messrs. Dunlop, Hughes Bros., Rogers, Ransley, and Salter occupy the highest positions.

Notwithstanding all the rumours about cheap Adelaide eggs, such to the present time is having no effect on our market for new-laids, as evidenced by the late substantial rise. And even should it be correct that Adelaide cold store eggs will be landed here in a few months at a competing rate against our own, they will have to be a great deal better than those which came last winter, or their effect will be nil. Through representations as to quality, a Sydney grocery firm last year contracted for considerable quantities from South Australia, for delivery during our dear period, and on arrival here were found to be useless for the shop trade, and had to be realised on with all faults at some of the auction rooms. A paragraph in Monday's "Herald" is, however, assuring that there is little to fear from the South Australian invasion. Rather than the threatened 11d per dozen in April next, a prominent Sussex-street egg merchant has been refused contracts at 1s 1½d. So after all, the Adelaide invasion may be a harmless one.

A correspondent requests information as to which breed of fowls is now most popular in England. The only means of determining the query is to see how each breed is represented at the best shows, and as the Crystal Palace is considered the most classical, the entries there coming from all over the United Kingdom, they afford the safest guide. Following are the respective breeds which had more than 100 entries each:—

Wyandottes	730	672	545
Leghorns	345	236	216
Plymouth Rocks	375	277	240
Old English Game	210	220	160
Dorking	195	138	142
Cochin	165	139	113
Brahma	175	133	101

From the above it will be seen that while Wyandottes led in 1906 with 730, they dropped to 545 in 1908, Orpingtons being shown in the greatest numbers. In 1906 there were 164 Hamburg exhibits, and 120 Campines, but last year the numbers fell to 63 and 44 respectively.

Now that the warm weather is approaching, feathered stock of all kinds will require plenty of shade, for, despite the benefits of the sun, too much of the scorching rays is a handicap. Some breeders are favoured with plenty of shade in the way of trees, bushes, and other like growth, but there are those who are less fortunate, and these resort to artifices, which usually take the form of an old corn sack tacked on a light frame, under which the fowls spend much of their time in the frequent hot spells of the summer months. The natural shade is, however, best, and with our many quick-growing trees and shrubs, the unsightly substitutes need not be long tolerated. It is unnecessary to give a list of suitable shade trees, the conditions of each poultry-keeper being different. Ornamental trees may suit one, where others, with a view to greater profit, will choose some of the deciduous or evergreen fruit trees. For those who desire abundant natural shade in the shortest time there is nothing better than the common castor-oil plant. A number of seeds of these scattered in the corners or around the fences of the runs, and slightly covered, will in a few months grow to a height of eight or ten feet, the broad succulent ornamental cool leaves affording most excellent protection from the sun. There is a belief among some breeders that the castor-oil seeds are injurious to fowls. Such is not the case, some of the best birds in the State having been reared on ground strewn with the seed of this prolific but rarely appreciated plant. Not a season passes but deaths from heat waves are reported. Rarely does this occur where there is arboreal shade.

While a number of farmers and breeders for market are at the present time in the thick of hatching operations, the majority of fanciers have got sufficient chickens for the season. In the latter case the breeding pens should be disbanded, the hens turned out in one flock, and the male birds not further required be marketed, while those intended for future breeding or show purposes should be placed in small compartments by themselves, where they will soon get into moult, and become otherwise prepared for next season's operations. Should there not be sufficient separate accommodation for these roosters, a number can be housed together, but their quarters should be out of sight of the hens, otherwise there will be continual fighting, and as a consequence mutilation. If wanted for next season's shows, when a single broken feather is a handicap, penning separately is advisable, and if white fowls they should be kept under shade, for it is during moulting time the sun most affects the colour, and once the feathers become tanned neither washing nor anything else will avail in removing it. Competition in the show pen is now so keen that a bird, in addition to his good qualities, must be turned out in the best possible form to secure recognition in the prize list.

It has been often said that the average poultry man, one season with another, requires two eggs to produce one chicken, and while this is largely correct, his trouble when he gets the chickens is not over, it being too true that there are many breeders who fail to market 50 per cent. of those hatched. The cause of much loss is overcrowding the sleeping and rearing quarters, by attempting to rear more than the ground is capable of. This is not so noticeable while the chickens are in broods with the hens, the trouble mostly arising from the half-grown stage, when they really want as much room as adults. It will always be more satisfactory to under-occupy than overcrowd the ground, which soon becomes impregnated with filth, and if wet weather ensues disease appears, and large numbers are lost. On the approach of any trouble of this sort those showing evidence of it should be got rid of, the healthy ones removed to new quarters, and the ground and house previously occupied be treated with some cheap disinfectant.

Some time ago reference was made to the waning interest in the egg-laying competitions in England, growing competitions being advocated. A prominent English authority writes on the subject as follows:—"There is no doubt the table-poultry industry is sadly in need of some stimulant in order to test the best breeds and feeds for the early chicken trade. A large percentage of farmers have little knowledge regarding the best kinds and best methods of turning them out. Growing competitions would not only tend to improve our table strains, but would provide valuable lessons in rearing, fattening, and marketing. They would do for the table branch what the laying competitions have done for the egg branch, and as these competitions could be conducted at the houses of the breeders, there would be but the expense of a supervisor to occasionally visit the competing farms."

ADVANCING YEARS.

One by one the years pass by! Each bearing its burden of sorrow and joy, pain and pleasure. Each leaving its impress upon our characters and our bodies. Each, alas! passing quicker than its predecessor. A deadly procession, overwhelming all but memory as it advances; ruthless as the waves of the sea. We know it will submerge us finally, but until it does we may just as well stand bravely in its front, breasting its power, without cowering. Whilst we have health we can so stand with good heart, but advancing years are apt to sap at and undermine our strength. Few of us who have passed life's climax, and are descending the vale, but suffer from common ills, such as rheumatism, gout, indigestion, biliousness, neuralgia, lumbago, sick headache, general debility, backache, sciatica, anaemia, blood disorders, gravel, stone, and bladder troubles, and it is with the object of enabling such sufferers to shake off the burden and become well and strong that we once again point out that the disorders named all proceed from a defective action of the kidneys and liver. Once the kidneys and liver are restored to health and activity the suffering will cease. This is the reason that Warner's Safe Cure is so effective in overcoming such disorders. Warner's Safe Cure has a specific action upon the kidneys and liver, and enables those vital organs to eliminate the uric and biliary poisons which cause the disorders. Warner's Safe Cure is wonderfully effective in such cases. Write for a descriptive treatise to H. H. Warner and Co., Limited, Melbourne, who will send it post free.—Advt.

SOCIAL.

Summer weather has come in earnest, and during the past week we experienced some intensely warm days in Sydney. Already many are "on the wing" for cooler climes, and the country resorts are being largely patronised, although those districts where surf-bathing can be obtained are much in favour at the present moment.

His Excellency the State Governor returned from Melbourne on Thursday morning, and was present in the afternoon at the marriage of Captain Verney, A.D.C., with Miss Nita Walker, daughter of Senator and Mrs. J. T. Walker. The wedding was fully described in our columns yesterday.

Lady Chelmsford, who is a passenger to England by the R.M.S. Macedonia, was the guest of the Governor of South Australia and Lady Bosanquet at Government House during her short stay in Adelaide.

His Grace the Archbishop of Sydney and Mrs. Wright are expected to arrive in Sydney early this morning by the Otranto, and later a thanksgiving service will be held in St. Andrew's Cathedral. The lay members of the Cathedral Chapter have issued invitations to a garden party to be held at Rona, Bellevue Hill (by kind permission of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Knox), on Saturday next, November 20, the guests being invited "to meet his Grace the Archbishop and Mrs. Wright."

Lady Poore, who has lately been indisposed, and unable to accept any social engagements, left town on Wednesday for the country, where she will remain for a fortnight, and it is sincerely hoped the change will prove beneficial to her health. Lady Poore will probably return to Sydney about the end of the month, when his Excellency the Admiral is expected back from his visit to Queensland.

Captain and Mrs. Verney leave for England by R.M.S. Orontes, and will join the ship in Melbourne. They only intend making a short visit, and expect to return to Sydney in March.

In aid of the Sydney Homoeopathic Hospital a garden fete is to be held at the residence of Mr. Justice Pring, "Stoneleigh," Liverpool-road, Summer Hill, next Wednesday afternoon, November 17. The fete will be opened by the Lady Mayoress. Mrs. Allen Taylor. Mrs. Pring is the president, and Mrs. Doubleday and Miss E. M. Friend, the hon. secretaries of the committee.

"M.A.P." says that Lady Shackleton, wife of Sir Ernest Shackleton—so well-known to us all in connection with the expedition to the South Pole, and who recently received the honour of knighthood on the occasion of the King's Birthday—is a slightly built woman, of medium height, with dark hair and regular features, and an excellent complexion. Her eyes are the most remarkable thing about her, being keenly alive and watchful. In manner she is animated and agreeable, and the intelligence in her eyes is not belied by her conversation, while her reception by the King and Queen, and the attentions by society, have left her as unspoiled and calm as she was three years ago.

A dramatic entertainment will take place in St. James' Hall on Tuesday evening, November 23, in aid of the Sisters of the Church. The programme will include the charming little play, "The Shades of Night" (which was so successfully performed a few months ago, in aid of Sydney Day Nursery; also "A Happy Pair." Further particulars of the entertainment will be found elsewhere in our columns.

The annual flower show in aid of St. James' Church of England, under the auspices of the Women's Working Guild, was opened on Wednesday afternoon, in the Moss Vale Hall, by the Mayor, Dr. H. Leighton Jones, in the presence of a large and representative gathering of visitors. The blooms were good, and the entries in excess of last year. Mrs. Fitz Hill and Mrs. A. G. Miller were the most successful exhibitors. For the best decorated table Miss Marie de Mestre and Miss Stafford were equal. The stallholders were:—"Tea," Mrs. Holt; "produce," Mesdames E. H. Badgery and Winter; "work," Mesdames Wade and Crane; "flower," Mrs. Hodgson and Miss Moseley; "fancy," Mrs. Cullen and Miss Viles; "sweets," Mesdames Blomfield and Stafford; "soft drinks," Mrs. Dunn.

A marriage was celebrated at St. Stephen's Church, Newtown, on October 26 between Miss Ruby C. M. Walther, second daughter of Mrs. Walther of Newtown and Mr. John H. Carnwell, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carnwell, of Cheadle, Glen-street, Marrickville. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. L. Langley. The bride wore a dress of white silk trimmed with lace, and a tulle veil over a wreath of orange-blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet, a gift from the bridegroom. The bridesmaids were Miss Ina Walther (sister) in nattier-blue voile, and Miss Ada Carnwell (sister of the bridegroom), in white silk; their brooch and pendant, together with their bouquets, were gifts from the bridegroom. Mr. S. Wedge acted as best man, and Mr. S. Armitstead as groomsman. After the ceremony a reception was held at St. George's Hall, where about 60 guests were entertained.

A quiet wedding took place at Crieff, Corlette-street, Newcastle, on Wednesday, October 13, when Mr. Ainsworth James Pickup, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Pickup, of Tarawah, Windsor, was married to Miss Jane M'Gregor, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander M'Gregor, of Newcastle. The bride, who entered the drawing-room, where the ceremony was performed, on her father's arm, was dressed in cream crepe de chine trimmed with lace and insertion, and a wreath and veil. She also wore a gold bracelet and carried a shower bouquet, the gifts of the bridegroom. Miss Elsie Pickup was bridesmaid, and wore a semi-Empire dress of cream ninon, and a pink tulle hat with roses, and a gold cable bracelet, the gift of the bridegroom. Mr. Clive Pickup was best man. After the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. M. Keenan, the guests adjourned to a marquee on the lawn, where luncheon was served. Mr. and Mrs. Pickup left by the evening train for Sydney en route to the South Coast and Orange, the bride's travelling dress being a navy cloth with a mauve hat.

A marriage was celebrated at All Saints', Petersham, on Saturday, October 30, between Adrienne Rene (Renie), third daughter of the late Mr. J. M'Manis Booth, of Burwood, and Edmund H. O., third son of Mrs. L. Dunlop, of Stanmore, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. R. E. Goddard. The church was artistically decorated by girl friends with white wisteria and ferns. The bride, who was given away by Mr. Allan M. Neilley, wore a beautiful Empire dress of white paillette silk, with a Court train. The dress was trimmed with fringe and silver, the front panel and yoke being embossed with silver. She also wore a wreath and veil, and carried a shower bouquet of white carnations and orchids, which, with her diamond and ruby bracelet, was the gift of the bridegroom. The bridesmaids were Miss Booth (sister), Miss Dunlop (sister of bridegroom), and little Miss Lorna Neilley (niece of the bridegroom). The two former wore Empire dresses of white Indian linen, trimmed with Swiss embroidery and insertion, and pretty white picture hats with touches of mauve and pale pink respectively. Miss Lorna Neilley wore a white embroidered frock with pale blue ribbons, and a dainty tulle hat wreathed with daisies. They all carried bouquets of pale pink and white sweet peas. Miss Booth wore a gold and amethyst bracelet, Miss Dunlop a pearl and amethyst pendant, and Miss Neilley a gold heart pendant, gifts of the bridegroom. The best man was Mr. Horace Elkington (Peak Hill). Mr. and Mrs. Allan Neilley afterwards held a reception at their residence, Nyora, Shaw-street, Petersham. The bride's travelling dress was nattier blue crystalline voile, with Oriental insertion, worn with a golden straw hat trimmed with nattier blue and gold chrysanthemums.

On September 1, the marriage of the Rev. W. W. Roger, of South Sydney Methodist Mission, and Miss Amy Maude Carter, only daughter of Mr. A. F. Carter, of Forest Lodge, took place at St. John's-road Methodist Church, in the presence of a large gathering. The friends of the bride decorated the church. A canopy and altar being erected, and draped with white and pale pink. The Sunday-school children lined the aisles, holding white hoops, from which were suspended bells and horseshoes, and as the bridal party passed beneath, confetti was showered from the bells and horseshoes. The bride wore white crepe de chine, embroidered with silver thread and seed pearls. Across the shoulders was lace, inlet with finely-tucked satin, finished with pearl ornaments. Her long court train fell from the shoulders, and was trimmed with a sequin butterfly and large bow of ribbon. A coronet wreath and tulle veil completed the toilette. Her bouquet and pearl crescent brooch were gifts from the bridegroom. The bridesmaids were Miss Nellie Roger, in paillette silk, trimmed with lace and silver cord; she carried a bouquet of daffodils, with pale yellow streamers; Miss Welcoxson, in soft glace silk with a bouquet of pale pink stocks and pink streamers; Miss Clara Martin, also in soft glace silk, and a bouquet of heliotrope hyacinths, with ribbon to match. Their presents from the bridegroom were gold brooches, with rubies, and they also wore feathers and loops of pearls in the hair. The train-bearers were Miss Nellie O'Keefe, in white satin, and a satin bonnet with chiffon rosettes, who carried a silver crook with white ribbon; and Master Walter Purse in a suit of cream corduroy and pale blue silk and gold and lace ruffles, who carried a gold crook. The best man was Mr. E. Roger, and the groomsmen Mr. Harold Carter and Mr. Alick Roger. Mr. E. A. Carter, brother of the bride, presided at the organ. The church choir sang two hymns during the service in recognition of the fact that for nine years the bride had been alternately organist and pianiste of the church. The wedding breakfast was served in the Glebe Town Hall, where about 140 guests were entertained. During the evening the circuit minister, Rev. C. J. M'Coy, presented the bride with a beautiful illuminated address from the choir. The Sunday-school also presented her with a silver cake-basket. The N.S.W. C.E. Union presented the Rev. W. W. Roger with a silver afternoon tea service on his retiring from the presidency in September.

A pleasant evening was spent at the Glebe Presbyterian Church Hall on Monday, November 1, when members of the girls' club presented one of their teachers, Miss Clouston, daughter of the Rev. Dr. Clouston, with a china breakfast set of a pretty and unique design, on the occasion of her approaching marriage. Miss Clouston was also presented on Wednesday evening, November 10, with a silver kettle. Mr. Oliver Hogue, president of the Glebe Presbyterian Fellowship Association, made the presentation, and referred to Miss Clouston's valuable services to the church.

A wedding took place at the residence of the bride's parents on October 18, 1909, when Alec, second son of the late Mr. A. Strong and Mrs. Strong, of Harley Hill, Berry, was married to Margaret E., youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Pearson, Ocean-street, Paddington, by the Rev. J. E. Carruthers. The bride wore a white Shantung silk, with trimmings of satin ribbon and lace and a veil and wreath of orange blossoms. She also wore a diamond and ruby pendant, and carried a bouquet of white carnations, gifts from the bridegroom. The bridesmaids were Miss Nida Collins (cousin), in cream silk, her pendant, set with pearls and rubies, and her bouquet of pink roses, being gifts from the bridegroom; also Miss Bessie McBride (niece), in white silk with blue sash; she carried a basket of roses, and wore a gold bangle, the gifts of the bridegroom. Mr. R. E. Strong was best man. After the ceremony the wedding breakfast was served. Mr. and Mrs. Strong left later for their future home, Urara, Bexhill, Richmond River. The bride's travelling dress was navy blue cloth, braided in navy blue, and a hat to match.

The Moss Vale Lawn Tennis Club held its annual ball in the Moss Vale Hall on Friday evening, the 5th inst., the dance being a great success. The evening was beautifully cool, and with the large side doors thrown open dancing was made exceedingly pleasant. The hall was decorated on one side with tennis nets, and behind these easy chairs and "sitting-out" corners were arranged. Flags were also used for decorating. The supper was arranged on the stage, the tables being decorated with roses and ivy leaves, on the latter being painted in gold the initials of the club and the date. This ball is generally the first of the summer season in the district, and a number of people were present, including Mr. and Mrs. Fosbery (Melbourne), Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. H. Carter, Colonel and Mrs. Gerald R. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest E. Row and Miss Row, Mr. C. A. S. Miss M. Daniel has consented to give a pianoforte recital in aid of the cot fund, Children's Hospital, and has arranged an excellent musical programme, also the comedietta, "Barbara," in which Miss Tempe Pigott and Miss Cicily Innis Noad will take the leading characters.

The marriage of Miss Pearl Coleman, daughter of Mrs. L. I. Coleman, of Lavender Bay, with Mr. R. A. Jeffrey, of West Ealing, England, was celebrated at Christ Church, Lavender Bay, by the Rev. J. H. Maclean, on Saturday, Nov. 6. The bride, who was given away by Mr. A. Whitby-Smith, wore an ivory glace silk, beautifully braided and trimmed with Irish crochet lace and silver. The veil, which was of silk net, richly worked, was draped by trails of orange blossoms, and a wreath of orange blossom was also worn. She was attended by four bridesmaids—Miss Ruby Coleman (sister) (chief), who wore a cream ninon, braided and trimmed with charmeuse satin and lace, and a golden brown picture hat, trimmed with velvet and feathers; Miss Gertrude Mayo, in pink silk, trimmed with lace and braid, and a white chiffon picture hat; Miss Marjorie Rosewarne (cousin of the bride), white silk, trimmed with lace, and a white hat; Miss Mollie Armitt (cousin of the bride), in cream silk voile, trimmed with lace and satin and pale pink hat. The bride carried a shower bouquet of white roses and carnations. The bridesmaids wore brooches, and carried shower bouquets, the gifts of the bridegroom. Mr. T. Bullock (England) acted as best man. The reception and wedding breakfast [illegible] Baumann's, where the guests were received by the mother of the bride, Mrs. J. R. Rosewarne (cousin of the bride) assisted in receiving the guests. The bridegroom's present to the bride was a handsome silver manicure set. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Jeffrey left for Katoomba by the evening train. The bride's travelling dress was of Copenhagen blue, trimmed with charmeuse satin, and a large black picture hat, trimmed with velvet and feathers.

On Thursday, October 14, the marriage of Rowland George, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Wood, of Balmain, to Mary Philomela, second eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. G. Chapman, of Redfern, took place at the Methodist Church, Denison-st, Rozelle. The Rev. T. Davis performed the ceremony. The bride wore cream silk voile, with an embroidered veil over a wreath of real orange blossom. She carried a shower bouquet, which, with a ruby pendant and chain, were gifts from the bridegroom. Miss Honor Wood, sister of the bridegroom, acted as bridesmaid, and wore a Tussore silk dress with pale green trimmings. Her bouquet of sweet peas and a gold brooch were gifts from the bridegroom. Mr. J. Quirk acted as best man. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Wood held a reception at the College Hall, Balmain.

On November 2, at St. Thomas' Church, Rozelle, Sarah Letitia, eldest daughter of the late Walter Parrish, of Fox Ground, South Coast, was married to Mr. M'Farlane Ward by the Rev. Luke Parr. The bride wore white Japanese silk embroidered with braid and lace, and a wreath and veil. Miss Ada Parrish was bridesmaid. Mr. W. Chumpsie acted as best man. After the ceremony the party proceeded to the residence of the bride's mother, where the wedding breakfast was served.

NEW MUSIC.

Messrs. W. H. Paling and Co. publish Ruby Egan's new waltz the "Wongalee," which, with its dreamy third theme and general brightness, should prove a serviceable ballroom composition. In the opening melody, the repeated passage entering just after the beat has a tendency to break the rhythm for the dancers, but it is a frequent musical device, and as many people like it, will not generally be regarded as any hindrance to success.

BANISH THOSE FRECKLES.

Many a freckled woman passes for a frump, although she would be perfectly effective and pretty if she had no freckles. Those nasty little brown blotches will spoil the effect of the daintiest complexion. A freckled woman has an anxious time. She naturally loves the sun, but she fears to face it lest it bring another freckle. But when the freckled woman once becomes a devotee of Valaze in a month or two she hasn't a freckle left.

Valaze, the magnificent skin food, is sold in jars, 3/6 and 6/6. Its sale increases daily. It is, on any fair comparison of values, the only really satisfactory skin food yet discovered by modern science.

Valaze Skin Food is the incomparable skin nourisher, stimulant, cleanser, and replenisher. It produces a clear, soft, flawless skin; it makes the skin proof against all vicissitudes of weather and climate, and keeps it free from freckles, sunburn, tan, and sallowness.

"Don't let anybody persuade you that something else is "just as good." There is nothing else in the world as good.

For years Continental skin specialists have been working remittingly on the production of a preparation for outdoor use, which will shield the skin from the beauty-marring effects of the sun's rays. Only recently the difficult object has been accomplished, and Novena Sunproof Creme is the glad result. Rubbed well into the skin before leaving the house on any errand, motoring, golfing, or sea-bathing, it shields the complexion, prevents freckles, sunburn, and tan, and assures softness and clearness of the skin. In jars, 3/6 and 2/. If you want to know all about this enthralling business of the Beauty Cult, write for Mlle. Helena Rubinstein's remarkable book, "Beauty in the Making," mentioning this paper. HOTEL LEASE FOR SALE BY TENDER. ROCKHAMPTON, CENTRAL QUEENSLAND.

TENDERS WILL BE RECEIVED BY ME, TO NOON OF 10th JANUARY, 1910, FOR THE PURCHASE OF A 14 YEARS' LEASE OF THE standing at the corner of William and Bolsover streets (with a frontage to both), Rockhampton, the Seaport and Capital City of Central Queensland.

The HOTEL is very centrally situated, being within three minutes' walk of the Post and Telegraph offices. It is separated from the School of Arts by a narrow lane, the premises of which includes the principal and most popular hall of the city, its present seating accommodation being 1000, but which is about to be increased to 2000. It embraces a stage and gallery, and is used as a theatre and for public meetings, banquets, bazaars, concerts, dances, and kindred entertainments. There is also a very popular recreation room as part of the School of Arts premises.

The HOTEL building has two stories, is built of brick, with iron roof, having verandahs on both frontages. The rooms on the ground floor include a spacious bar and fittings, large dining room, two side rooms, bar parlours, kitchen, and billiard room, while on the first floor there are twenty bedrooms, one sitting room, and two bathrooms, with balcony on each frontage. The city's water supply is laid on, and there are several large galvanised iron tanks for rain water. The provision for sanitation is good and sufficient. Gas and electric light are installed. The whole of the premises are about being put in good order at a cost of several hundred pounds.

The new system of tramways now being installed passes the door in the William-street frontage, which is one of the principal streets of the city, and which, in the vicinity of the hotel, carries the largest traffic.

The HOTEL is very popular, and commands probably the largest bar trade of the city hotels. It is well patronised as a residence hotel, while its billiard room, in point of earnings, is easily first.

Its present turnover from all sources is estimated at between £5000 and £6000 per annum, but which is capable of considerable expansion.

Possession will be given on 1st MAY, 1910, from which date the lease term will begin.

Rental, £6 per week, payable monthly (present rental £7 per week), the lessee to pay all rates and taxes, and keep the premises in good repair.

The tenderers to state the amount of premium they are prepared to pay in cash, £100 of which to accompany the tender as a guarantee of good faith, but the vendors do not bind themselves to accept the highest or any tender.

Correspondence and inspection of premises invited.

ISSUE OF BALANCE OF SHARES.

THE AUSTRAL-MALAY RUBBER COMPANY, LTD.

CAPITAL - £40,000

IN 40,000 SHARES OF £1 EACH.

DIRECTORS:

S. E. LAIDLEY, Esq., The Hon. T. WADDELL,
A. R. MINTER, Esq. (Messrs. Minter, Simpson, and Co.),
J. St. VINCENT WELCH, Esq.,
J. FAIRLIE BELL, Esq. (of Kelantan).

IN VIEW of the great demand for Rubber, which is reported as quoted at over 9/- per lb., and the enormous possibilities for the future (sales having been made at high figures for three years ahead), together with the fact that it is considered by the Directors of the Company advisable to utilise the whole of the capital—thereby enabling the maximum area to be placed under cultivation at the earliest possible date—it has been decided to offer THE BALANCE OF THE SHARES (9000 £1) for sale at par. Ready application is being made for these additional shares, and, as a consequence, allotment of all shares applied for is not guaranteed by the Directors.

IT WOULD be difficult to furnish more striking evidence of the extremely prosperous condition of the Rubber Industry than the report of the Vallombrosa Rubber Company, Limited, Malay States, as published in the July number of the "India-Rubber Journal" (London), which Company evidently paid in the year ending March last a dividend of EIGHTY PER CENT., amounting to £38,455, and carried forward about THREE THOUSAND POUNDS, after paying out of the year's profits the whole year's up-keep, including that of plantation not yet productive, and the cost during the year of machinery and building. AND THIS FROM THE HARVEST OF 930 ACRES ONLY!

FURTHER VALUABLE information in connection with the industry is supplied by the Director of Agriculture of the Federated Malay States, extracts from whose observations are here quoted:—

The average yield per tapped tree all over the Peninsula has risen from 1lb 12oz to 1lb 15¾oz, an increase of 11 per cent. Considering that the majority of the trees tapped are in their first year of bearing, this is a most encouraging figure, and shows that the yields estimated in looking forward to the future production of rubber trees have, as a rule, been extremely moderate, if not unnecessarily small. . . . Experimental work and observations on tapping and yield of rubber in Ceylon are, unfortunately, of little value for Malaya. The climate of Ceylon rubber districts, with its periods of dry weather, is not comparable with the conditions in Malaya, where rubber trees are in ACTIVE GROWTH OF ROOT, LEAF, AND OTHER TISSUES PRACTICALLY EVERY DAY OF THE YEAR, and where, even when they are leafless, the growth of trees is not entirely stopped. . . . MALAYA POSSESSES THE FINEST CLIMATE IN THE WORLD FOR THE RAPID AND HEALTHY GROWTH OF PARA RUBBER.

SINCE THE Company was registered in May last, with a subscribed capital of £15,000, five thousand shares have been issued; and development work has been vigorously pushed forward by the Plantation Manager, who reported in August last that 140 acres of rubber land had been felled, 35 acres were then being felled, and that he hoped to complete planting 200 acres of rubber this year, and 500 acres in all by December next year, and also to plant 500 acres of cocoanut trees by April next.

Furthermore, he has recently planted 10,000 young seedlings, and 10,000 seeds; 40,000 seeds are at present in the nursery, and a further 50,000 seeds are now arriving.

SHARES ARE obtainable upon the same easy terms as hitherto, viz., 2/6 per share upon application, 2/6 per share upon allotment. Calls may be made up to 2/6 per share at intervals of NOT LESS THAN SIX MONTHS, thus making it a matter of AT LEAST THREE YEARS from the incorporation of the Company before the whole amount will have been called.

Illustrated Descriptive Pamphlet, Prospectus, and Form of Application may be obtained from the Brokers:—

FARM AND STATION.

SOME BUSH SONGSTERS.

In the front rank, if not actually at the head of the singing birds of Australia is to be placed the magpie (crow-shrike). The magpie is the optimist of the bush. The bird is never doleful. It pipes with as much apparent satisfaction with the world in which it lives in the fall as in the period when drab-coloured winter is giving place to the new season and the advent of spring may be heard in the whispering voices of the bush—the balmy atmosphere, the pungent perfume of the wattle bloom, the stirring of the sap in the trees, the joyous sense of languor in the breeze, the sudden secretiveness of mating and nesting wild creatures, the appealing freshness and charm of the landscape, and the resonant, inspiriting notes of the chief among the songbirds. Cheery and melodious at all times in natural conditions, the magpie, however, is heard, like the butcher-bird, to greatest advantage in the autumn. Hearing this popular bird in captivity only, or in the pairing time, means failure to obtain any real sense of the ear-enrapturing beauty and thrill of the carol of a flock of the birds when they roam the hillside like the very spirit of irresponsible freedom, and seem to sing merely because it is good to be alive. Under these conditions, there is no rivalry or jealously, no element of the hostility and division which are evident in the nesting period; all is concord and community of interest. They hunt together and sing in concert, the mellow notes gushing from them and ringing through the woods in very joy of existance, and the swell of limpid, melody subordinates for the time being every other sound in the bush. The individual carolling of the magpie is delightful—every note being suggestive of the careless freedom and contentment of the wild life which inspires it—but in the production of tuneful, satisfying music of the kind which thrills and captivates the human mind and leaves a sense of loss when it ceases, the orchestral powers of the bird easily and decisively surpass those of any other feathered species known to Australia.

A well-known naturalist, writing of the phenomenal powers of the American mocking-bird—which is believed to be the most marvellous vocalist extant—points out that "there is usually one bird in a neighbourhood which supremely passes all the rest," and that it is an established fact that all other mocking-birds retire from the immediate locality of this acknowledged monarch "to such a distance that you can hear but the faintest note from them in the pauses of his song." In a modified degree, perhaps, the same distinctiveness of individual capacity may be found among certain of the Australian birds. In a magpie chorus there is always one note more finished, more mellow, and more resonant than that of the rest of the community; it may be noticed, too, that sometimes when one bird calls up its reserve powers and sings in an abandonment of pealing ecstasy the others will for the moment cease their carolling as if to enjoy the music. This action does not appear to be the outcome of jealousy or a feeling of vanquishment, because the eclipsed warblers do not go away, but presently join again blithely in the chorus. Magpies are essentially social in their habits, and when not divided up by the breeding instinct foregather in large flocks. These move about and hunt for food in company, and the proceedings of the day are invariably diversified by playful pretences at fighting, chasing each other, frolicking like happy children in an enchanted glen, and occasionally ringing in a note or two of music. With the magpies, both sexes sing, and there is in this respect no practical difference between the black-backed and the white-backed. The white-backed bird is technically known as Gymnorhina leuconota, Gould; and the black-backed as Gymnorhina tibicen, Lath; and such a good authority as Hall regards the latter as a variety rather than as a type. He says the black bar of the back is gradually disappearing, and predicts that later generations will recognise in the present species a type common to the whole continent "with a back quite white."

At the other end of the scale from the magpie may be placed the diminutive yellow-rumped tit as a songster. This charming little bird is cardinally a soloist. It sings throughout the year, but for the most part its transports are moderated, excepting in the late winter and the early spring. When the fearless little greycoat, undisturbed by the presence of man, contributes to the melody of the bush in a measure out of all proportion to its size. In exquisite, rippling delicacy of tone, tender, expressive light and shade, flexibility of note, and sustained effort, the tit is unrivalled within its own limitations. The bird's song—dulcet, piping, and beautifully modulated—is the very lingual essence of spring. The tit is not half the size of the house sparrow, yet its indescribably sweet note may be heard for an incredibly long distance on a sparkling day, when the atmosphere is clear and the moist woods are gleaming in the sunlight. At such times the bird sings with an eager, delighted energy, which gives one the impression that it is bent upon making the most of the gladsome opportunity when life is at its best, and one may find ample time for entertainment and for contributing unselfishly to the entertainment of others, even when concerned with the busy duties of a mate and a nest, and obliged to keep watch for the predatory approach of an enemy. There are many tits in Australia—not including the handsome crested shrike tit, which is often mistaken by some people for the bellbird, but which is one of the most silent of bush birds, and may be heard hopping about in the upper branches of trees before it is discovered by any sort of note or cry—but as a singer there is no rival among them to the yellow-rumped tit, or the tom-tit, as it is popularly called in some parts of the country. Scientifically it is the Acanthiza (akanthis, a linnet, and chrusos, gold) chrysorrhoa; and its distinguishing mark is the bright yellow plumage of the upper tail, which is in striking contrast to the uniform grey of the body. The yellow-rumped tit builds a double-decker nest—one of the largest and snuggest of the homes of indigenous birds. Usually the place selected for the home is a hanging clump of dense foliage—the yellow box for preference—which effectually conceals the nest from man or natural enemies. The eggs are laid in a thick lining of feathers in the lower part, only a hole large enough to admit the bird being left, while the "upper berth" is reserved for the male. Sometimes there is a complete double nest; sometimes the upper part is merely the framework of one, there being no roof to it. Like the magpie, the tit is gregarious, excepting in the nesting season. That parental imposter the cuckoo makes most use of the tit's nest. The eggs of the parasite bird are often found in the nest of the tit, but the mystery of how the cuckoo gets them there is still a matter of dispute.

A bird but little known as a songster, and which yet deserves a place in the category, is the black-and-white species called the woodnymph. This bird bears a very close resemblance to the hooded robin, with which it is commonly confused. The male is black and white and the female brown and white in colour; and the birds live almost exclusively in the timber. They build usually on horizontal limbs, the nests being made of grass stems in the main, and of the shape of a small saucer. It is frail and simple in structure, and appears to have but a slender hold upon the branch to which it is affixed. The woodnymph is rarely seen on the ground. It is a little larger than the Australian songlark, and of somewhat similar structure of body and wing. It spends most of its time flying from tree to tree, catching insects by the way, and almost continually warbling. The bird sings in a soft minor key, with the easy grace and fluency which characterises the melody of the lark mentioned; a restrained, unambitious note, which never soars beyond a compass which may be negotiated without energy or effort, and which makes no attempt at the wild, ecstatic bursts of song heard from the thrush and the magpie. The song is something of a monotone, but it is long-sustained and extremely pleasant to listen to. In a lonely glen or open wood the tireless song of the pretty black-and-white warbler is one the characteristic and distinctive notes of the bush, and helps materially to swell the joyous chorus which so brightly counteracts the "weird melancholy" of the haunts of the wild. Many birds sing only, or at their best, in the morning; the gay little woodnymph keeps its merry chant going throughout the day, and will be heard even when the afternoon heat is making the feathered tribes pant for breath and all nature seems to be in the grip of indolence or listlessness.

The Victorian Minister of Agriculture states that he is determined to break up the ring in butter-boxes alleged to exist in Melbourne.

The shire council at Bairnsdale (Vic.) has decided to charge agistment fees of 3d and 6d per head per week on cattle and horses, respectively, grazing on all roads in the urban ridings, and that only ratepayers be allowed the privilege of running stock on the road, but not more than 10 head. It is urged that this system will get rid of the stray stock nuisance, and help to preserve the feed on the roads to legitimate travelling stock.

The tuberculin test is largely in vogue in some parts of England. The necessary veterinary assistance and the virus are supplied free to cow-keepers by the municipal council of Birmingham. Each cow is tested every six months. Animals free from the disease are marked by means of a lead button on one ear. Those farmers whose herds are clean are certificated every three months. The benefit to the farmers adopting the plan is that they get more for their milk, and will be spared the loss which they now sustain from the wasting of tubercular cattle.

Sir Francis Suttor presided over a meeting of the New South Wales Sheepbreeders' Association at Ocean-chambers, Moore-street, yesterday. The meeting was called to discuss the question of appointing a secretary in succession to Mr. A. H. Prince, resigned. After considerable discussion, it was decided to invite applications for the position at a yearly salary of £175.

"Rickets" is very prevalent amongst cattle on the South Coast at the present time, causing much loss to dairymen and teamsters. The burrawang is blamed as the cause; but the grasstree (Xanthorrhea) is just as blameworthy. The bush fires last year caused the latter to send up their spears or sticks (on which the seed is produced) in thousands. The top is at the present time in bloom, and covered with a sticky, slightly sweet fluid, which attracts the cattle. When eaten to excess, these tops produce a similar effect on cattle to the burrawang—paralysis of the spine and hindquarters, causing the animal to drag the latter, and finally become quite helpless. A simple remedy advocated is to slash the tail with a sharp knife, taking care not to nick the joints, so that the blood flows freely, taking the poison away with it.

Much of our waste coast lands could be profitably utilised by planting the pinus insignis. This well-known pine will supply a cheap softwood. It grows quickly, and makes a marketable timber on raw gravels, which before would barely support stunted scrub. In carrying out experiments for the Forestry Department it was found that it did not pay to plant the seeds unless the area is closely netted, as bandicoots and other vermin rooted them up, and made short work of them. The best way is to transplant the young trees, in a showery autumn for preference.

THE WOOL TRADE.

STRONG CONSUMPTIVE DEMAND

Public sales in the Sydney market this week were confined to three days; opening on Monday and closing on Wednesday, in order that there may be no clashing with the Brisbane series, arranged for to-day. Seven catalogues were submitted, aggregating 27,315 bales, of which 25,456 were cleared at auction. In addition thereto, 2734 bales were disposed of, ex catalogue and uncatalogued, by private treaty; bringing the realisations for the week up to 28,190 bales. The offerings were thoroughly representative, comprising a large proportion of well-grown wools of average quality, with a number of super lines. There were no sensational prices paid, such as were secured last week; there was, however, an exceptionally strong demand at the best rates of the previous week, and large clearances were effected at prices that must have proved satisfactory to growers. Germany and France were operating consistently, with Bradford still well to the fore. America secured the bulk of the high-priced wools, with Japan active for greasy fleece and bulky pieces. With such firm rulings and competition so free and general, local speculators were generally quiet. Thus, the market proved well up to expectations, and was exceedingly satisfactory in view of the fact that heavy offerings were being submitted in interstate centres. Adelaide boasts of a record offering of nearly 29,000 bales, while full catalogues have been put up in Melbourne and Geelong. On top of these ample offerings come large catalogues, probably reaching nearly 30,000 bales, fixed to be offered in Brisbane to-day. A firm tone and full clearances are reported from Adelaide and Melbourne, in keeping with Sydney rulings. Nothing but a strong consumptive demand can have imparted such strength to the markets, and it speaks volumes for the sound state of the world's trade.

WHEN THE "BEARS" WERE ACTIVE.

A comparison of the position this week with that of the closing week last month, when supplies were also excessive, is of a gratifying character. From the middle to the close of October, there was a strong "bear" movement in Bradford. Occasional cables also came through calling attention to the dearth of employment among certain classes of operatives in England. The bank rate was advancing. From which it almost seemed as if wool would have to suffer, although the clip promised to be within the world's requirements. On October 15 last, the Bradford top market was cabled as being "very weak" in business in merinos was said to be "suspended," and quotations were 2d per lb below the previous week's prices. A week later, there was a further drop of a penny in merinos, and it was not till the close of the month that prices were put up 1½d per lb. Such a sudden and heavy drop in prices might have been expected and warranted if there had been serious financial, or international political, complications. Or if trade had been completely flattened out; but there was nothing of the kind. Indeed, news by latest mails show that Bradford has been doing exceptional business. According to a London authority, writing at the beginning of October last:—There were forthcoming evidences of a general revival of trade. Not only was the home market well supplied with orders, but the demands from abroad increased considerably. America is a heavy buyer just now of linens and woollens, both in Scotland and the North of England. Bradford's exports to the United States during August show the large increase of £181,605 over last year. The exports of wool during the first eight months of the year constituted a record for all time, the total being £1,325,577, which is greater than the exports for the whole of any previous year with a single exception, and compares with £542,087 for the same period of last year, and £731,204 for 1907. The total exports during the eight months were £2,723,647, as compared with £1,483,318 in 1908. Our own Bradford correspondent, bringing the figures up to later dates, says that in "wool the value of the raw material exported for the nine months of the year was £12,704,306, an increase compared with last year of £4,044,476. In semi and fully manufactured articles, in many features there is a steady advance, and if the improvement in woollen and worsted fabrics which has been seen during the past three months had been maintained during the earlier part of the year, the figures would have been still more satisfactory." In the face of this exceedingly strong position of the raw material and manufactured article it can be seen that the movement in Bradford during the middle of October against wool values by the drop in top quotations was an artificial one; and it is a moot question if values would have weakened as they did in Australian centres if heavy supplies had not been put upon interstate markets at that time. There has been a strong demand, and values have been well maintained this week, in spite of the heavy supplies. Two factors probably contributed, namely, one, the great state of trade in all manufacturing centres; and the other, the possibility of the industrial disturbance at the present time in Australia leading to delay in shipping wool away.

THIS WEEK'S OPERATIONS.

On the opening sale day of the week three catalogues were submitted, aggregating 8991 bales; of which there was a clearance of 8568 bales under the hammer. The market ruled exceptionally firm, there was a strong demand, and the rulings were at a par with the best rates of last week. The selection mainly comprising medium to good wools, some of which showed more condition than usual, with some attractive parcels in the grease and scoured greasy sold to 14d, obtained for 16 bales of W. Marina over Young, an attractive wool, showing good quality, well-grown, but not quite free. Close up to the Marina clip was the GB over Laura over New England, from Bundarra, realising 13¾d for 30 bales 1st com w, 12 2nd com w, 23 1st com h w, making 12½d, bright, of good length, but a little fatty. Another New England clip, AT over Glen over NE (Deepwater) sold to 12¾d, obtained for 37 bales 1st com w e, bright, light, well-grown, of fine quality. In scoureds 18 bales 1st com h of Habnarey (Angledool) sold at 20¼d, and 14 bales 1st com at 20½d, bright, good length, and well prepared.

Two catalogues on Tuesday totalled 8196 bales, of which 7609 were cleared under the hammer. The offerings comprised a large proportion of wellgrown wools in good condition, and included a number of super lines, one or two of which were very high class. The market continued to rule exceptionally firm for all descriptions, competition was keen, and all sections were participants in securing a share of the offerings. The highest price in the grease was 15¾d, obtained for 9 bales super com of LDN, from Dalby (Q.), 12 1st com realising 14½d, 16 1st com w 14d, 7 1st com 13½d, 8 1st black 13½d, 20 1st com c 13½d, and 7 1st clo 13½d. It was a most attractive clip, showing fine quality, good breeding, sound, and in nice condition. A parcel to make to 14d was B over Wallangra (Inverell), 22 bales A w touching that figure, 19 bales making 13½d, and 73 bales AA 12¾d, good sound staple, good colour, and quality. The top price in scoured for the day also went to a Queensland wool; 19 bales GAP over Weeba realising 21d, bright, well-scoured, free.

On the closing sale day for the week two catalogues totalled 10,139 bales, of which 9295 bales were cleared under the hammer. Again a very strong market ruled for all qualities, competition was general from the various sections at the rates of the previous two days, greasy sold to 14¾d, and scoured to 21d. The offerings were attractive, comprising a large number of first-class, bulky, combing wools, of good style and colour, with some super clips in the grease. Also a few good lines of scoureds. The top price (14¾d) was obtained for 8 bales super com w of WW over Colley Creek (Willow Tree), 22 bales 1st com w making 14d, and 18 bales 2nd com w 12¾d, a soft, fine spinning wool of super quality, lofty, bright condition, and carefully classed. For five bales A crossbred of Pomingalarna over Star (Wagga) 13¾d was paid, 20 bales AA making 13¼d, very light, good staple, and useful quality. Bon Accord (Dalby) made to 13¼d. In scoureds the EC and Co. over Binibah (Longreach) sold to 21d for 8 bales 1st com h, and 20½d for 6 bales 1st clo, fair length, fine, good colour, and well scoured.

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

At the Adelaide sales on Monday last, which were the fourth of the current season, nearly 30,000 bales were catalogued. The offerings comprised wools from all parts of South Australia, and included a large showing of the bold, shafty staple, typical of the wool of that State. There was not such a large proportion of the fine wools grown on the outside country as at previous auctions. Included in the catalogues was a generous sprinkling of farmers' clips. The top price for greasy was 15½. According to the "Register," the tone of the market was decidedly healthy, and only a small proportion of the offerings was withdrawn. Altogether Monday's was a most satisfactory sale, and prices may be given as from par to 5 per cent. higher than a fortnight ago. This was particularly the case in medium to good merino —what might be called the useful everyday wools. America was somewhat critical, and to this must be attributed the fact that the top lines did not sell better. In the Melbourne market the tendency has been for the general run of wools to move in sellers' favour, with heavy and faulty lines, although comparatively slow of sale, showing no further weakness. American buyers have operated for suitable parcels, improving the rates for comebacks and fine crossbreds. The offerings and sales to dates given in the various markets are as follows:—

	Catalogued. Bales.	Sold. Bales.

SYDNEY WOOL RECEIPTS.

Wool continues to arrive in considerable volume; the receipts for the week by rail, however, show only a small increase, compared to the corresponding week last year. There has been quite an increase during the week by boat, reducing the decrease for the season to date to a shade over 3000 bales, while the increase by rail is 61,433. The figures for the week, and totals to date, are as follows:—

BRADFORD TOPS.

According to our cable message of yesterday's date, the Bradford top market was dull. "Topmakers advanced present future quotations a farthing, but business was limited." At the corresponding date last year, the market was buoyant; sixty-fours were ½ higher forty-sixes /1, and forties /¾ higher than the quotations of the previous week. How prices have moved since July, compared to last year, may be seen as under:—

THE IRISH BLIGHT.

"Vigilant" writes:—"Little attention has been called to the proper remedy for the disease and blight, which is now causing so much trouble and loss to the trade and general public. The chief remedy lies in the following three courses being strictly adopted:—Firstly, change of the seed used for planting, by using either a different species of potato—or seed obtained from other ground, say, from some distance, or district as far removed as possible. Secondly, by following, or allowing the land to have at least 12 months' rest, ploughing, and cultivating the land meanwhile to air and renew the soil. Thirdly, change of crop, say, by growing a crop of grain or green crop for hay, etc., thus giving the potato-sick soil a complete rest, and renewing the lost constituents required by a tuber crop. Neither in Europe or the Southern Hemisphere can a crop like the potato be grown year after year on the same soil, and without a complete change in the way of culture mentioned. The use of spraying will, of course, be most beneficial, and assist Nature to eradicate the blight and other diseases; and the Government can materially assist farmers in advising them how by these means to check further advance of the disease.

PRICE OF MILK.

PROTEST AGAINST REDUCTION.

Representative milk suppliers to the New South Wales Fresh Food and Ice Company from the following districts:—Hunter River, Camden, Moss Vale, Dapto, Gerringong, and Windsor, constituting the newly-formed F.F. and I. Milk Suppliers' Association, of which Mr. A. L. Bennett is secretary, waited upon Mr. James Moir, chairman of the company, yesterday, and placed before him strong arguments why no reduction in the price of milk should be made. Mr. Moir consented to their request, subject to agreement with other vending companies taking place.

DEATH OF STOCK.

DELEGATE.—A number of sheep and 11 head of cattle belonging to Mr. D. H. M'Kay, of Riverview, died mysteriously recently, and the stock inspector took one of the stomachs to be sent to Sydney for analysis. When first Mr. M'Kay found that stock were dying he removed the others to another paddock, when the mortality ceased. Later on he put them back again in the same paddock, and more deaths occurred. This led him to look specially in this paddock for the cause of death, and he found, partly hidden against a fence, a box of scrub exterminator, the lid of which had come off. Mr. M'Kay is of opinion that the stock met their death through licking this stuff. The exterminator is evidently rather deadly, as it burnt the grass wherever it had touched it.

BOT FLIES AND STARLINGS.

DELEGATE.—Speaking recently of the fact that bot flies appear to be decreasing in this district, a man on the land said it was certainly the case, and he was of opinion that it was due to starlings preying upon the flies. He had himself seen instances of this.

THE FRUIT CROP.

MOLONG.—This year there is a mammoth crop of pears, peaches, and cherries at the Burrawong orchard, near Cumnock. This orchard, which is being leased by Messrs. Taylor Bros., jam manufacturers, of Sydney, is one of the largest in the State, and covers an area of about 800 acres. The sample of fruit is very fine.

CLOSER SETTLEMENT.

GILGANDRA.—Considerable satisfaction is felt over the contents of a wire from the Under Secretary for Lands to the local progress association, to the effect that Everton Estate is covered by "Gazette" notice of intention to acquire for closer settlement.

SHEARING.

ADELONG.—Shearing is in full swing at Condombionga, and, although shearers have been scarce at most of the surrounding stations, this shed started with a full board.

DAIRYING.

COOMA.—The butter factory is working again at Jindabyne, but the suppliers are fewer than in former years.

EXPERIMENTAL FARMING.

COOMA.—The sites suggested as suitable for the proposed experimental farm for Monaro district were inspected yesterday by Mr. George Valder, chief inspector, Department of Agriculture. The sites visited were junction of the Umeralla and Murrumbidgee rivers; Cooma racecourse; and S. A. Steyn's Weeroona farm, close to the racecourse. Mr. Valder's report will be forwarded to the department. A visit was also paid to the experimental plot at Murray's Glencoe Place farm, where the crops are backward owing to late sowing, but are expected to improve rapidly should rain fall soon. Mr. Valder also visited the experimental plot of 20 acres on Jindabyne West estate. Practically the whole area is under cultivation with wheat, oats, rye, and other crops, and the property has been rendered rabbit-proof. The dry season has retarded the growth, but fairly good results are expected.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

ADELONG.—Orchardists who were expecting a large cherry crop are afraid if rain does not fall within a day or two the fruit will be pinched and small in consequence.

BROKEN HILL.—Mr. J. A. D. Patterson, one of the pioneers of White Cliffs, who has lately been touring the back country, purchasing draught horses, returned to Broken Hill on Wednesday, and reports the back country as being in a very bad way from Broken Hill to Cobham. About 150 miles north he says it is not so bad, but thence on to the Queensland border the conditions are drought-like. Bootoo station, Salisbury Downs, Yantara, and Mount Woods are specially mentioned as being in a suffering state, with every chance of having to shortly shift their stock. Travelling stock routes are short of water and feed. Onepah, near the Queensland border, has feed, but no water. The country near the River Darling is better off, but the whole area wants rain. One very heavy fall to fill the dams might save the situation. The singular thing, Mr. Patterson says, is that although feed is lacking kangaroos are extremely plentiful north of Cobham. How they live puzzles many folk. Mr. Patterson fears the North-west Darling Country is in for a terrible drought experience.

GULGONG.—Everything points to a record season. The wheat is ripening, but rust is showing in some paddocks, so the farmers are cutting it for hay. The average estimate is two tons per acre, but there will be an abundance of good feed through the summer. The cattle and horses are rolling fat. Shearing is well under weigh, and the fine weather is being availed of. Pumpkin bugs, commonly known as ladybirds, are doing much damage to the melon and pumpkin vines all over the district.

NARRANDERA.—Haymaking in general in the district, crops being from 2½ to a ton per acre, the average being about 1¼ ton. Some farmers will commence reaping and stripping next week. It is feared that especially late crops, which require rain, will be much shrivelled and pinched. The yields all round will not be so heavy as anticipated.

TRUNDLE.—By request of the Washington (U.S.A.) Department of Agriculture Mr. D. Looney, of Salisbury, near Trundle, is sending to that department a quantity of kurrajong seeds, which the Americans are to plant and experiment in growing the trees for stock-feeding.

STOCK MOVEMENTS.

WALGETT.—1700 wethers from Llanillo, Walgett, to Mundiman, Coonamble, T. Cleaver, owner; 4000 wethers from Combomolong to Muthorg, Queensland, J. Peacock, owner; 85 horses from Queensland to Gunnedah, H. Parkinson, owner; 6000 ewes from Boorooma, Walgett, to Gunnedah, H. S. H. Baird, owner; 78 rams from Walgett to Gunnedah, H. S. H. Baird, owner; 275 mixed fat cattle from Hornbein, Queensland, to Flemington, W. Ross Munroe, owner.

For Milk Yield
Better than Grass

MR. WILLIAM E. REED, Ryde, writes:—

"I have been experimenting with various foods for cows, and find Sunlight Oil Cake gives the best results. It increased the milk flow, and improved the quality of the milk, the butter fat being nearly doubled.

"Some of my children are on milk diet (one drinks two quarts per day), and since one of my cows had Sunlight Oil Cake added to her food, she supplied the family of eight with all the milk and nearly all the butter required.

"Although my paddock has plenty of grass (more than the cows can eat) I find it pays to feed Sunlight Oil Cake in addition to grass, as we make nearly twice as much butter as when the cows feed on grass alone.

"Sunlight Oil Cake keeps the cows in good health, gives a gloss to the skin, and maintains them in good condition. I can strongly recommend Sunlight Oil Cake to anyone who keeps cows, even if they have plenty of grass."

Rank grass is liable to produce a lower quality milk and the animal requires a strengthening "milk and butter" fodder such as Sunlight Oil Cake to maintain quality in the milk.

HIDE SALES BOYCOTTED.

TANNERS INDIGNANT.

POSTPONEMENT RESENTED.

An unusual development occurred at the auction hide sales yesterday afternoon. Just as the sales were about to begin Mr. Wallis, chairman of the brokers, announced that there would be no sale, but on Tuesday at 1.30 p.m. the brokers would submit their offerings.

This was a signal for an outburst of indignation on the part of a number of buyers. The tanners grew very excited, and shouted and argued with the brokers as to the necessity of the sales being held. "Just fancy," said one, "I have come a hundred miles. All this morning I have been valuing the hides, and now when I sit here and am prepared to bid they say they won't sell."

Messrs. G. H. Moxham and Co., who are outside the association, then offered their catalogue. Bidding was brisk, and they realised full market rates for practically all their offerings.

When seen subsequently Mr. F. J. Luland, secretary of the Master Tanners' Association, said:—"A meeting of the tanners was held in the wool-brokers' rooms, and this resolution was carried unanimously.—'That this meeting of tanners protests strongly against the action of the brokers in calling the tanners together, in some instances from over 100 miles, as in the case of Bathurst, and then refusing to carry out the programme of sales.' 'That Mr. R. J. Anderson, president of the Tanners' Association, and Mr. G. F. Bailey, president of the Hide Buyers' Association, be deputed to meet the brokers and request them to conduct the sales as arranged.' This was carried unanimously. It transpired, however, that the brokers could not be found in the rooms. Mr. Anderson and Mr. Bailey reported this fact to the tanners, and we thereupon carried the following resolution.—'That the buyers assembled pledge themselves not to attend the sales on Tuesday, and not to purchase any hides until the regular sales on Friday.'

Mr. Anderson said:—"The only reason I can assume for this extraordinary action on the part of the brokers is that it does not suit in certain instances to buy to-day. We are brought 100 miles in some cases to attend the sales, and have inspected the hides from 9 o'clock to 12 o'clock. Even when our arrangements and preparations were made we were curtly told to come some other day."

Mr. C. L. Wallis, chairman of the produce committee of the Sydney Wool and Produce Brokers' Association, refrained from making any comment on the situation. "What really took place this morning was this," he said. "Our committee was waited upon by members of the hide-buyers, and asked if, in view of the uncertain outlook in industrial matters, we would postpone holding the sale this afternoon, as we had already put off the sales in the case of sheep skins in the morning. We met the hide-buyers' committee, and discussed the matter with them. Three of their number were strongly in favour of the postponement of the sale, but the remaining one was opposed to it. Afterwards we conferred with the general body of the brokers, and decided that, as a larger section of the buying power abstained from buying, the sales should be postponed till 1.30 on Tuesday. The sheepskin sales had previously been arranged to take place at 10.30 on the same day."

TRAGIC DEATH OF MR. D. J. COOPER, M.A.

DROPS DEAD AT FORT-STREET SCHOOL.

During the progress of a pleasant little ceremony at Fort-street School yesterday afternoon Mr. David John Cooper, M.A., senior-inspector of the metropolitan district, suddenly dropped dead while addressing the gathering. The occasion was one in which the boys' department was bidding farewell to the senior boys who were going up for the senior University examination. Mr. A. J. Kilgour, M.A., was in the chair, and had delivered the opening address. Senior-inspector Cooper followed him, and had been speaking for about five minutes when he suddenly faltered, stopped, and collapsed. It was at first thought that he was in a fit, and Mr. Parker, one of the teachers, rushed to his assistance, followed a moment later by Inspectors M'Clelland, S. H. Smith, and A. Lobban.

Dr. T. Storie Dixson was present, and at once attended to the fallen inspector, who, however, died in two or three minutes. The deceased gentleman was speaking on the subject of "Education in America" at the time of his seizure. The ceremony was brought to an abrupt conclusion when it was ascertained that death had occurred, and the school was shortly afterwards dismissed. The late Inspector Cooper appeared to be in good health when he entered the room. His address was of a cheerful character, on a subject in which he was deeply interested. About a year ago Inspector Cooper was seriously ill, and had to take a rest, which his friends thought should have been prolonged, but he was an enthusiast in his work, and proud to be near the head of our great educational system, so he continued in active harness.

Born at East Maitland in 1848, the deceased educational authority had attained his sixty-first year. He entered the service of the department in February, 1869, having graduated M.A. at the Sydney University. He was at first in the clerical department, wherein he rose to the position of chief clerk. He was then transferred to what may be called the field and directorate work of the department, and was for 10 years the district inspector of Goulburn. In 1901 he was appointed superintendent of technical education, and occupied that position until March, 1905, when he was succeeded by Mr. J. W. Turner, and took up the office he occupied at the time of his death. His illness last year undoubtedly left him enfeebled, and he occasionally mentioned to intimate friends that the action of his heart was uncertain. The cause of death was heart failure. The deceased officer left a widow and four sons and two daughters. The family lived at Stanmore.

Mr. P. Board, M.A. (Under-Secretary of the Department of Public Instruction), referring to the sudden death of Inspector Cooper yesterday, said that the service had lost a conscientious and highly capable officer, whose work was highly prized by all who had come into touch with it. Particularly were the talents of his deceased friend shown in his duties in connection with the Technical College. In the department of technical education Mr. Cooper had paved the way to a great extent for the developments of recent years. He had placed the college work on the firm basis upon which it at present stood.

The funeral leaves All Saints', Petersham, at 2 p.m. to-day for Waverley Cemetery.

POPULATION OF THE STATE.

The Government Statistician, Mr. J. B. Trivett, has issued the usual quarterly estimate of the population as at September 30 last.

The estimated number of persons in the State on that date was 1,635,436, of whom 877,285 were males, and 758,151 females. At the end of the preceding quarter the population was 1,622,740, so that the gain during the three months was 12,696, of which 7330 was due to natural increase, and 5366 to the excess of arrivals over departures. The relative increase during the quarter was equivalent to an annual increase of over 3 per cent. per annum.

The gain during the three months was higher than in September quarter for many years past. The natural increase was the highest on record, but the excess of arrivals was slightly lower than in the corresponding quarter of 1907.

The increase to the population during the nine months since the beginning of this year on the whole has been satisfactory, being below that of 1907, and considerably higher than in any of the years, 1905, 1906, and 1908, as will be seen below:—Total increase to population during first nine months:—1905, 26,107; 1906, 28,583; 1907, 35,936; 1908, 23,336; 1909, 30,427.

As regards the movement of population between New South Wales and other countries, there was a small net gain of 165 persons from the other Australian States, and a gain of 5201 from countries outside Australia.

Of countries beyond the Commonwealth, the largest gain was 2775 from New Zealand, followed by 2290 from the United Kingdom.

To British possessions there was a net loss of 616, included in which were 149 to Canada, 356 to Hongkong, and 109 to South Africa.

From foreign countries, as a whole, there was a net gain of 752, the largest being 169 from New Caledonia, 123 from South Sea Islands, and 166 from Italy.

During the quarter 934 assisted and nominated immigrants arrived from the United Kingdom, and 23 from other countries.

THE NAVAL COLLEGE.

COMMONWEALTH ACCEPTS.

The Lord Mayor has received the following letter from the Prime Minister:—

Melbourne, 9th Nov., '09.

Dear Sir,—With reference to your letter of the 30th ultimo on behalf of donors of the Dreadnought Fund of New South Wales on the subject of the establishment of a college for the training and instruction of cadets and officers of the Australian navy, I have the honour to inform you that the Government of the Commonwealth have much pleasure in accepting the generous offer of the sum of £35,000 to £40,000 for the erection of a naval college, of which the equipment and maintenance will be undertaken by the Commonwealth.

The college will be established, after consultation, as near the city of Sydney as is consistent with efficient training. Its construction will be commenced as soon as the necessary data can be obtained and the plans completed. I have, etc., Alfred Deakin.

When you feel languid, constipated, or bilious, take Chamberlain's Tablets; they cure these troubles.—Advt.

THE CHURCHES.

Archdeacon Gunther (Vicar-General) preached last Sunday at the anniversary services at Randwick, and during the week has presided at meetings of the Cathedral chapter and standing committee to arrange for the reception of the Archbishop, at the Church Centennial Fund Committee, at the memorial to the late Archbishop committee, and at the annual meeting of the Gleaners' Union.

Archdeacon Gunther (Vicar-General) draws attention to the fact that the new Archbishop has arrived within seven months of the removal by death of the late Primate. The diocese was without a Bishop over two years after the death of Bishop Broughton, and over two years after the death of Bishop Barker. Between the resignation of Bishop Barry and the arrival of Bishop Saumarez Smith nearly 17 months elapsed.

The meeting arranged by the Australian Board of Missions for Monday evening is likely to be interesting. The Archbishop of Sydney has promised to be there, but prefers to be silent until after his enthronement. His place as a speaker will be taken by Bishop Stretch, of Newcastle. The principal speaker, however, is the Archbishop of Brisbane, Dr. Donaldson, who has already addressed meetings of a similar nature in Brisbane, Perth, Adelaide, and Melbourne. Dr. Golding-Bird, the Dean of Newcastle, will also address the meeting. It is somewhat of an experiment to try a missionary meeting on a public holiday, but it was the only day on which the A.B.M. council could secure the Archbishop of Brisbane and the Town Hall together.

There will be a fair number of bishops gathered together for Dr. Wright's enthronement on the 17th. The bishops are taking advantage of this opportunity to hold a meeting of the mission's board, as it is considered absolutely necessary to have some sort of reorganisation in the work of the Anglican missions in Australia.

The fifty-first anniversary of St. Barnabas', George-street West, Sunday School was celebrated on Sunday. At the afternoon service, the large church was crowded with children, when the Rev. E. N. Wilton, B.A., preached, and in the evening the Rev. William Martin, B.A., spoke to a large congregation. The annual excursion took place on Wednesday to the Avenue. Traffic in George-street was disturbed by the marching of the large gathering of children, headed by the Public Schools' Band. This is one of the largest Sunday schools in Australia.

A sale of work was recently held in connection with St. Philip's Church, Eastwood, in the local School of Arts. Mrs. Thomas Moxham, the wife of the member for the district, performed the opening ceremony. The sum of £142 was realised.

Cardinal Moran has promised to preside at the celebration of the jubilee feast of two of the sisters at Subiaco on Wednesday next. A profession ceremony will also take place there the same day.

The Rev. Dr. Broyer, Vicar-Apostolic of the Navigators' Islands, is making a short stay in Sydney, having recently arrived from Apia, where he has a fine cathedral, and where his episcopal residence is situated. He is on his way to Rome to pay his visit ad limina, and after that he intends to go to Germany.

Over £800 was the result of St. Patrick's Jubilee Fair at Parramatta, which constitutes a record in bazaars for that borough.

The Rev. Father A. J. Marion, Provincial of the Society of Mary in Australasia, has returned to Sydney from a visitation to the missions of the Pacific.

Rev. Father P. Mulligan, of Narrandera, has been appointed to the charge of the Koorawatha parish.

Four young Irish priests arrived in Australia by the Orontes. The Rev. Fathers P. Rohan and W. Reidy, lately ordained at Maynooth College for the diocese of Ballarat, have been attached to the staff of Bishop Higgins' Cathedral. The Rev. Fathers James Ryan and T. Power were also passengers by the same steamer. Father Ryan was ordained for the archdiocese of Hobart, at All Hallows College, Dublin, and Father Power is for the archdiocese of Melbourne.

The first annual communion and breakfast of the combined Roman Catholic societies of the northern suburbs was held at St. Mary's Church, North Sydney, last Sunday morning, Mr. G. E. Bryant presiding. Among those present at the function were Rev. Father P. Keating, S.J., Rev. Fathers G. Kelly and Sydes, S.J., Mr. John Hughes, M.L.C., and Mr. L. F. Heydon, M.L.C.

A branch of the Central Society of Sacred Study has been formed in the diocese of Bathurst, and the Bishop has appointed the Rev. W. P. F. Dorph, of Capertee, to act as warden.

The new two-manual pipe organ opened at the Eskbank Presbyterian Church by Mr. Ernest Truman on November 5 was built by Mr. J. E. Dodd. It is a handsome instrument of Gothic design, in stained walnut, with pipes illuminated in silver, the lips gilded, and outlined with a band of signal red. The drawstop, manual, pedal, actions, and couplers are on the tubular pneumatic system, and all the latest improvements have been introduced.

The Rev. G. A. Gordon, B.A., of Arncliffe, has been called to the Congregational Church, Newtown, Tasmania; the Rev. R. A. Pocock to the churches in Eccleston district, New South Wales; the Rev. Robert Williams to the churches at Lambton and Islington; and the Rev. S. Bennett, of Franklin, Tasmania, to the Stockton church.

A very successful men's meeting was held in the conference hall of the Central Methodist Mission on Thursday night. In all there were 250 men present, the whole of them being specially invited from those who are out of work and in desperate circumstances. At the conclusion of the meeting, at which several addresses were delivered, a coffee supper was partaken of. These meetings are held at regular intervals, and are very much appreciated by the men.

The Archbishop of Sydney, Dr. Wright, has written to the general secretary of the Young Women's Christian Association expressing his willingness to act as president of the board of advice.

Meetings have recently been held representative of the different denominations—including the Church of England, Presbyterian, Congregational, Methodist, Baptist, and Church of Christ—with the object of initiating the laymens' missionary movement in Sydney. A constitution has been adopted on somewhat similar lines to that in force in the United States and Canada, and shortly branch organisations under the federation will be formed in the several Churches.

The annual "at home" in connection with the Central Methodist Mission Children's Home, at Dalmar, Croydon, was held on Wednesday. There was a very large gathering. The visitors inspected the home, and heard the annual report read. The home now contains 32 beds, and is registered under the Infants' Protection Act. A suggestion has been made that the accommodation should be increased to 60 beds, as the demand upon the home has become very heavy.

The party of native Fijian ministers and their wives connected with the Methodist Foreign Mission, who arrived by the George Brown, left Sydney yesterday by the Makambo for New Guinea, where they will enter upon missionary work.

The Baptist Home Missionary Society has made the following appointments:—Pastor S. A. McDonald, to West Wallsend; Pastor T. Kelly, to Liverpool; Mr. R. Hazlewood, assistant at Pinecliff; Mr. R. Melville, assistant at Carnsdale; Mr. Watkin Smith, assistant at Wellington. The new Baptist church at Manildra is to be opened this month. Pastor H. Putland was inducted to the charge of the Burton-street Baptist Church on Thursday last.

Between 30 and 40 meetings of widely-varying character are held every week (not including the Sunday or Rawson Hall services) under the auspices of the Central Methodist Mission. Already difficulty is being experienced in carrying on the work of the mission simply for want of room, and it was urged at the committee meeting on Monday that arrangements should be made promptly for some meetings to be held on the ground floor of the Centenary Hall.

Commissioner and Mrs. Hay, of the Salvation Army, are about to pay a visit to Broken Hill.

The Salvation Army Auditor-General (Colonel Bates), accompanied by Lieut.-Colonel Fisher, left for New Zealand per the steamer Ulimaroa on Wednesday. Audit and general duties in the Dominion will occupy some three weeks of their time.

From latest American files it is learned that General Booth is expected to visit Canada and the United States at an early date.

A display of missionary views was given in the Conference Hall on Wednesday evening by the Rev. B. Danks, general secretary for missions. The slides were made from photographs taken by Mr. Danks during his recent tour.

Mr. Henry Putland was accorded an enthusiastic welcome to the pastorate of the Baptist Tabernacle, Burton-street, on Thursday night, by a large number of the denomination. Several speakers while extending a welcome to Mr. Putland spoke of the hopeful prospect which the district promised.

AN OPEN LETTER.

To the Public of Sydney

I confidently commend to your earnest consideration, Kambala Heights Estate, Bellevue Hill, which I will offer for positive realisation at auction on Saturday next, Nov. 20th. The locality is select and exclusive, and to my certain knowledge there are no finer residential sites available anywhere in Sydney. Beautifully elevated lots with fine views on the twopenny tram section, within 25 minutes of the G.P.O. must appeal to all keen speculators.

The former mortgagees have empowered me to accept sacrifice prices so as to close the whole estate out at the auction. Then the terms are remarkable, and well worth the attention alike of builders and home seekers.

Arthur Rickard

THIRTEEN YEARS' TERMS.

The Title to Kambala Heights is TORRENS, and the Terms of purchase are 5 per cent. deposit, and the balance in 60 equal monthly, or 20 equal quarterly, instalments, with interest at 5 per cent. Or, at the option of purchasers who build within a year, the vendors will issue a 90 years' lease, on a 5 per cent. basis. This may be converted into freehold at any time within ten years; terms of conversion to be 5 per cent. deposit, and the balance in 12 quarterly instalments, with interest at 5 per cent. This amounts to 13 years' terms.

There is a building restriction of £500, and we will arrange advances up to two-thirds of approved value of house and land, for 3 or 5 years, at 5 per cent.

THE MATTER IN A NUTSHELL.

KAMBALA HEIGHTS ESTATE is in the most fashionable suburb—it is under 25 minutes from King and Pitt streets, on the 2d Section—it is elevated, and commands glorious views. Every lot is to be sold under the hammer at sacrifice prices. Under the easy terms you have the option of devoting all your ready money to your house, no payments being required on the land for 10 years, although all that time you have a valid title to it. ARNOTT'S MILK ARROWROOT BISCUITS.

INSTRUCTIONS HOW TO GIVE THE BISCUITS.

FOR VERY YOUNG CHILDREN.—Crush the biscuits to a powder, and, if possible, put through a very fine sieve. Take a well-heaped dessertspoonful of the powder, and gradually add half a cupful of boiling water, stirring at the same time. Then add half a cupful of fresh milk, and sweeten to taste. It is best to first sterilise the milk by placing a covered jug or other vessel containing the milk in a pot of water, and boil for half an hour. See that all vessels are kept scrupulously clean.

FOR OLDER CHILDREN.—Pour boiling water on the biscuits as they are, and give by spoon. A good way is to put a saucer over the cup or basin in which the biscuits are placed to soak, until they swell out, leaving no water. Later on children can have them either whole or soaked, at home or at school. They will be found a fattening, strengthening diet for young and old.

"VIYELLA" (REGD.)

THE IDEAL DAY AND NIGHT WEAR

FOR MAN, WOMAN, AND CHILD.

WHY?

Because it does not shrink.

Because it is the most durable of washing fabrics.

Because it is unique in make and reputation; there is no other cloth "just the same."

Because it is the softest, and can be worn against the most sensitive skin.

Because it is obtainable in different weights, suitable for different climates.

Because, as "The Queen," the leading ladies' paper, says,—"It has borne the test of time."

LAW REPORT.

IN BANCO.

(Before Mr. Justice Cohen, Mr. Justice Pring, and Mr. Justice Sly.)

WHAT PASSES UNDER A TRANSFER.

DISPUTE AS TO STAMP DUTY.

Re Tooth and Co., Ltd. (Commissioner of Stamps, respondent).

Mr. Lamb and Mr. S. A. Thompson, instructed by Messrs. Asher, Old, and Jones, appeared for Tooth and Co., Limited, in support of an appeal from the decision of the Commissioner for Stamps; and Mr. Langer Owen, K.C., and Mr. Harry Stephen, instructed by the Crown Solicitor (Mr. J. V. Tillett), for the respondent. The special case stated by the Commissioner under section 18 of the Act of 1898 set out the following facts:—On December 18, 1908, a transfer of the lease of certain land and premises known as Bergin's Hotel, situated at Balmain, from Joseph Bergin to Tooth and Co., Limited, was produced to the Commissioner for Stamp Duties for the purpose of stamp duty being assessed thereon. The consideration for the transfer was expressed therein to be £800, the stamp duty upon which would be £4. In the course of inquiries made by the Commissioner with a view of arriving at a correct assessment an agreement, dated November 24, 1908, was produced. By this agreement it appeared that Bergin agreed to sell to the company the existing lease, license, goodwill, and furniture of the hotel at the price of £2500, of which the sum of £800 should be taken to be the value of the lease. Since the transfer the premises had been used, and it was the intention of the company that they shall continue to be used, for the purpose of carrying on the business of a licensed victualler. The value of the furniture agreed to be sold was £180. The Commissioner held that £800 was not the true consideration for the transfer of the lease, and that the consideration appearing upon the transfer did not fairly represent the value of the lease; and he thereupon assessed the value at the sum of £2320, and fixed the duty at the sum of £12, which had been paid by appellants under protest as regarded £8. The question for the decision of the Court was whether the assessment of the Commissioner was right.

The case was argued on August 27, and their Honors now delivered judgment.

Mr. Justice Cohen, after reciting the facts, said that the authorities, to which it was needless to refer, clearly established that a goodwill was a separate entity, and legally severable from the premises on which the business with which it was connected might be carried on, and that it could be disposed of as other property could be. True it was that so far as the goodwill depended upon locality it, as a fact, remained attached to it, and would therefore in a similar sense be unseverable. Questions as to whether a goodwill would pass with the sale of the business premises had arisen, and it was held by Jessell, Master of the Rolls, that the goodwill of a publichouse passed with the publichouse, but he clearly referred to the "local" as distinct from the "personal" goodwill (ex parte Purmett, 16 C.D., 234), but Lord Brampton laid down that there was no distinction in this respect between a publican and any other tradesman, with which he entirely agreed. But whatever might be the effect of the goodwill upon the transfer of the premises, as between vendor and vendee, and in that relation as a matter of contract, careful consideration of the authorities suggested that there were two controlling factors in determining the liability or extent of the liability of an instrument to stamp duty, viz., the intention of the parties as expressed in the document evidencing the transaction, and the terms of the instrument proposed to be stamped. (His Honor referred to the judgment of Chief Justice Griffith in the Rosehill Racecourse Company's case, 3 C.L.R., at page 491.) That portion of the decision substantially covered, if it did not completely do so, the present transaction in its essential details, except that for the transfer of the license the Licensing Court had to be resorted to. He was therefore of opinion that the goodwill did not pass under the transfer, and that the license did not, so that the only question remaining was whether £800 represented the fair value of the lease apart from the goodwill and license, and to determine this an issue must be tried if the Commissioner so desired.

Mr. Justice Pring said the first point arose as to the goodwill. In the Rosehill Racecourse case the High Court held that the goodwill was separable from the land, on the ground as he understood, that it was a personal right, and therefore did not pass by the conveyance of the land. That decision, in his opinion, had no bearing upon the present case. In his opinion the reasoning of Mr. Justice Channell in the West London Syndicate case (1898), 1 Q.B., at page 238, applied to this case. There he said:—"But in the case of a publichouse there is nothing, I think, that could in any way be severed from the enjoyment of the land. It is attached to the possession of the land. It is not necessarily attached to the lease; there may be a lease and there may be an under-lease, and so on, but the only person who can get the benefit of the trade of a publichouse, which is what the goodwill really means, is the person who is entitled to the possession of the premises; the goodwill is in point of fact an additional value of the premises by reason of the opportunity of earning trade profits in them in consequence mainly of there being a licensed house. That is what the goodwill of a publichouse is; it is an addition to the value of the land." Part of the goodwill, namely, the right to solicit custom, apparently would not pass with the lease. He was therefore of opinion that with this exception the respondent was right so far as the goodwill was concerned. With regard to the license, the agreement no doubt purported to sell the license, but a license strictly speaking could not be sold. It was merely a personal right of the licensee to sell liquor. He could not transfer it to anyone else, except with the approval of the licensing magistrate. It differed from a goodwill in that respect. A mere agreement for the sale of the lease and the goodwill would not entitle the purchaser to call on the vendor to facilitate the transfer of the license. There must be—as in this case—a specific agreement on his part to do so. If that be so, it followed that some part of the total consideration must be allocated to that agreement. The only test to ascertain what part was, he thought, to consider what damages could be recovered by the purchaser for breach of agreement. Probably these would amount only to the sum represented by the value of the unexpired term of the license. The appellants were, he thought, entitled, if they so desired it, to ascertain what amount. Otherwise the appeal should be dismissed.

Mr. Justice Sly said he was of opinion that the transfer of the lease passed with the local goodwill attached to the premises, but not the right to solicit custom, or the license, and that the Commissioner for Stamps was in error in attributing the whole of the consideration to the transfer of the lease. And the Court must determine the consideration for the transfer of the lease, including therein the local goodwill, and assess the duty chargeable under the Act, as the Commissioner for Stamps was apparently not satisfied that £800 was the true consideration for the transfer of the lease, including the goodwill.

Judgment that the local goodwill passed with the transfer of the lease, and if appellants wished it an issue could be tried as to the value of the lease, taking into consideration the local goodwill. Question of costs reserved.

(Before the Acting Chief Justice, Mr. Justice Pring and Mr. Justice Sly.)

AN "ABSURD POINT."

Rex v Laura Beveridge.

Mr. W. A. Walker, instructed by Mr. E. R. Abigail, appeared for the prisoner in support of an appeal against the conviction; and Mr. Harris, instructed by the Crown Solicitor (Mr. J. V. Tillett), in support of the conviction. The case stated by Judge Backhouse for the opinion of the Court set out that at the present sittings of the Quarter Sessions at Darlinghurst, the prisoner was tried upon an indictment charging her with stealing from the person, and was found guilty. The prisoner had pleaded at a previous Court, and there were certain endorsements on the indictment, one of which was, "convicted of conspiracy on another indictment, no further proceeding hereon;" and another "the conviction for conspiracy having been quashed on appeal to the Supreme Court, the accused was released on bail to appear for trial on the within charge at Sydney Quarter Sessions on July 31, 1909." Nothing more than the endorsements was put before his Honor, and Mr. Abigail asked him not to allow the case to go to trial, and to discharge the prisoner. This he refused to do, and he was then requested to reserve the following points of law:—(1) That the indictment on which the accused was tried had, before such trial, been quashed, inasmuch as a nolle prosequi had been entered by the Crown; (2) That on April 28, 1909, the accused was arraigned at the Court of Quarter Sessions, then sitting, before Judge Backhouse, and pleaded "not guilty," and the Crown subsequently intimated and declared that no further proceedings would be taken on the indictment. Subsequently two Courts of Quarter Sessions were held at Darlinghurst, and the accused was not called upon or further arraigned, but on October 8, 1909, she was again arraigned on the original indictment, and was not called upon to plead, but was then and there tried by the jury then empanelled, and found guilty.

Mr. Walker admitted that the question raised was based upon the words "No further proceedings hereon" endorsed on the indictment, and that the endorsements were not made by the Attorney-General.

The Acting Chief Justice said he was of opinion that there was nothing whatever in the point, and it was a case in which he was justified in expressing his regret that such a point was reserved for the consideration of the Court, thus causing unnecessary delay in the hearing of other appeals.

Mr. Justice Pring said he thought it was a most absurd point, and it was a great pity that some discretion was not given by the law to Judges sitting in the criminal jurisdiction as to what points should be reserved. He had been asked to reserve points that would stagger an office boy, let alone a lawyer.

The Acting Chief Justice: I think it right to say that the point was not reserved at the request of Mr. Walker.

Appeal dismissed, and conviction confirmed.

INCOME TAX APPEALS.

Re E. H. Adams (Public Officer of the Seaham Colliery, Limited), and the Income Tax Commissioners.

Argument was concluded in this appeal, and the Court reserved judgment. The particulars of the case were stated yesterday.

A second case in regard to a dispute between the Seaham Colliery, Limited, and the Income Tax Commissioners was then entered upon, the same counsel and attorneys appearing as in the previous appeal. The main facts set out by Judge Murray, who sat as a Court of Review, were as follow:—The Seaham Colliery, Limited, during 1906 and 1907 were owners of certain land, upon which they carried on coal-mining operations and other operations incidental thereto. During the year 1906 the company derived the whole of its income from the use of the land in the coal-mining operations. Prior to January 1, 1907, the land was subject to land tax, and such tax was duly paid. From January 1, 1907, the land was included within a shire, and shire rates became payable by the company in respect thereof under the Local Government Act, 1906. During the year 1909, the Commissioners assessed the taxable income of the company for the purposes of income tax for the year 1907 at the amount of income earned by the company during 1906 from the use of the land, and claimed income tax for the year 1907. The appellants contended that as during 1906 the land was subject to land tax, the income derived by the company from the use of the land during that year was exempt from income tax for 1907. The company appealed to the Court of Review, which held that the company was not entitled to the exemption claimed. Section 3 (sub-section 27) of the Land and Income Tax Amendment Act, 1904, was so far as is material to the appellants' contention, in the following words:—"In assessing the income tax for the year 1905, or any subsequent year, the amount of taxable income from all sources for the year immediately preceding the year of assessment shall, subject to the provisions of section 27 of the principal Act, be the taxable amount for the year of assessment." By section 17 and subsection 8 of the principal Act (59 Vic., No. 15) it was provided that the following incomes, revenue, and funds shall be exempt from income tax—income derived directly from the use or cultivation of land subject to land tax, under parts 2 and 3 of this Act. The question for decision was: Whether the taxable amount of income of the company for 1907 included the income derived during 1906 for the use of land in coal-mining, which land during that year was subject to land tax under parts 2 and 3 of the principal Act.

In this case also the Court reserved judgment.

EQUITY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice A. H. Simpson, Chief Judge in Equity.)

J. AND A. BROWN, NEWCASTLE.

STAY OF PROCEEDINGS REFUSED.

Again consideration was given to matters arising out of a decree made by the Court, dissolving the partnership of J. and A. Brown, colliery proprietors and tugowners, of Newcastle, and the appointment of Mr. John Brown as receiver. Leave, on the last occasion of the matter being before the Court, was given to appeal to the Privy Council against the decree and against the order for the appointment of a receiver. A stay of proceedings was now asked for by defendant, pending the appeal to the Privy Council.

His Honor declined the application.

Dr. Cullen, K.C., Mr. Knox, K.C., and Mr. Harvey, instructed by Messrs. Stephen, Jaques, and Stephen, appeared for William Brown, plaintiff in the suit; Mr. A. Gordon, K.C., and Mr. Rich, instructed by Mr. A. P. Sparke (agent for Messrs. Sparke and Millard), of Newcastle), appeared for the defendant John Brown; Mr. Maughan, instructed by Mr. Nott (agent for Mr. J. Windeyer, of Newcastle), appeared for the defendant Stephen Brown.

(Before Mr. Justice Street.)

TRUSTEES' INVESTMENT CHALLENGED.

Richardson and others v Russell and others.

This suit still stands part heard.

(Before Mr. Justice Sly.)

CASE UNDER THE IMPOUNDING ACT.

Re Patrick Arrold (C. J. B. Helm and J. R. Stroud, respondents).

Mr. E. M. Mitchell, instructed by Mr. Felix F. Mitchell, of Cooma (by his agents, Messrs. Shipway and Berne), appeared for Patrick Arrold, of Cooma, woodcarter, and moved to make absolute a rule nisi for a writ of prohibition to restrain C. J. B. Helm, of Cooma, and James Richard Stroud, of Cooma, poundkeeper, from further proceeding upon an order made by the magistrate on October 18, dismissing an information against respondent Stroud, and ordering Arrold to pay costs. Mr. Garland, instructed by the Crown Solicitor, appeared for Stroud to oppose the application. The case was before the Full Court on October 28, which granted a rule nisi, and made it returnable before a Judge in Chambers. It appeared that on September 28 last Arrold laid an information against Stroud, the local poundkeeper, under section 21 of the Impounding Act (No. 6, 1898), charging that he impounded out of land not occupied by him one grey pony mare. Stroud is not only the poundkeeper of Cooma, but herdsman for the trustees of the Cooma Common, and the pony was taken by him from the common and impounded. His answer to the information was that he acted in the matter as herdsman of the common, and that being so the animal was impounded by the trustees and not by him. The magistrate upheld this plea, and dismissed the information, with costs, and Arrold now appealed on the grounds:—(1) That the impounding was illegal; (2) that the magistrate was in error in holding that the impounding by Stroud was by the authority of the trustees of the common, and exempted him from liability under section 21 of the Impounding Act; (3) that the magistrate was in error in holding that the impounding was by the trustees and not by Stroud.

His Honor, after hearing argument, granted the prohibition, but without costs.

PROBATE COURT.

Probates and administrations were granted during the week as follow:—P. Ryan, G. Windred, A. Kelly, W. M'Kennan, E. H. Hoye, N. A. M'Kinnon, A. Murray, J. M'Nair Wright, J. Parker, E. E. Cahill, F. APPLICATION FOR REGISTRATION.

Mr. Moffatt (Messrs. Beeby and Moffatt) made an application for the registration of the Australasian Society of Engineers under the Commonwealth Conciliation and Arbitration Act. Mr. C. A. Coghlan, on behalf of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers, appeared in opposition, and submitted two preliminary objections. The Registrar overruled the first objection respecting the rules, holding that even if they were deficient, he would allow them to be amended. He also overruled the second objection, as the objecting union was not registered in the State in which the application was made.

The application was held over to permit of the applicant union amending its rules.

ARBITRATION COURT.

(Before Judge Heydon.)

ANOTHER BOARD GRANTED.

Mr. G. Ellis, secretary of the Masters and Engineers' Association of New South Wales, applied for the appointment and constitution of a wages board for masters and engineers and other persons employed on all steamers and ferry-boats throughout the State, with the exception of Port Jackson. Mr. Nathan (Messrs. Minter, Simpson, and Co.), appeared for the Colonial Sugar Refining Company, who were affected by the application, and desired to be represented on the board.

His Honor granted a board, to be called the Shipping, Harbour, and Rivers Board, to deal with the various occupations under the schedule of the Act, specifying the classes of employment. The appointment of members of the board was directed to stand over.

AERATED WATERS BOARD.

S. H. Watson, secretary of the Brewery Employees' Union, applied for leave to appeal against the decision of the Aerated Waters Board. Mr. Croft appeared for the union; and Mr. Nathan, instructed by Messrs. Minter, Simpson, and Co., appeared for the New South Wales Mineral Waters and Cordial Manufacturers' Association. Mr. A. R. Watt, instructed by Mr. F. H. King, Mr. A. Thompson, instructed by Messrs. Curtiss and Barry, and Mr. W. A. Windeyer appeared for country employers.

Mr. Nathan pointed out that certain awards, which stood on a similar footing, had been made to apply to the whole State or the greater part of it.

His Honor said he would carefully consider the appeal, and read over the evidence, before giving judgment. He thought now that it might have been better to have had two boards to deal with the varying conditions of the city and country. Such boards might have had the one chairman, but different members conversant with the respective conditions. As it was, however, he had no option but to go into the matter carefully, and see what could be done.

G. R. YOUNG v W. SCOTT.

In these cases, which were summonses by G. R. Young against a Newcastle employer, for alleged breaches of the award, respecting the employment of shop-assistants, his Honor dismissed the cases, without costs, Mr. Young undertaking not to proceed with other cases.

The Court adjourned till Monday.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judges Murray and juries.)

Mr. Walter Bevan, Crown Prosecutor.

CONSPIRACY ALLEGED AGAINST BROTHERS.

The hearing was resumed this morning of the charge against Wilfred Thomas Young and Frederick Augustus Young, two brothers, who were charged with conspiring to cheat and defraud, at Sydney, on April 1, 1896, Frederick Ernest Daniels, Robert Alphonse Leslie Brown, and others, of divers large sums of money.

The Crown case having closed, Wilfred Thomas Young made a short statement. He denied that Brown had ever paid him £5, as stated, nor had he received a single farthing from Brown. Neither Daniels nor Brown had been employed by him, and from neither had he received any payment. Hancock had been paid several months' wages.

Frederick Augustus Young, who was called as a witness by his brother, said that he had never been associated in business with his brother. Witness had been in business in King-street, Newtown, as a publisher for four years, during which period his name was exposed in bold letters on the premises. He had employed there from 8 to 14 hands, and the turnover of the King-street business was about £2000 per annum. When his brother was engaged in business at Wentworth-court witness was conducting a business of his own at the Glebe.

The jury brought in a verdict of guilty, and the accused were remanded for sentence.

LAND APPEAL COURT.

RESERVED DECISIONS.

The Land Appeal Court delivered the following reserved judgments:—

Appeal by G. Bayliss against the decision of the local land board in respect of claim by Finlay and Allen Campbell for contribution towards cost of fencing erected and made rabbit-proof on the boundaries common to their respective holdings, parishes of Ronald and Wargam, county of Townsend. This case was before the Court in May last (13 L.C.C., 178), and was referred to the land board for certain evidence.

Appeal sustained so far as the line K to L is concerned, the claim in respect to which counsel for the respondents withdrew. The Court reduced the costs before the board from £9 9s to £6 6s. The board's order was varied as to payment of contribution by directing payment to be made in two equal instalments—the first instalment to be paid within six, and the second instalment to be paid within 12 months from the date of the Court's order. The appeal was dismissed otherwise, and the Court directed a refund of the deposit lodged with the notice of appeal.

Reference by Gunnedah Land Board for direction in respect of Thomas John Gore's (now Frederick William Croaker's) original conditional purchase, No. 99/10, Gunnedah.

The Court held that in the present case the board might be directed that Gore's residence should be accepted as sufficient. The board directed accordingly.

Reference by Orange Land Board for direction in respect of William Stanley Row's application to convert his special lease No. 1531, Orange, into a conditional purchase No. 1909-4, Orange. The land board asked whether the price of the land should be the unimproved value at the date of application for conversion or whether any addition should be made for the interest which the Crown had in the improvements effected by the lessee under the stipulated conditions or otherwise.

The Court held that the board's two questions should be answered by saying that the price of the land itself was represented by its capital value, less improvements, at the date of application for conversion, and that the improvements had to be considered separately.

Mr. Brandis: I have come to the conclusion with regard to the first question submitted by the board, viz., whether the price of the land should be the unimproved value of the land at date of application for conversion, that the reply should be in the affirmative. Upon conversion, which terminates the lease, the improvements become the property of the Crown absolutely, who can claim them and require payment therefor in addition to the unimproved value of the land.

Mr. Houston: The board's questions are as follow:—"Whether the price of the land should be the unimproved value at the date of application for conversion, or whether any addition should be made for the interest which the Crown has in the improvements effected by the lessee under the stipulated conditions or otherwise." The first question I answer in the affirmative, and the second in the negative.

Appeal by Harry Roy Hutchinson Fowler against the recommendation of local land board in respect of his application to convert his special lease No. 2587, Parkes, into an additional homestead selection (No. 1909-1, Parkes). The appeal was made on the following grounds:—1. That as the evidence showed that the applicant would not have a living area if the conversion of the whole were recommended, and that the land was not required by the public as an additional reserve, as there was already ample land reserved for all purposes adjoining the railway siding, the board was in error in excising any portion of the area applied for from their recommendation. 2. That the board exceeded its functions in inserting conditions in its recommendations that the applicant should excavate a tank for public use on the area to be excised from the application (19 acres). 3. That the board's recommendation is against the evidence and the weight of evidence. The Court held: "We think that in the present case the applicant should not be required to incur any expenditure outside the boundaries of the land proposed to be allotted him, but that the area of about 19½ acres proposed to be excluded from the conditional purchase should be excluded. The appeal, taking the grounds of it literally, should, we think, be dismissed, though we think the board's recommendation, not only as to the proposed tank, but as to the existing tank should not be followed. To this extent, we sustain the appeal and direct refund of the deposit lodged with the notice of appeal.

Appeal by Otelia M. J. Mooney against the appraised capital value of the land comprised in her conditional purchase lease No. 1908-1, Condobolin.

The Court dismissed the appeal, and determined the capital value of the land at 13s 4d per acre, the rate appraised by the land board, and directed a refund of the deposit lodged with the notice of appeal.

Appeal by J. M'Grath against the decision of the local land board in respect of James William Martin's additional conditional purchase application No. 1909-86, Mudgee, and against the disallowance of his conditional lease application (unnumbered), Mudgee. Also, appeal by J. M'Grath against the direction of local land board in respect of James William Martin's conditional lease application No. 1909-70, Mudgee, and against the disallowance of his conditional lease application (unnumbered), Mudgee. The Court sustained the appeal on the first ground which had been submitted, and remitted the case to the board to rehear the appellant's and the respondent's applications. The evidence already given is to be taken as evidence at the rehearing. The Court also directed a refund of the deposit lodged with the notice of appeal.

THE NOVELTIES OF FATHER TUCK.

From Raphael Tuck and Sons comes the usual before-Christmas bewilderment in the shape of cards and novelties, all bent on beating the record of the year before. Each year Tuck and Sons are deservedly proud of their collection, and each year they exclaim, "Away with the old; the past has had its allotted span: the old order changeth, yielding place to new." We learn that for the present season no less than 4000 new designs have been prepared. First among the claimants to favour is the new Christmas Autograph Stationery, which for people of fastidious taste is likely to supplant the common or garden variety of card. Many have used printed cards of their own for the season's greetings; but upon that the new stationery is a decided improvement. Still, many others will cling to the decorated card, and for these Tuck and Sons prepare an infinite variety of surprises, foremost among which are series illustrated with Christmas bells hung in realistic fashion. Other striking novelties are series characterised by the epithets "Stained glass window," "pastel parchment," "oak-framed pictures," "painted celluloid," and "art canvas." A feature of Tuck's show is always the specially prepared cards for the royalties of the world, and these will be greatly appreciated. Likewise the post card craze takes on at Christmas a new fervour, and to meet the wants of the devotee no less than 1000 new subjects have been arranged. The wall calenders of various design may in many cases acceptably take the place of cards, and this year 400 novelties in this line have been prepared. As a matter of individual taste, we might be inclined to give first place to the illuminated parchment cards, amongst which are some strikingly effective examples of this kind of work. To others, perhaps, a hand-painted photogravure series will appeal more strongly. The illuminated celluloid has a particularly dainty effect, though the severely artistic critic might complain that this material was never meant for printing on. Somewhat meretricious, but undoubtedly popular too, are the "art metal" series, with covers that simulate the appearance of beaten bronze. The "stained glass" series has pretty scenes, viewed through transparencies. Black and white art gives some of its best successes to the collection. The puzzle postcards will in all probability initiate a new craze. The query "Do you puz.?" has already become familiar in England, and the puzzle picture is having a run that rivals the glories of ping-pong and diabolo. We must not forget "Father Tuck's Annual," now in its twelfth year of publication, and a first favourite among the very little folk. It is better than ever. For the same little folk also many of the quaintest novelties have been prepared, not least among which are the rope-climbing Teddy Bears, which by a cunning mechanical device run up and down their lines in the most convincing and uproariously delightful fashion. The perfection of the process work in the colour-design calendars cannot be better suggested than in the series of Turner's masterpieces—which includes some of the finest colour work we have seen. But description would be exhausted long before anyone could come to the end of Tuck's post and picture cards, and the onus of choice must be thrown once more on the gay purchaser—we take it for granted that he or she is sure to be gay with Father Tuck at the elbow.

ENGINE-DRIVERS' CLAIMS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

A plaint was filed by the general secretary of the Federated Enginedrivers and Firemen's Association of Australasia (Mr. Mitchell) with the Commonwealth Industrial Registrar in the dispute with the Hunter River Colliery Proprietors' Defence Association, the Southern Colliery Proprietors' Association, the Western Colliery Proprietors' Association, several colliery proprietors in Queensland, and about 20 factory employers in Victoria. The association claims that winding enginedrivers and locomotive drivers shall be paid 12s a day of eight hours; that the minimum rate of 1s 3d an hour be paid to drivers if an engine with a single cylinder of over 12in in diameter, or in the case of compound engines the combined area of the cylinders of which exceed that of a cylinder 12in in diameter; that in respect to single cylinders of 12in and under in diameter, or where the combined area of the cylinders of compound engines does not exceed that of a cylinder 12in in diameter, 1s 1½d shall be paid. It is desired that the minimum rate of pay for firemen and lumpers shall be 1s 1½d an hour, and for greasers, trimmers, and cleaners 1s an hour. Preference for unionists is also claimed.

A WOMAN'S LETTER TO RUN-DOWN, BLOODLESS, AND MELANCHOLIC WOMEN.

SHE WAS SO ILL SHE DID NOT CARE IF DEATH ENDED HER SUFFERINGS.

MRS. PARKINSON, OF THE BUNDEMAR HOTEL, VIA TRANGIE, SAYS CLEMENTS TONIC "SAVED HER LIFE."

Life that is one continual torture, enhanced by the uselessness of medical treatment under country conditions, is strikingly expressed in the letter of Mrs. Parkinson, published below, one of the sincerest and truest letters ever written from a cured woman to those who are to-day suffering the pangs of ill-health and mental weariness. This letter carries its message of hope to every anaemic, melancholic, nerve-weakened woman in the Commonwealth, telling them what a rare, potent, and certain remedy for health this famous tonic unquestionably is. Mrs. Parkinson, at her hotel, near Trangie, is a living, speaking monument to its health-restoring powers.

There can be no greater proof of the value of a medicine, or of its power to create health and strength in those, run down, nerve-wrecked, and unstrung than the voluntary letter received from those who have had practical healthful result from its use. THE MEDICINE THAT SAVES HUMAN LIFE is this medicine, because it has done so in countless instances, by scores of testimonies, distinctly proved.

"In cases of anaemia, nervousness, weakness, debility, or melancholia in women no medicine contains such effective properties to cure and relieve as Clements Tonic, and as Mrs. PARKINSON writes she tells everyone what it has done for her. Read this letter to Clements Tonic, Ltd.:—

"A few lines in reference to your Clements Tonic as a medicine. I think it my duty to inform you of the benefits I derived from taking it. I suffered very much from indigestion. No medicine prescribed for me did me good, but I saw an advt. of your tonic, and I took a course, altogether eight bottles, and I am now cured of my ailments. Two months ago I was very much run down, could not eat or sleep. I had pains all over; in fact, I did not care if I lived or died. So my husband sent to the local store for Clements Tonic. Before that I could not sit behind a horse for nervous fears. Now I can drive a trap and pair. We are now keeping an hotel, and my customers remark what A DIFFERENT WOMAN I AM, and I tell them all I have to thank Clements Tonic for the good it has done me, as I feel completely cured."

(Signed) FRANCES N. PARKINSON.

These are the letters that the sick, dead-to-the world, tired-of-life women should read and act upon. As this woman was cured, so can others be. This remedy is the standard Australian blood and nerve regenerator, and no unhealthy woman should be without it. All grocers and chemists sell it everywhere. It is only another name for permanent health.—Ad.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1909.

THE REIGN OF LAW.

Public attention has already been drawn in these columns and elsewhere to the hardship which the existence of this strike must inflict on those who are not directly parties to it. Every cessation of work in any industry is an injury to the whole community. The machinery of commerce is so complicated, and its ramifications are so numerous, that it is impossible for anything to happen in any one department without affecting the whole body of citizens. A strike must entail a decrease of production and a consequent loss of wealth, and must diminish the reputation of the country which suffers from it among its customers. But the effect of a strike in the coal trade, which is the basis not only of all industry, but of all the organisations of modern life, must be more direct, more immediate, and more disastrous than in any other. The inconvenience suffered by the whole of the public, by everyone who benefits by the public services of transport and lighting, is from one point of view of comparatively slight importance. The immediate loss of wealth from the inability of producers to deliver their goods is a hardship that may not under some circumstances prove irreparable. But it is doubtful whether anything can ever compensate the community for the ground which will be lost by them to their competitors throughout the world. Both the miners and the proprietors have already experienced at Newcastle the penalty of allowing their trade to fall into the hands of their rivals. The mines cannot be worked full time for lack of a market, and the men cannot work long enough to earn sufficient to keep their families in comfort, or to reward themselves for the dangers of their calling. In this way the consequences of a strike fall upon masters and men alike. The present strike will make the position of both parties worse than it has ever been before. Its evil effects will increase in gravity for every day that hostilities continue. The responsibilities of those who are able to decide whether and when work shall be resumed are under any circumstances enormous. They must be increased beyond measure when it is realised that, if the design of the leaders of the men succeeds, the same consequences will be inflicted on every other exporting industry throughout Australia. There is, moreover, another aspect of the case in which the public are as deeply concerned as any of the parties. A reader of the speeches of the strike leaders will readily detect a common fallacy running through them all. Whenever reference is made to the Industrial Disputes Act it is referred to as the law of the Premier, who is described as the Irish members used to describe Mr. Balfour in the eighties. Whenever an Executive act is referred to, it is spoken of as the act of a brutal Government. In all the exhortations to the strikers, a contrast is drawn between the law of the land and the will of the people. Public opinion, we are told, is the final arbiter, and will never tolerate the observance of a law to which it is bitterly opposed. We find it difficult to believe that the repetition of these old phrases really deceives the speakers who use them or their hearers. They are appropriate enough when applied to countries in which the government is in the hands of an oligarchy. There is considerable justification for them when used by Irishmen who have never reconciled themselves to the predominance of Great Britain. But they are ludicrously inappropriate in the mouths of citizens of as free and democratic a State as any in the world. The laws are the laws not of the Premier, or of the Government, but of New South Wales, passed after discussion by a majority of the recently-elected representatives of the people. The only purpose which can be served by the expressions we have quoted is to obscure one of the main issues which was raised first by the tram strike, and is now raised again by Mr. Bowling and his colleagues.

The question which they have forced upon us may be stated in a few words. Is it about to be proved that the people of New South Wales are incapable of using the gift of self-government? Are our institutions to break down the first time they are submitted to a critical test? It has been said by the man who spent his life in the advocacy and examination of representative institutions that the mark of a free people is the existence among them of a spirit which will support the officers of State in carrying out the laws passed by Parliament. Mr. Bowling and his friends, if they accomplish what they profess to desire, will have created a spirit which will set those laws at defiance. They will have succeeded in persuading the community to allow itself to be governed, and its laws to be set aside, by a very small minority. Looked at in this light, the strike is seen to be something more than the beginning of a commercial crisis. We hope and believe that every effort will be made to prevent its continuance, that no legitimate means of conciliation will be neglected. But if the strike does last, we trust that the people of the State will make it plain that they are prepared to suffer any inconvenience or any monetary loss rather than allow a few men to dictate to the Government and the Parliament. If they do not there is an end of any order or security for good government, and there is an end of our right to self-respect as a people. We have been told, and we know, that we have never earned our right to exist against an invader. We shall have failed in a simpler test if we cannot defend our institutions against the attempt of Mr. Bowling and his colleagues to dominate them. There is an obvious method by which the evils of existing legislation can be remedied if they exist. The coal-miners have as much weight with the electors as any other class. If they or their spokesmen can point to any defects in the Industrial Disputes Act, or to any injustice, there can be no reasonable doubt that the Act will be amended or repealed. Nor can there be any doubt that if they can prove the administration guilty of any arbitrary or unfair conduct they will find their remedy. It must be taken to be a proof of the weakness of the case against the Act and the Government that these methods are ignored. The Act was passed to cure certain defects in the Arbitration Act, the pride of the Labour party. It gave expedition instead of delay, and consideration by experts instead of by permanent assessors. It contains all the machinery to prevent strikes and lockouts, and provides for penalties against those who instigate them, or either of them. No one until to-day has been willing to assert that the very able men who have discharged the duties of chairmen in the Newcastle district have not been capable, painstaking, and just. If the men are willing to take advantage of the Act there is not the slightest reason to doubt that their genuine grievances will be redressed. We have alluded to the consequences of a decision to ignore the law and to continue the strike. Every hour brings a fresh illustration of the misery and poverty that must ensue from such an act of folly. From every part of Australia we hear of businesses shut down, and employees dismissed for lack of the fuel necessary to enable them to be carried on. In the face of such a condition of things we are again reminded of the wise words of Burke, as appropriate in this crisis as they were in the time of the Civil war, as appropriate to the mood of the employers and of the Government as to that of the men:—"The question with me is, not whether you have a right to render your people miserable, but whether it is not your interest to make them happy. It is not what a lawyer tells me I may do, but what humanity, reason, and justice tell me I ought to do. Nobody shall persuade me, where a whole people are concerned, that acts of lenity are not means of conciliation."

THE ARCHBISHOP OF SYDNEY.

To the Archbishop of Sydney, who arrives to-day, the people of this State, no less than his Church, will offer a warm welcome, and this the more so in that he wholeheartedly casts in his lot with us. This intention he simply and naturally expressed when, in bidding farewell to the people of Manchester, he said that he spoke to them as an Australian, and that the love of his new home was beginning to appeal strongly to his heart. It does, indeed, help us to understand the reason of the strength of England when we find her producing men who are willing to sacrifice excellent hopes of preferment in their home Church, with all its social and intellectual amenities, to lead the Church in an outpost of the Empire. To the high office in which he will be installed in St. Andrew's Cathedral on Wednesday next Dr. Wright brings a reputation which will bear comparison with that of any of his predecessors. One of the school of younger evangelicals, as is indeed fitting when we consider the past history of the Church in New South Wales, of adequate scholarship, he combines with his own views a breadth of outlook and a tolerance which enable him to look with sympathy on convictions to which he cannot himself adhere. Here in great measure was the secret of his election, and the simple message in which he signified his acceptance of the Archbishopric makes manifest the directness and earnestness which he will bring to bear on his work. To exercise these attributes the Church life and problems which confront him here will give him full scope. Life is freer, and to the majority fuller, than in England, and the problems before the Church in its internal administration wear a different aspect. The organisation is voluntary, is wholly divorced from State control and support. Methods of working are in a state of flux, for the ever-shifting habits of the people and the rapid growth of parishes in population call for an adaptability for expansion of the means employed, which will rejoice a man strong in organising ability.

There are, too, the divisions in the Church, and it is for the good of the Church that it should be so, for unanimity leads to self-content, and too often to slackness, while division is an incentive to emulation, keeps life tense, and tends to that dissatisfaction with things accomplished which would ever be aiming higher. If in Australia our temperament, easy going as it is, does not permit these divisions in the Anglican communion to attain the height of bitterness which has sometimes characterised them in England, they still, to enable them to work harmoniously for their common object—the spiritual welfare and uplifting of the people—need the guiding hand and tactful control of a leader with the "wise judgment, breadth of view, and moderating influence" which Dr. Wright is reputed to possess. Not only in harmonising the work of the divisions will the Archbishop have need to display such high qualities, but he must so shape his governance as to prevent unseemly disputation should scandal raise its ugly head among his flock. In his relations with other sections of the Christian Church, Dr. Wright will meet them more on the basis of equality than is possible in a land where Establishment prevails, but naturally from his position he will be the leader in this State of the Protestant section of the Church, an unofficial leadership which his strong evangelicalism will allow him the more readily to accept. We may be sure that he will do nothing to increase or accentuate the differences which therein already exist, but that in so far as he conceives it to be for the welfare of the Church at large, he will foster the desire for reunion, not forgetting the wise words of Bishop Welldon at his consecration in St. Paul's three months ago, to be eager to welcome, but not eager to precipitate, reunion, for it would be better to remain apart for a generation or two longer than to come together, only to fly apart once more. But perhaps the divisions of the Church are shaping themselves anew. The teachings of the Higher Criticism have parted many pious men, and it may be that the Churches as we know them now will largely undergo change, partly by reunion, partly by modification from within, by which they will readjust themselves, their message and their mission, to a new age. Such is the view of Lord Hugh Cecil, who, though not a theologian, is an earnest layman, with much of the farsightedness of his father, the late Marquis of Salisbury. The influence of the Archbishop on one of these schools of thought should leave an impress which the passing of many years would not efface. His moderation will temper the desire for too energetic measures to which he will be urged by extremists, who, leaving out of sight the cases of Bishop Colenso and Dr. Temple, forget that the heresy of to-day often becomes the orthodoxy of to-morrow.

It is in his capacity as a citizen and in fulfilling a citizen's duties that our expectation of Dr. Wright has been most raised. Here no less than in the Church the problems confronting him will be different from those in England. We have not the grinding poverty, and the necessaries of life are not so hard come by. With our newness there is a materialism which, if our religious leaders fail in checking, is apt to degenerate into a brutal way of considering life. The celerity with which wellbeing is often attained, the temptation to an existence which considers pleasure alone, a temptation enhanced by the mildness of climatic conditions, tend also to foster that trend of life. It is not that we are irreligious, but with the majority of us the pleasantness of our surroundings weakens our spiritual natures, and the tolerance which pleasure brings does sink into indifference. The aim of the community, if we are to evolve on right lines, and take our place in the world's progress, must be to combat these evils, and it is from the leaders of the Church that we expect light. There are, too, the problems of education, not the acquisition of knowledge, which may be kept to the experts, but the means of strengthening character and of gaining wisdom. Upon these, when he knows more of us, Dr. Wright should have much to say, and when he knows our social conditions he will help us from his ripe experience to guide our life from that sordidness which seems fated to afflict all communities. We want him to take his place among us as one of our leaders, to appear on our public platforms as one of the moulders of the thought of our nation, to occupy in the State that large space which Bishop Barry did while for too brief a time he was with us. Dr. Wright has the opportunity, the conditions under which he joins us are most auspicious, and judging by the reputation which he brings with him it lies within his compass to make himself not only a power in his own Church but in the State also, and, if he is elected to the Primacy, which is in the gift of the bishops of Australia, in the wider sphere of the Commonwealth.

To-day's "Herald."—Sir Henry Lucy (page 5) discusses the King's summons to several of the political leaders to Balmoral as indication of his Majesty's interest in the Lords' dealing with the Budget. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, whose literary services to the nation at the time of the Boer War are remembered, has just added a remarkable impeachment of Belgian administration in Western Africa, with the title of "The Crime of the Congo." Colonel Foster, R.E., of the University School of Military Science, contributes on page 7 an appeal for and an outline of a military college for the training of regimental and staff officers for the Australian forces. Professor Macmillan Brown, who has just made a lengthened tour of South America, sends us (page 5) a paper on the transformation of Brazil, indicating the rapid improvement of the Atlantic ports and cities, the corruption of the Government, and the dangers of the Republic in sudden wealth, based on an illiterate and mixed population. A recent tourist in Denmark supplies (page 5) a bright account of Copenhagen, its abounding prosperity, centred in butter. We begin, on page 4, Mr. Max. Pemberton's new story, "The Girl with the Red Hair."

King's Birthday Review.—His Excellency the Governor will review the military forces of the State this afternoon at 4 o'clock in Centennial Park. Over 6000 troops, including seamen and marines, cadets, permanents, militia, and volunteers, will parade. The Royal salute will be fired by the Howitzer Battery on the hill, while the infantry will fire the feu-de-joie. After the inspection there will be the march past. The veterans, girl aids, and boy scouts will also be present.

The Financial Agreement.—The votes recorded by Messrs. Bruce Smith, Willis, and Wilks, Ms.P., in connection with the financial agreement, which was arrived at between the Prime Minister and the Premiers in conference in August, have been noted in the several electorates. At Ashfield a movement is on foot to defeat Mr. Bruce Smith by the return of the Mayor of that municipality, Alderman Pratten.

Closer Settlement.—The Executive Council, at a special meeting yesterday, decided to establish courts of appeal in connection with the resumption for closer settlement of the estates known as Larras Lake, near Molong, and Crowthers, near Young. Mr. Justice Sly was appointed to preside over each of the courts. At the hearing of each appeal Mr. E. J. Sievers will be the assessor on behalf of the Lands Department, the representative for the owners having yet to be announced. These two estates average between 10,000 and 12,000 acres each.

Cootamundra Hospital.—Representatives of the Cootamundra Hospital committee, accompanied by Messrs. Holman and Davidson, Ms.L.A., called at the Chief Secretary's Department yesterday, and in the absence of the Chief Secretary laid before the Principal Under-Secretary a proposal connected with the new hospital now being erected. It was explained that the committee had been led to expect a final instalment of £500 towards the construction of the new building, which would cost between £5000 and £6000, but it was now suggested as an alternative that the old hospital building be taken over at a valuation of, say, £850. The old building could be used as an inebriates' home. The deputation made two or three other suggestions, and the Principal Under-Secretary replied that the matter would be laid before the Chief Secretary, who would place it before the Cabinet.

The Point of View.—There is an obligation imposed upon a lawfully-arrested person to stay in custody. The prisoner must not, according to the law, "go at large whithersoever he pleases." At the Quarter Sessions yesterday an accused whom the Crown alleged had failed to recognise that obligation when under arrest at the Water Police Court 14 years ago, evidently held that the law was somewhat irrational on that point. "You did not think I was going to wait your convenience, did you?" he asked the detective, who was in the witness-box, and who, 14 years ago, had gazed anxiously up and down Phillip-street, looking for his vanished charge. "Now (insinuatingly) if you were arrested, detective wouldn't you have done the same?" "That," answered the cautious police officer, "might depend on circumstances." "Anyhow, you will admit that the surroundings were not altogether congenial to a young man, won't you? "A young man should not have been there. It is no place for him," diplomatically replied the officer. "That's so; but which way did I go when I left the station?" "Ah, that' what I was wondering at all the time," said the detective, with an earnestness that carried conviction.

Cabmen and the Taxis.—If the horse cab has to die the Chief Secretary is apparently determined that it will not be by suffocation. He intends to give the horse cabmen a fair show on the ranks. One of the grounds of complaint by these men when they waited upon him some few weeks ago was that the taxi-cabs, being limited in number, had more than their fair share of participation in the front rotation calls. Mr. Wood has now decided that the taxi-cabs at the railway shall be put back to the stand they originally had. He cannot, however, agree, whilst considering the public interest, to disallow the taxis the use of a separate stand.

Pale Butter and Margarine.—The margarine question, which was given much prominence at the recent conference of co-operative butter factory managers (who laid their views before the Chief Secretary), has been considered by the advisory committee under the Pure Food Act. A new regulation will shortly be adopted dealing with this question. This will mean, the department explains, that, in all probability, colouring will be prohibited both in margarine and butter.

The Mails.—With regard to the publishing of closing dates for mails, "Exporter" draws attention "to the consistent want of consideration on the part of the Postal Department towards firms who regularly use this medium for the finding out when their mails are to be despatched." As an instance, he says Wednesday's column advised that a mail was closing for San Francisco the same date at 8 a.m. There being no previous advice, few, if any, could avail themselves of that steamer. He mentions that similar useless notices appear almost weekly, and he expresses the hope that those in charge "will accept this hint to at least give 24 hours' notice before the closing of outside foreign mails." The Deputy Postmaster-General, Mr. Young, has had inquiries made in reference to this complaint. The vessel in question, it seems, was the steamer Kilburn. The law requires 24 hours' notice from the agents of an intending departure. When this notice was given (on 8th instant, after the prescribed hour—4 p.m.) the information was incomplete, the date of the departure being absent. The person who presented the notice was not able to give an approximate date of arrival at San Francisco. A proper notice, giving information that the vessel would sail at 10 a.m. on Wednesday, 10th, was lodged at the Post Office at 9 a.m. on Tuesday, 9th. The information was sent that day to the daily papers, but could not appear in the morning papers until the next day, 10th instant.

The picnic fireplace near Mrs. Macquarie's Chair, in the Government Domain, will be open all day on Monday to visitors. Firewood is provided, and water can be obtained from the Victoria Drinking Fountain close at hand. The Domain Gymnasium will also be open as usual.

The meeting to form a branch of the Liberal League in Crow's Nest will be held on Tuesday on account of Monday, as previously announced, being a public holiday.

A petition has been prepared and largely signed by North Botany residents, for submission to Parliament, praying that the sewerage scheme as adopted by the Metropolitan Board of Water Supply and Sewerage be extended to North Botany. The Municipal Council has sent circulars to all members of Parliament, soliciting their support.

The tourist Harbour trips of Sydney Ferries, Ltd., on Tuesdays will be discontinued, but the Thursday trip will run as usual until further notice.

Sir George Reid, K.C.M.G., left Melbourne for Sydney by last night's express. Sir William Lyne was not well enough to travel. He hopes to be able to leave the southern State to-night.

The Minister for Defence (Mr. Joseph Cook), the Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Fuller), and the Vice-President of the Executive Council (Senator Millen) left Melbourne for Sydney by last night's express.

Mr. Harry Rickards will arrive in Sydney this morning, after a European tour of some months taken for the purpose of securing artists for his Australian theatres.

Before the ordinary business at the Balmain Police Court commenced this morning Messrs. J. J. Reeder, E. A. Roberts, and W. Parker, solicitors, Mr. G. M. Marsh, chamber magistrate, and Sub-inspector M'Lean referred in terms of regret to Mr. L. S. Donaldson's approaching retirement from the Bench.

After an illness extending over some months, Mr. W. Swann, of Elizabeth Farm House, died on Thursday morning. Mr. Swann was a retired officer under the Department of Education, his last school being the Parramatta North Superior Public School. The deceased gentleman held the positions of president of the Yorkshire Society, and president of the Parramatta District Hospital, both of which he resigned last month, owing to failing health. He was an active citizen, and took a keen interest in all local matters, both in Parramatta and Granville. He leaves a widow and grown-up family.

Mr. William Buckingham, of Oxford-street, who, with Mrs. Buckingham and some members of his family, left Sydney about eight months ago for a trip to Great Britain and the Continent, via Japan and America, is, with them, returning to-day by the R.M.S. Otranto.

Powis-Rogers and the Misses Rogers (2), all booked to London. Mr. John Foster Fraser will travel by the steamer to Fremantle.

The death is announced of Captain James Hodge, one of the most popular commanders in the days when wool-clippers made sensational voyages from Sydney to London. He traded here in the Lufra and Granite City, but was best known as the commander of the fine sailing ship Port Jackson, then belonging to the Duthie line, but now controlled by Messrs. Devitt and Moore as a ship for training officers of the mercantile marine. Captain Hodge died at his home at Macduff, Scotland, on September 28, at the age of 77 years.

The death is announced from New Zealand of Mr. Percy Hudson, of Sydney, proprietor of Hudson's Wallpaper Company, aged 38 years.

THE NEW ARCHBISHOP.

ARRIVAL THIS MORNING.

The Archbishop of Sydney, the Most Rev. J. C. Wright, will arrive this morning by the R.M.S. Otranto, and the original arrangement that the standing committee of synod and the Cathedral chapter should go down the harbour to meet him has been altered. As the vessel will come alongside the Quay at 7 a.m., a deputation from the committee and the chapter will go on board to meet the Archbishop at 9 a.m.

A thanksgiving service will be held in St. Andrew's Cathedral at 11 a.m. This service will be brief but appropriate, and the Archbishop will deliver a short address, this being his first public utterance in Australia. A special anthem, the introduction of which has been composed by Mr. J. Massey, will be sung by the choir. There will be no administration of the Holy Communion.

To-morrow the Archbishop will attend the services in the Cathedral, but he will not take duty. The Archbishop of Brisbane will preach at the evening service.

The ceremony of enthronement and installation will take place on Wednesday morning at 10.30 o'clock. The music will be a special feature of this service, which should be a most striking one in all respects. The interior of the Cathedral has been embellished, and presents a beautiful appearance. Extra seating accommodation has been provided.

CRICKET A DECADENT SPORT.

POPULARITY OF GOLF.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

"Cricket is on the down-grade all over the world," said Dr. Ramsay Mailer to-day during a conversation regarding his recent visit to England. Dr. Mailer is a member of the Melbourne Cricket Club committee, and has been a first-class player. He was in England during the recent visit of the Australian Eleven. He attributes this decadence to golf, and the great hold it has taken on the public. Cricket was falling as a game because young fellows now play golf who, five, ten, or fifteen years ago, were trying to get into the eleven of their county. Golf was tremendously popular, and all over England there were new courses springing up. Public interest in cricket was decreasing. The fact that there were few amateurs coming on was causing the public to lose interest. Outside Lancashire and Yorkshire almost every county club is being run at a loss. Cricket is a decadent sport as far as public patronage is concerned. The English public love the amateur player. They are proud of the prowess of the professional, and appreciate good cricket; but they love the amateur.

BURGLARY AT BANGALOW.

POST-OFFICE ENTERED.

LISMORE, Friday.

BUSH FIRES.

NARRANDERA, Friday.

The heat in the earlier part of the week averaged close on 100deg. A large growth of grass has become highly inflammable, and only requires a start to lay bare large areas. A fire started last week on Yanco station, but was confined to Yanco Island. Luckily the wind chopped round, and only 1500 acres were burnt. On Sunday a fire occurred on Bundidjarie run, burning through Oakleigh Farm. It was got under.

MOAMA, Friday.

A destructive bush fire broke out at Wamboota and Perricoota. 1000 acres of grass and a considerable area of crop land being destroyed. Altogether it is estimated that 10,000 acres were burnt. The principal sufferers were:—James Skelly, Falkiner and Sons, Belbin, E. Robinson, Frank and Josiah Pitty, and J. Leitch.

Another fire broke out in Perricoota woolshed paddock, where about 400 acres of grass was burnt.

LORDS AND THE BUDGET.

PREPARING FOR REJECTION.

TARIFF REFORM THE ISSUE.

LONDON, Nov. 12.

The Duke of Argyll, speaking at a Conservative conference at Dundee, said that if the House of Lords rejected the Finance Bill, with a strong protest against its provisions, and a declaration that the Lords were not responsible for it, the issue would be broad and straight between tariff reform and the Budget.

The Duke of Argyll added that the general result of tariff reform, according to the experience of all lands, would be the keeping up and steadying of wages, and the prevention of oscillation in the demand for labour.

Lord Avebury, in the course of an interview, said that personally he thought it advisable for the Lords to amend instead of to reject the Finance Bill, because it contained many old taxes which they had no desire to disturb, but the effects of the Budget would be so disastrous that, as Lord Lansdowne proposed to meet it by a direct negative, he would be prepared to support its rejection.

LABOUR CONGRATULATIONS.

FROM AMERICA TO MR. LLOYD-GEORGE.

SUFFRAGE FOR WOMEN.

LIBERAL PARTY DIVIDED.

NOT AN ISSUE AT ELECTION.

LONDON, Nov. 12.

The Earl of Crewe, in reply to a deputation of 14 members of the Forward Suffrage Union, within the Women's Liberal Federation said that it was impossible to make the granting of votes to women a plank of the Liberal platform of the general election.

Dwelling upon the sharp differences within the Government and Parliament on the question, Lord Crewe remarked that if the question was put to the House of Commons as it now stands suffrage for women would be largely beaten. Changes in those now holding office in the party would certainly be involved in making the question a definite issue of the election, and the party would suffer a distinct loss of strength.

THE BRENNAN MONORAIL.

A GYROSCOPIC CAR.

TRIAL WITH PASSENGERS.

LONDON, Nov. 11.

Mr. Louis Brennan has made a very successful trial run with a gyroscopic car, 40ft long and 10ft wide, carrying 40 passengers on a monoline. The car was fitted with two gyroscopes 3½ft in diameter, making 3000 revolutions per minute.

The passengers changed sides while the car was in motion.

It is stated that Mr. Brennan contemplates introducing a monorail to Australia, with carriages 150ft long and 20ft broad, having two stories.

GERMAN NAVAL SCANDALS.

WORKMEN'S DISHONESTY.

LONDON, Nov. 12.

Evidence which was given at the trial at Kiel of officials and merchants charged with robbing the naval dockyard showed that the dockyard workmen were paid extra, according to the weight of material handled and used. The workmen would crowd round the scales when the waggons containing their work were being weighed in order to add to the weight.

HUNGARIAN CRISIS ACUTE.

SPLIT IN INDEPENDENCE PARTY.

M. KOSSUTH WITHDRAWS.

LONDON, Nov. 12.

The political crisis in Hungary has become more acute. The Justh section of the Independence party demands the establishment of a separate Hungarian State bank in 1911, universal suffrage, and the formation of a Cabinet representing the Independence party alone. Yesterday the Justh section secured the adoption by the Chamber of Deputies of a resolution to that end by 120 votes to 74.

M. Kossuth, the leader of the Independence party, who, with the support of Count von Aehrenthal, had sought a coalition with Count Andrassy and the Clerical People's party, to form a Cabinet in favour of a suffrage reform, with a plural franchise, the prolongation of the charter of the Joint State Bank, and military concessions to the Magyar demands, thereupon announced his withdrawal from the Independence party, and quitted the hall with his adherents.

Count Apponyi is expected to follow the example of M. Kossuth.

PACIFIC NAVAL BASES.

PRINCIPAL STATION AT HAWAII.

ARMY PROTECTS PHILIPPINES.

LONDON, Nov. 12.

President Taft has approved of the recommendation of the Army and Navy Board to make Pearl Harbour, Hawaii, the chief naval station in the Pacific.

A temporary station will be constructed at Luzon, the Philippines, but the proposed improvement of Manila Harbour has been abandoned. The protection of the Philippines has been primarily entrusted to the army.

The contract for the construction of a dry dock at Pearl Harbour was signed at Washington in September. As it is to be 1195ft long, it will be the largest ever built for the use of the United States Navy. The contract marked another step in the policy which recognises the strategic importance of the Sandwich Islands, and aims at making them a naval and military stronghold—a really strong link between the Philippines and the Pacific Coast.

A BANK HELD UP.

CASHIER AND PRESIDENT SHOT.

MOTOR BOAT CAPTURES MURDERER.

LONDON, Nov. 12.

A daring robbery was committed at New Albany, Indiana, yesterday. A robber entered the Merchants' National Bank in that town, and shouting "hands up" shot at and killed Mr. Fawcett, the cashier, and fatally wounded Mr. Woodward, the president.

BOSNIAN HISTORY.

PUBLICATION OF DOCUMENTS THREATENED.

FRICTION BETWEEN FOREIGN MINISTERS.

LONDON, Nov. 12.

Newspapers which act as the organs of Count Lexa von Aehrenthal, Austro-Hungarian Minister for Foreign Affairs, allege that M. Isvolsky, the Russian Minister for Foreign Affairs, agreed beforehand to the annexation of Bosnia by Austria-Hungary.

The accusations are causing friction between Russia and Austria-Hungary, and M. Isvolsky, who repudiates the allegation, states that he is willing to publish all correspondence affecting the European situation, starting with the agreement of 1897, but perhaps it would be inconvenient to other Powers beside Russia.

THE FATAL TRANCE.

RUPTURED BLOOD-VESSEL.

CAUSED BY HYPNOTIST'S PRANKS.

LONDON, Nov. 11.

Prior to the post-mortem at Somerville, New Jersey, on the body of Simpson, the man who died while under a cataleptic trance, induced by Everston, a hypnotist, at a music hall performance, Everston frantically assured the doctor that Simpson was still in a cataleptic trance.

Eventually Everston was permitted to go to the mortuary, with a number of hypnotists, and they continued experiments for several hours to resuscitate the man.

Finally the doctors ordered the hypnotists away.

The post-mortem examination showed that death had resulted from rupture of the aorta, due to Everston jumping on the victim's chest.

NEW MAIL STEAMER.

THE OTRANTO DUE THIS MORNING.

RECORD NUMBER OF PASSENGERS.

The fourth of the Orient Company's new mail steamers—the R.M.S. Otranto, of 12,124 tons—will arrive at Sydney at an early hour this morning on her maiden voyage from London, via ports, and will be berthed at about 7 a.m. at the company's wharf at the Circular Quay.

The Otranto left London with the largest number of passengers on record for Australian ports, and she will arrive here with a record number. There were 1120 passengers on board when the Otranto commenced her voyage, and her crew of 343 brought the total number of souls to 1463. On arrival at Fremantle there were still 1005 passengers on board, but numbers landed at the intermediate ports. Their places, however, were filled by a couple of hundred interstate travellers, and over 1000 passengers will disembark at the Quay this morning.

The new mammoth liner was built by Workman, Clarke, and Co., of Belfast, and on her official trip maintained a speed of 18.85 knots. Accommodation is provided altogether for 1290 passengers—300 in the first saloon, 140 in the second saloon, 400 in the third-class, and 450 in the emigrants' quarters. The lounge and music-room are two impressive and lofty apartments, situated in the forward deck-house, and a distinguishing feature is the large bow-windows, which command uninterrupted views over the sea. The decorations are in the Georgian style, the walls being panelled and relieved with carved columns, mirrors, and tapestries. An electrical hoist for the conveyance of passengers to the dining-saloon corridor, is approached from the lounge. Ample deck space is provided for all sections of tourists, and the Otranto is described as a magnificent sea boat.

The outgoing mail steamer—R.M.S. Orontes—will sail from the company's moorings in Neutral Bay shortly after noon to-day. Launches will leave the Orient Wharf, Circular Quay, at 11, 11.30, and 12 noon, conveying passengers and their friends and baggage to the ship.

AN EXCITING VOYAGE.

INDRADEVI IN HEAVY WEATHER.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

"We have had the most exciting experience of our lives," remarked Captain A. E. Hollingworth, of the Tyser steamer Indradevi, upon the arrival of that vessel here this morning from New York. The forecastle head, upon which thousands of tons of water has descended during furious storms, presented a badly-strained and shaken appearance; whilst the starboard iron rail for about 50 feet had been bent and broken by the seas. The weather which wrought this and other damage, was encountered between the Crozets and Kerguelen Island, in about latitude 46½ degrees south. The wind, which was blowing with cyclonic strength from the south-east, brought up enormous cross seas, in which the liner plunged and laboured prodigiously. Rushing along her decks with overwhelming force, the immense weight of water carried all before it, and several of the crew had narrow escapes. It was at this stage of the storm that practically all the damage was done. In addition to the destruction of the starboard railing, and the injury to the forecastle head, the skylight of the engine-room was smashed; the wheel-box and steering gear were carried away, as well as other damage of a less serious nature inflicted to the ship's fittings. Subsequently, the vessel was "hove to" for three days. Heavy seas in the meantime swept her decks, which were constantly flooded. Finer weather ultimately setting in, the Indradevi was put upon her course for Albany, where her bunkers were replenished before the voyage to Melbourne was continued.

THE MILK CARTERS' MYSTERY.

POSSIBLE TROUBLE BREWING.

"Something very sensational has transpired," said Mr. Saunders, secretary of the Milk and Ice Carters' Union, last night, at the Trades Hall. "I have been instructed to try to obtain an interview with Judge Heydon at the earliest possible moment. I can't say more except that it's connected with the wages board trouble. I think it will have a successful ending, but if it doesn't there is reason to believe that something very sensational will eventuate. In the event of an interview with Judge Heydon being refused," he added, "or being unsuccessful, the executive has decided to summon immediately a special meeting of the whole of its members, including employees in the industry who may not be members at present." In the midst of mystery the union secretary departed.

GRAVE CRISIS.

MINERS' DEMAND REFUSED.

"MEN MUST RETURN WITHIN WEEK."

LAST HOPE TO-DAY.

STRIKE LEADERS AND NATIONALISATION.

ZIG-ZAG COLLIERY OUT.

LITHGOW TO FOLLOW.

MR. BOWLING'S SCHEME.

MINERS MAY WORK COLLIERY ON MONDAY.

The situation is extraordinarily grave.

The Northern colliery proprietors met yesterday, and, as the Western and Southern colliery proprietors had done before them, refused the men's terms for a conference.

They offered to meet their men in conference if they returned to work within one week.

The Congress of delegates of the three mining districts and the unions which have threatened to strike meets at the Trades Hall to-day.

The only remaining hope is that they will accept the conference as offered. The outlook is very gloomy.

Strike leaders state that the object of a general strike is to raise public opinion to coerce the mineowners.

Mr. Hughes, M.P., thanks Mr. Bowling for handing over to him the leadership of the strike, but declines it.

The Zigzag colliery at Lithgow came out yesterday. The other Lithgow mines were working.

The Lithgow miners, at an aggregate meeting, held last night, decided to cease work.

The collieries which it is said may be worked in connection with the Miners' Federation are expected in Melbourne to be running on Monday.

The Melbourne agents of the Ebbw Main and Wallsend collieries state that if those collieries were to run in connection with the strikers they would cease to be their agents at once.

Wool freights have been raised an eighth of a penny per lb. from Monday next.

Chaff reached £6 and lucerne hay £5.

THE POSITION.

EXTRAORDINARILY GRAVE.

PROBLEM BEFORE TO-DAY'S CONGRESS.

THE ALTERNATIVES.

The position in the strike to-day is extraordinarily grave. It is also extraordinarily simple.

The federation of the miners of the three districts sent requests to the employers of the three districts for a conference. The employers of the north and south refused except on condition that the men went back to work. The proprietors of the west did not make that condition, as their men were working. They merely pointed out that their men had no grievances.

A congress of delegates of all the unions which are threatening to strike, as well as of the miners, will be held at the Trades Hall to-day. Some of the delegates to that conference appear to think that the suggestion ought to be made at to-day's congress that, as a last alternative to a general strike, the offer to grant a conference if the men return to work should be accepted. Others are against it. It is said that the miners of the three districts will have each to decide for themselves; but that the recommendation of to-morrow's congress will have immense weight with them.

If the conference is not accepted, two things will apparently happen, and a third may happen.

Firstly, the wharf-labourers, seamen, carters, storemen, and, it is said, many other unions, will cease work. This will not affect the mine-owners whose mines are now quite stopped. Strike leaders explained yesterday that it was intended to affect the public—to stop business in such a way that the public would rise and say the strike must be put an end to by coercing the mine-owners. How the mine-owners could be coerced was not clear, but it has been explained that this is to be done by nationalising the mines. How the public is to nationalise the mines is not stated.

The second thing that will happen is that the State Government will put into effect the penal clauses of the Industrial Disputes Act.

What may happen in the event of a shipping strike, extending to the other States, is that the Federal Arbitration Court may be moved to intervene. Meanwhile, the shipping trade and maritime labour generally will be gradually suspended by failure of coal.

DEMAND REFUSED.

NORTHERN OWNERS DECIDE.

MEN MUST GO BACK.

CONDITIONAL CONFERENCE OFFERED.

The proprietors of every northern colliery, or their representatives—except those of Ebbw Main and Young Wallsend—met at Dalgety and Co.'s offices yesterday. Collieries both inside and outside the vend were represented.

The request of the Colliery Employees' Federation for a conference was considered.

After a discussion, lasting all the afternoon, the request was definitely and finally refused unless the men returned to work within one week.

On condition that the men returned, the proprietors decided they would grant a conference; if it did not settle affairs they would agree to refer all claims on both sides to the Industrial Court.

The following reply was sent to the federation's request:—

Sydney, 12th November, 1909.

Hunter River District Colliery Proprietors' Defence Association.

Mr. W. Brennan, Secretary, Colliery Employees' Federation, Newcastle.

Dear Sir,—I beg to acknowledge receipt of your favour of 10th inst., and am requested by my association to say that until the employees resume work the proprietors will not consent to any conference whatever.

Should, however, work be resumed within one week from date hereof, the proprietors are prepared to meet the executive or delegates of the Colliery Employees' Federation in conference. Should such conference prove abortive they are willing to submit all claims on both sides to the Industrial Court for settlement.

The proprietors for a considerable time have been suffering from many disabilities; nevertheless they have respected the laws of the State, and are still prepared to look for remedial measures to the proper and legitimate tribunal established by Parliament.

My association desires me to request that you will consider this reply as of a final and definite character.

Yours faithfully, A. R. CANT, Secretary.

THE ISSUE.

CLEAR AND SIMPLE.

"NATIONALISE THE MINES."

MR. BOWLING'S FRANK STATEMENT.

OBJECT OF GENERAL STRIKE.

The clearest statement of the sole ultimate principle at issue in this struggle that has yet been made was given by Mr. Peter Bowling last night.

The difficulty in many people's minds has been this: The men had certain grievances in the north. They struck against the proprietors. On Monday every pit wheel in the Northern district stopped, and the proprietors' collieries ceased to produce a single ton of coal. The proprietors themselves were being injured as completely as they could be injured.

Since then it has been proposed—and is said to have become probable—that the wharf-labourers, coal-lumpers, and even the railwaymen should be called out. On the face of it this would not injure the colliery owners one whit more. Their wheels were stopped solidly already, and they could not be made more solid because the railwaymen struck. By this second move apparently only the public would be affected.

This point of view was put to Mr. Bowling last night. He answered it frankly and explicitly.

All the wheels in the Northern district were stopped, he was told.

Mr. Bowling: And in the Southern and in the Western.

Not in the Western district yet.

Mr. Bowling: No, but they will be. It is quite certain they will be.

Well, if that is so, what good will it do to bring all the other people out—the railways, for instance, and the trams and the wharf-labourers?

Mr. Bowling: I have said that I sometimes wonder if it should be necessary to take all extreme steps. But nothing will be done to hurt the public that can possibly be avoided. The congress will thoroughly consider whether it is necessary, and if they decide that it is necessary it will be done. You must see that we do not wish to injure the public more than we possibly can. We hope to be producing some coal for them; of course, we have to ask good prices for it. We cannot help that, for we need the money—but there should be coal enough for necessary services.

Yes, but how will it help you to force the proprietors to come to terms if the railways and the wharf-labourers and the rest come out? It seems only to affect the public—it cannot affect the proprietors any more than they are affected already. It is said it will bring things to a head. How can it?

Mr. Bowling: It is a fight for supremacy, and we must get all the power we can.

But what power does that give you?

Mr. Bowling: Well, you know the last time when the Government acted—they did not do that until there was a power behind them. There was a power behind them that forced them to act.

You mean the power of public opinion. But how can that force the mineowners to give in? Supposing the public are all very distressed, but the coal proprietors choose to put their feet on the mantelpiece, and take no notice of them, how can public opinion force the proprietors to take back the men on better terms? Supposing the proprietors just won't?

Mr. Bowling: You mean supposing they tell the public to go to the devil?

Yes. What can the public do?

Mr. Bowling: Take me up to that House in Macquarie-street, and I will tell you what they can do.

You mean nationalise the mines?

Mr. Bowling: I did not say so. But, take the Maitland field. The State allowed something to happen there that never ought to have happened. That field ought to have belonged to the people.

Then that is the principle in the fight? That the State ought to own those coalfields?

Mr. Bowling: Who is the State? Tell me that.

The people. The people in the street.

Mr. Bowling: The wage-earners, aren't they?

Yes, mostly.

Mr. Bowling: Well, remember when you talk about us in this strike, that we are fighting the battle for the wage-earners.

Mr. Bowling was entirely frank and courteous in answering every question. "Anything that you have heard me say you may publish," he said.

PUBLIC WILL COMPEL.

WHARF-LABOURERS' DELEGATE SPEAKS.

Exactly the same reason as that given by Mr. Bowling and Mr. Gray for a general strike—namely, to cause public opinion to force the coalowners to redress the men's grievances by some means or another—was given by the Newcastle wharf-labourers' delegate, who arrived with Mr. Bowling last night.

Asked why the western miners, who had no grievance, should be called out, he said if they went back it would be playing into the other side's hands. "If they were at work," said he, "what would happen to the price of coal? It would come down, wouldn't it?"

Then it's the public you are really fighting, not the coalowners?

The delegate said no. His explanation amounted to this: Their aim was to keep the price of coal up until the public should be driven to compel the coalowners to redress the miners' grievances wherever they existed. That was why the wharf-labourers were coming out, too. There was no doubt of their coming out, he said. "You can see for yourself they have been unanimous at every meeting."

LEADERS' COMMENTS.

DIVIDED OPINIONS.

WILL THE CONFERENCE BE ACCEPTED?

The opinions given by the various federation officials when the northern proprietors' answer was shown them last night differed very considerably as to whether the conference would be accepted on the terms that the men should go back to work while it was proceeding. Some appeared to think that there was a distinct possibility that the last chance of peace would not be thrown away.

STRIKE CERTAIN.

WHARF-LABOURERS' DELEGATE SPEAKS.

"No chance. The men won't go back to work on those terms. We've been had that way too often before."

Mr. F. Clarence, the Newcastle Wharf-labourers' delegate to the congress at the Trades Hall, had just been told of the southern coalowners' decision.

"Why," said he, "the conference with the employees would last a year if the miners were to go back to work while it was on. No, it'll be short and sweet. Can the miners hold out as long as the employers? That remains to be seen. I haven't much doubt which can hold out the longer. Why, there are all sorts of schemes for keeping the men going. There's the mine scheme. A lot of people are laughing at that. But it's a good scheme. There are plenty of coal owners outside the vend who would give the men a pit to work. The vend will own all Australia if things go on as they have been doing. If the northern miners had not come out there'd have been no federation by now. Half of them would be working, and keeping the other half, who would be out of work."

MR. BOWLING'S COMMENT.

"ONLY THE BEGINNING."

"Do you think this is the end?" Mr. Peter Bowling was asked when shown the northern proprietors' answer last night.

"No, it is only the beginning," he said. "They ask us to lay down our arms and then come to a conference. They would give us a conference if we go back to work first. I would give that if I were in their place."

"Will their answer be put before the congress of delegates to-morrow?"

"The answer of the northern miners is a matter for the northern miners to decide on, and not the congress," said Mr. Bowling.

"Will the answer be put before a meeting of northern miners?"

"I don't think it will be necessary. They ask us to go back to work, and then confer. Men can confer like that when they are at peace. But this is warfare. And men do not confer in war except on equal terms."

A WAY OF ESCAPE.

WILL THE MEN GO BACK?

In spite of the decided statements by Mr. Bowling and the Newcastle Wharf Labourers' delegate, Mr. Clarence, there does seem to be a possible way of escape from the threatened general strike.

Now that the northern coalowners have agreed to meet the men in conference if they go back to work, it is possible the suggestion may be made at to-day's congress at the Trades Hall that they should go back during the holding of such a conference, reserving a possible decision to come out again if its results should not be considered fair. Such a decision by to-morrow's congress would not amount, some of the strike leaders contend, to an admission that the northern men were wrong in striking. The men went out, it is contended, in order to show they were determined. A conference would be no good unless it was first made plain to the employers that the men were really resolved to fight if necessary. Having shown that, it is just possible, although not probable, that the congress may agree to have the men go back while the proposed conference is sitting.

NEWCASTLE DISAPPOINTED.

NO PROSPECT OF A SETTLEMENT.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

Although it was generally anticipated here that the proprietors would refuse to meet the men until they returned to work, the result of their decision, when it became known today, caused keen disappointment, for even in the face of the previously expressed views of many of the proprietors it was hoped up to the last minute that some way out of the difficulty might be found. Now that the worst is known, it is conceded by everyone that there is little chance of any amicable settlement being reached, and that the district is in for a bitter period of depression and trouble. This view is warranted by the demeanour of the greater number of the miners, who determinedly indicate their refusal to do a hand's turn at any of the collieries until their grievances are recognised and remedied. That they will carry out this determination unless something altogether unforeseen transpires is a foregone conclusion, and if the proprietors do not modify their attitude there is little prospect of work being resumed for weeks or even months, so that the disastrous strike of 1896 may be repeated.

Now that all hopes of a conference have disappeared interest is centred in the action which the Government may take. Should Mr. Wade decide to put into operation the penal clauses of the Industrial Disputes Act, as he suggested in the Legislative Assembly, there is every probability of the miners becoming greatly incensed, and there is no telling to what lengths they may go if once aroused. Numerically they are much stronger than the men at Broken Hill, and as they never had much respect for the Industrial Disputes Act passed by the present Government, it is probable that they will show keen resentment if an attempt is made to put it into operation. Up to the present they have shown a disposition to follow the wiser counsels of their leaders, and keep within the bounds of the law, but they have strong convictions as to the justice of their cause, and they may adopt stronger measures if they consider fair treatment is not meted out to them.

The position in Newcastle, however, is somewhat different from that which occurred in Broken Hill. At the latter place when the unionists went on strike an attempt was first made to introduce free labour. That is not likely to be done here. A leading mining manager who had the question put to him this evening, remarked, "There is no likelihood of the proprietors attempting that. There is not a man in the State who would be game to go to work in the mine in defiance of the union. The risk would be too great, and no matter what you offered, I am doubtful whether you could get enough men to work the smallest mine on the field. Then, again, it has to be considered that mining is skilled work, and even if you could find men willing to come, I don't think they could do the work."

It is already evident that the federation is prosecuting the strike with firmer measures, as it has been decided to place pickets at the various collieries to prevent even shift-men or enginedrivers going to work. Through this action it is likely that serious damage will be occasioned at almost every colliery on the field. At many of them, where the water difficulty causes considerable trouble even under ordinary circumstances, it is probable that the workings will be flooded. This will be especially serious in Newcastle, where the workings of some of the collieries extend under the sea, and even under ordinary circumstances a great deal of trouble is experienced in keeping the water down. As shift-men are also to be prevented from entering the mine ordinary repairs cannot be effected, and when the strike does end it will probably take weeks in some cases for the mines to be put into proper order before the men can go down.

On all sides the position is viewed with grave anxiety, and Newcastle is looking forward to a long period of depression.

TOWN HALL MEETING.

DISORDER AND LAUGHTER.

OPEN CONFERENCE ADVOCATED.

"KUDOS, CREDIT, AND THANKS."

What was advertised as "a meeting of the business and professional men of Sydney," to consider the coal strike in all its bearings, was held in the Town Hall vestibule yesterday morning. But it was apparent at the outset that the business community did not take the meeting seriously. Only a score or two of business men attended, while the gathering was composed chiefly of labour sympathisers and Trades Hall representatives. The suggested resolutions were, as one speaker expressed it, "tinged with bias," and were drawn up with a view to "cordially endorsing the action of Federated Labour." The meeting was disorderly, and out of the control of the chairman. At times there were half a dozen people speaking at once, and the chairman's cries for order were ignored. The original resolutions were rejected, and the meeting unanimously decided to request masters and men to meet in open conference at the earliest possible opportunity.

When 11 o'clock chimed there were barely 100 people in the vestibule, but a stream of late-comers brought the total to about 200 before the meeting closed. Mr. L. A. Pogonowski, one of the conveners of the meeting, explained the objects. The public, he said, had held aloof from the dispute between the mine-owners and miners. But Mr. C. J. Haynes had suggested the calling of this meeting for no other purpose than to secure an amicable settlement of the strike. They took a neutral stand. The public had been neglected, and their rights ignored. Every strike was a wound on the body of the people.

Mr. C. J. Haynes confessed himself a new-chum, but the spirit moved him, and he decided to call the meeting. He had been in two strikes, the Port Adelaide and the Broken Hill strikes. The public were now in the position of being ground between the upper and lower millstones.

Voices: What about electing a chairman?

Mr. Haynes: I crave your indulgence for a moment. It was no use trusting to the Government. (Question.) For some reason Labour was up against them. (Interruption.)

After some minutes the meeting proceeded to elect a chairman. Mr. L. A. Pogonowski was proposed and seconded.

A citizen: Didn't you invite the Lord Mayor?

Mr. Haynes: No.

A citizen: It would have been the right thing.

Another citizen: Have you tried to see if he would act?

Mr. Haynes: If he would I will extend the glad hand.

A voice: I nominate the Lord Mayor as chairman.

Mr. Pogonowski: This is no hole and corner meeting. I have no ambition to be chairman. I only want to end the strike.

Various suggestions were made, and it was at last decided to ask the Lord Mayor to preside. Mr. Pogonowski left the hall in search of Alderman Allen Taylor, and the meeting was left to its own devices. In a few minutes Mr. Pogonowski returned and stated that the Lord Mayor was out.

A voice: I propose Mr. M'Millan be chairman.

Voices: Who is Mr. M'Millan? (Laughter.)

Mr. M'Millan: I am a trades unionist. (Cheers and laughter.)

After some argument Mr. Pogonowski was voted to the chair by a large majority. He exclaimed: "If the Lord Mayor comes I will resign in his favour. (Applause.) I have no desire to thrust myself on public notice. Now, there is not much time, so get the business through." (Hear, hear.)

The resolutions were read, and Mr. G. Birney rose and addressed the meeting. He was subjected to a running fire of interjections, and his remarks were quite inaudible. After repeated calls for order Mr. Birney mounted the platform.

A voice: Hullo, Tolstoi. (Laughter.)

Mr. Birney: My name is Birney. (Cheers and laughter.) Continuing: "It is time the citizens of Sydney put out the fires that—— (Amen, and laughter.) The masses of the people should not be sweated—(ironical cheers)—because these men have possession of the mines. (Disorder.) We are all human beings. (Question and laughter.) No one should stand in the gangway of the progress of the country." (Interruption.)

Several interjectors were ordered to sit down by the speaker, who was unable to obtain a hearing. After considerable interruption,

The Chairman: We want to see if this meeting is in sympathy with the motions read out.

A voice: Will you have them in globo or seriatim?

The Chairman: We'll take them in globo, because they are all inter-related. (Question.)

Voices: They are contradictory. (Disorder.)

Mr. F. Reynolds moved:—

"That the citizens of Sydney and suburbs, in public meeting assembled, cordially endorse the action of Federated Labour in the reasonable request that they have tendered to the Federated Colliery Proprietors to meet them in open conference; said conference courting as it should (and does) every publicity."

I'm sure you'll all endorse that. (Cheers and cries of "No.") The mine-owners say they have no grievances. The miners have. (Hear, hear.) They had to go out in open rebellion. (Interruption.)

Mr. Birney: I second that motion. (Cries of "Sit down, whiskers." Disorder.)

Mr. A. C. Ward: This should be a meeting of citizens assembled to give an expression of opinion in a great crisis. (Hear, hear.) The resolutions on this paper are tinged with bias from start to finish. (Cheers and disorder, and cries of "So they are.") I have a further amendment, which is,—"That the citizens of Sydney and suburbs, in public meeting assembled, earnestly beseech both masters and men to meet in open conference at the earliest possible opportunity." (Cheers.)

The original motion was withdrawn. Then the first amendment, including the words, "when the men return to work," was submitted and negatived by about 100 votes to 50.

Mr. Ward's amendment was then put and carried almost unanimously.

The citizens then made haste to leave. While the hall was emptying, Mr. C. J. Haynes moved, amid laughter—

"That this meeting stands adjourned for one week, same time and place, with the view of then reassembling, in order to give kudos, credit, and hearty thanks to whom kudos, credit, and hearty thanks shall then be due."

This was declared carried, and the meeting closed.

AMONG THE LEADERS.

INFORMAL OPEN CONFERENCE.

THE MEN'S POINT OF VIEW.

A little informal conference took place last night around a table, and about the strike. The company consisted of three strike leaders, Messrs. Paterson, Gray, and Bowling; Mr. P. Marshall (secretary of the Coachmakers' Union, and an ex-president of the Labour Council); and the note-taker. The attempt to get information brought little result. But there was some. The northern coal-owners' letter was the main topic, while, as branches, the question of the strikers' arrest, to-day's congress, the Industrial Disputes Act, and the meaning of an "open conference."

THE QUESTION OF ARREST.

"The reply didn't surprise me," said Mr. Paterson. "I think it means there'll be no conference. They talk about a conference being abortive. Why should it be? They talk about obeying the laws of the State ——"

Mr. Bowling: "I'm very pleased to hear they have been observing the laws. But I doubt their word about that. I'm very much afraid if anyone's to be put in gaol for a breach of the law it'll be some of them will go first."

AN OPEN CONFERENCE.

It was made perfectly clear that the men want the conference they offer to be open in the sense of open to the press, not merely that it should be held "without prejudice."

"It is our object to court publicity," said Mr. Gray. "When we ask for an open conference it shows we have nothing to fear. It'll do no harm to impress the public with this fact, that we want all and sundry admitted."

Mr. Bowling: I will never consent to meet the employers in conference unless it is open, unless the press is admitted. Our troubles would never have reached the stage they have if the proprietors had consented to open conferences before. Every time we have held a conference with them we have wanted the press to be admitted, and every time they have refused. I really think where the press is not admitted the public suffers.

MINEOWNERS AND INDUSTRIAL ACT.

"The employers have Judge Edmunds in the Industrial Court," he added, "and they can depend on him every time. Heydon is fair, but I have no time for Edmunds. I can't see their preference for the Industrial Court over a conference. John Brown (the Newcastle coalowner) said the other day, if we couldn't settle the matter ourselves, no one could ever settle it. I agree with him, and that's why I want an open conference. About three months ago I asked the employers whether they would prefer a wages board or a Royal Commission, and they said a Royal Commission. They said they preferred voluntary conciliation even to a wages board."

"How is it," said Mr. Marshall, "that all the colliery owners came into the Industrial Court, and said on oath they believed the Industrial Court wasn't a good method for the settlement of industrial disputes? Peter asked every one of them, and they all said they did not approve of the Industrial Disputes Act; they believed in conciliation. Why, if they believe in conciliation, won't they agree to an open conference?"

Mr. Paterson: "Yes, when did the reconciliation take place?"

WILL THE MEN GO BACK?

Mr. Bowling was asked whether he thought it possible the men might consent to go back to work pending the conference's decision.

"When one man has another by the throat," said he, "on the broad of his back, and the man underneath says to the man on top, 'You let me up, and we'll discuss the situation,' what do you think the first man is likely to say?"

TO-DAY'S CONGRESS.

This subject dropped. To-day's congress cropped up.

"We have to meet to discuss the situation," said Mr. Gray, "and we'll give it our best consideration, naturally. But we can't say what will be done. We have to consider the whole position, and the dictum of no particular body of men will influence us in the least. The question will be, What's best for the general public and for us?"

"We'll give the employers' replies fair consideration," said Mr. Bowling. "But how can I tell you what the congress will do? I don't know, and I'd have no business to tell you if I did. You'll get all the information you want to-morrow. I don't know whether the Storemen's Union will be represented besides those represented last time. I don't know whether they can assist us. But I should think any union which thinks it can help us and sends along delegates will be admitted.

THE WATERSIDE WORKERS.

"I don't know whether the Waterside Workers will all come out," said he. "But you can say I believe they will keep faith with the principle we all believe in. I believe there is to-day a stronger spirit of unification amongst the unions than ever. They're all ready to come out. There's not one of us that is not ready—if the circumstances warrant it.

"Now I'm going to bed," Mr. Bowling ended. "Not to a theatre—don't forget that," and the informal conference ended.

THE FINANCIAL SCHEME.

MR. BOWLING INTERVIEWED.

CONFIRMS THE ARRANGEMENT.

TO GO BEFORE GENERAL CONFERENCE.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

As stated in yesterday's "Herald," Mr. Jas. Cant, manager of the Young Wallsend and Ebbw Main colliery companies, admitted that he had been approached in regard to working those collieries in conjunction with the Miners' Federation. In view of Mr. Cant's statement, Mr. Bowling was interviewed today, and asked if he could throw any light on the arrangement which is said to exist.

Mr. Bowling remarked, "Yes, I have approached the firm indicated in connection with the matter, and, so far as negotiations have gone, they have not shown that they are averse to it. I sincerely hope the plan will come off."

Will a start be made in the near future?—I cannot answer that just yet; matters have not yet been finally fixed up.

Will this scheme be managed by the northern federation or by the federal executive in Sydney?—All matters affecting the interests of the unions generally have to be referred to the central committee for discussion and approval.

Will the scheme be worked in conjunction with one which Mr. Hughes is said to have in view?—I cannot say that.

You say that Mr. Hughes has a scheme?—I cannot say that I have full knowledge of such a scheme. He may have outlined something. In fact, Mr. Hughes would not be the leader of men I think he is if he did not have some scheme of that nature.

What is your object in working this scheme?—Well, you have already mentioned that several times in your paper. Why should we wish to inflict unnecessary hardship on the women and children and the public generally?

It has been mentioned that the vend is working against the firm with whom you have made the arrangement?—My dear sir, the vend will throttle everything that is not working in its own interests. You will notice that they are very quiet in this morning's paper since I threatened to let daylight into their negotiations of a few weeks ago, when the emissary from England was out here. We have those things in America, and we all know what they have done there.

Do you know whether an understanding was arrived at?—We took good care to see that it was smashed up into a thousand pieces. It was a most iniquitous thing for them to try to make capital at the expense of the public.

THE OCTOPUS GRIP.

ATTEMPTED DEAL BY PROPRIETORS.

CONTEMPTIBLE ACTION ALLEGED.

WHAT MR. BOWLING SAYS.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

Speaking at a large meeting of Hetton miners to-day, Mr. Bowling again made reference to the recent efforts on the part of certain proprietors to make an agreement with an emissary from England. He said some of the proprietors had imputed motives that would be disgrace to a Chinaman. They had said that he had gone out of his way to bring about the strike in order to secure his position as president. But, if he had been guilty of the contemptible action they had been guilty of, he would hide his face and never show it in public again. Had the men not gone out on strike when they did, there was a conspiracy formed by certain of these people, and an emissary from England, which would have practically placed the federation under the heel of the proprietors, which would have ruined a great many of the colliery proprietors in this district, and have placed the whole power of the trade of this district in the hands of a few men to do with as they liked. He knew they had been endeavouring to work "a deal," which would have brought the clique in something like £100,000 of profit in the first go off. Then they could have arranged matters so that they could come down on the men when they liked, and crush the other colliery proprietors in their octopus-like grasp. But they were beaten, and he was glad of it.

He would like to remind them that the miners were fighting the battle of liberty to-day, in order to keep back from the sunny shores of Australia that octopus which had its grip on America. While he was in the federation it would not be allowed to obtain a hold upon this portion of the country. He had obtained his information in a way the proprietors were not aware of, but what he did know he had used in the interests of the men and the general public. The proprietors were surprised at that; because some men seemed to think of self-interest first. But there was not a man in that hall who was not richer than he. He had not a penny in the bank, he owned nothing, and he had even lost the house which he had when he joined the federation.

A miner: I have had it thrown up to me that my president owns racehorses.

Mr. Bowling: Such statements are cowardly, and when you hear them made you should demand proof of them. He wished he could find the man who could prove to him that he had a bank balance. It would be very handy to him, because the man going round fighting the battle of labour must spend money whether he liked to or not. Men in that room, with only eight days' work a fortnight, were taking home more money to their wives and families than he was with 12 days a fortnight.

WHAT MR. BOWLING MEANS.

CONTROL OF THE COAL TRADE.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

It is believed that the exposure threatened by Mr. Bowling refers to the recent visit to Newcastle of a prominent shipowner from England, whose stay here over a period of several weeks gave rise to several rumours that a combine was being formed to control the output of the whole of the Newcastle and Maitland coalfields. The gentleman in question had many conferences with the colliery proprietors of the district, and also attended meetings of the association. Exactly what took place at these meetings is not known, except apparently to Mr. Bowling, who states that he had some secret source from which he got his information. The fact remains, however, that all parties concerned maintained a deep silence as to the discussions and the business that took place. However, from the little information that did become known it was generally believed that negotiations were proceeding between the shipowner in question and the colliery proprietors, the object in view being to control under one head the management of the whole of the collieries on the northern field. If this control were secured, it is believed that the coal was to be shipped solely in the vessels by the shipowner in question, who would have a monopoly in this direction.

At the time, the news of the proposal caused considerable stir amongst the officials of the Miners' Federation, who saw in it an attempt to grind the miners down by having the mines and the output all under one control.

THE SEAMEN.

SECRETARY NON-COMMITTAL.

Mr. Arthur Cooper, the general secretary of the New South Wales branch of the Federated Seamen's Union of Australasia, said last night:—"A rumour is current, and has appeared in the press, that proposals were submitted by the Seamen's Union to the New South Wales Coastal Steamship Owners' Association which practically decided that the steamer service on the coast will not be stopped. This rumour has no foundation in fact, nor could anything of the kind be decided unless with the sanction of the executive council. No such proposals have reached me to submit to the council. Further, no proposals of any kind have emanated from this union to the Steamship Owners' Association."

EFFECTS OF THE STRIKE.

UNEVEN EXPORTS.

PRODUCE MERCHANTS ANXIOUS.

DISASTROUS RESULTS FEARED.

LONDON, Nov. 12.

A conference of leading butter and rabbit importers and agents expressed anxiety as to the result of the strike in New South Wales, and the possibility of lessened supplies, followed by the marketing of accumulated stocks.

Though most of the c.i.f. contracts contain a strike clause, the results of delaying shipments will be disastrous.

PRICE OF PRODUCE.

COAL, CHAFF, AND POTATOES.

DOUBLE NORMAL VALUE.

In the produce trade excitement was intense yesterday morning. Incoming supplies are so uncertain that the merchant does not know whether to hold the stocks on hand or sell them at the advanced prices which the retailers are offering. The supplies of Melbourne and Adelaide chaff are now practically exhausted. This caused an unusual rush to the Redfern auction sales for supplies. There the excited bidders rushed the price of local wheaten cuts up to £6 per ton, and oaten to £5 12s 6d. The prices are now just about double those ruling before the strike. A large shipment of Clarence River potatoes was placed on the market, consisting of 3700 bags, and instead of this having the usual effect of lowering values they ruled at last week's price of £10 per ton. The tubers at auction still met unusual competition, and there retailers paid up to £10 10s for the best, which at ordinary times are worth no more than £5. The shipments of Hunter River lucerne are heavy, and instead of rates easing they were increased 5s per ton, on account of the uncertainty of further shipments. Oats were advanced another 1d per bushel, making a rise of 3d per bushel since last week. Holders of Northern river maize will not sell their stocks. Some are asking as high as 4s 6d per bushel, which means a rise of 4d per bushel since the strike. Others hesitate to sell at 4s 4d, which is a rise of 1d since Thursday. There is a rumour that the cold stores will have to close down on account of a shortage of coal. Quite a panic ensued in the egg market through this news.

There was another rush of firewood to market. Sixty-four truckloads arrived. Senders seemed to be forwarding any available wood they had on hand, as the quality which was offered was of a very inferior kind. This, together with the heavy supply, again eased values a little. Best boxwood realised up to 16s 9d. Coal merchants were supplying only their regular customers, and even with these they had to restrict their orders at 50s for household coal delivered.

ADVANCED PRICE OF COAL.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Members of the Australian Steamship Owners' Federation to-night decided that the advance of £1 per ton as charged now to contract customers for several days past will rule to-morrow in respect to all customers, whether contract or only casual purchasers. This means that the price of screened coal will be 45s 6d per ton to-morrow. There was not much demand for coal at the increased rates to-day, except by firms who find it necessary to carry on operations at all hazards. On Monday, however, it is anticipated that inquiries will be more numerous and persistent.

WOOL FREIGHTS ADVANCED.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The oversea shipping companies have decided to increase the freight on wool by ⅛d per lb. The new charge will come into operation on Monday.

THE MEAT SUPPLY.

A MONTH'S COAL.

Dr. Ashburton Thompson, the president of the Board of Health, stated yesterday afternoon that the abattoirs had coal on hand sufficient for three weeks or a month. Without coal there would be no means of manufacturing manure from the offal and blood. If there are no fires there will be no hot water with which to dress the meat.

PRICE OF CANDLES RAISED.

Owing to the fact that their supply of coal has run out, Messrs. Upton and Co., soap and candle manufacturers, of North Botany, have had to put off more than half their employees, and they are afraid that the remainder will have to be discharged next week. The firm announces that the prices of all their candles will be advanced ½d per packet from to-day.

FLOUR MILLS CLOSED.

TWO HUNDRED MEN IDLE.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

The Port Adelaide millowners have found it necessary to discontinue operations. Messrs. W. Thomas and Co. and W. C. Harrison and Co. closed their mills to-day, and all other Port Adelaide mills, except Dunn and Co.'s, which has not been working all the week, will close operations to-morrow. About 200 men will be temporarily thrown out of employment.

THE ADVANCED RATES.

MELBOURNE COMPANY FOLLOWS OTHERS.

Mr. Alwyn M. Reid, the local manager of the Melbourne Steamship Company, Limited, reports that, in common with the other companies trading interstate, it has been decided to increase the rates owing to the heavy additional expense incurred through the high cost of coals.

The five companies embraced in the New South Wales Interstate Steamship Owners' Association intimated on the previous day that passenger rates had been advanced by 10 per cent. all round, and that the rates of freight had been increased from 2s 6d to 7s per ton.

FARES AND FREIGHTS INCREASED.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Fares between Melbourne and Tasmania have been increased by 10 per cent., and freight by 25 per cent.

LAUNDRIES AFFECTED.

"PASS IT ON."

The rapid rise in coal is a serious item to steam laundries, and if the price does not ease down the laundries, according to a manager of one of the largest steam washing concerns, "will simply have to pass it on, that's all." The contract price to one firm is 11s 6d a ton, and at the present price the customer would naturally be asked to share the burden, except in the cases of contracts. One laundry consumes, on an average, 40 tons a month. With a week's supply on hand, the serious alternative of ceasing to take orders, and closing up is exercising the minds of the proprietary. The continuance of the strike would also mean the dismissal of 120 hands. Shipping companies, the railway department, cafes, etc., are the principal patrons of the steam washing institutions, and the contracts for some of these run to 80,000 "pieces" monthly.

WOOL AND WHEAT.

CARRIAGE AND STORAGE.

If the trolly, draymen, and the storemen should cease work much difficulty will be experienced in handling the wool and wheat carried on the railways. The Minister for Railways (Mr. Waddell), in the absence of the Chief Commissioner and Mr. Harper, yesterday discussed with Mr. Day, goods manager, the possibilities that might occur upon the delivery in Sydney next week of the season's produce. Mr. Waddell says he hopes to be able to make an important announcement on this subject on Tuesday.

INTERSTATE STEAMERS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The first passenger steamer to be laid up is the Kapunda, of the Melbourne Steamship Company, which arrived from Fremantle today. She will be laid up in Melbourne immediately, and her cargo for Sydney and Newcastle will be transferred to the Wollowra and delivered by that vessel. The Wollowra (Adelaide Steamship Company line), which arrived from Fremantle to-day, will leave for Sydney to-morrow, and on arrival there will be laid up indefinitely. The Barrabool (Howard Smith line), which it was hoped would make another trip to the southern coalfields of New South Wales, is also laid up in Melbourne, no inducement having been offered her to continue running.

HOSPITALS THREATENED.

Hospitals are almost as dependent on coal as upon medicine, and in some cases if two or three weeks elapse without a renewal of supplies the hospitals will have to close.

Mr. Epps, secretary of Prince Alfred Hospital, said yesterday that the day before he did not know where to get coal, but a donation of 20 tons had been made by Messrs. G. and C. Hoskins, and that would last a little over a week. Coal was absolutely necessary for sterilising instruments, cooking, and other operations, and if a shortage occurred operations would have to be suspended. In that case the 360 patients in the hospital would be in a serious position.

In the case of the Children's Hospital the secretary (Mr. Clarence R. Moss) said if the coal supply ran out the children would simply have to be sent back to their mothers. Without coal there would be no water for sterilising purposes or washing the babies, consequently the hospital would have to be closed. There were 120 children, and the hospital had coal enough for three weeks or a month.

Mr. A. G. Golledge, acting secretary of Sydney Hospital, said it was hard to define the hospital's position in respect to coal supplies at present. An order of 60 tons had been lodged, and 15 tons had been delivered, but he was afraid the contractors might have a difficulty in supplying the balance. There was at present only about a week's supply, and 325 patients were in the hospital.

Inquiries in other quarters elicited the information that there are 280 patients at the Coast Hospital, and the coal supply will hold out about 10 days. The Women's Hospital has about 50 patients and a week's coal. St. Vincent's has a month's supply, Balmain only one week's, North Shore six or seven weeks', Western Suburbs about the same, and Marrickville a month.

MINERS' COMMISSARIAT.

COMMITTEES FOR RELIEF.

"IF YOU ARE HUNGRY TAKE FOOD."

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

During the course of a speech made at a largely-attended miners' lodge meeting to-day Mr. Peter Bowling, president of the federation, referred to the plans that had been adopted by the federation to relieve distress amongst members and their families. He said he would not urge them to fight if he thought the women and children would have to go hungry. He did not think their fight was worth winning if children had to starve, and so they intended to appoint a dozen men from each lodge, who would take it in turns to be present for 12 hours each day, so that any case of distress might be brought under their notice and investigated and assistance given. Besides that there would be men appointed to go out to people who could afford to give something towards the assistance of the women and children, in order that the latter should not go hungry. He referred to the Broken Hill system, by which food and clothing had been collected from different sources, and then apportioned out to the families of the workers. But there were other means of providing food for women and children. If they allowed any woman or child to starve they were not men. This might be a long struggle, or it might not. He did not say he could win in 24 hours. But seeing the position of the unions of Australia, an early victory did not rest with the other side, and they would know it very soon.

He believed the Hetton men would carry these proposals, and that they would not allow the women and children to starve. Let him repeat the words of a prominent man in England when the dockers were out on strike. He had said: "If you are hungry take the food." They did not send that man to gaol. He was a cardinal in the Roman Catholic Church. The cardinal had not told them to organise and get it, but had told them to take it. He (Mr. Bowling) had told them on the last occasion to organise and get it for their women and children, and he did so again. There were plenty of ways of doing that without breaking the law. But he said with Cardinal Manning that a law which stood in the way of people getting food when they were fighting for their rights was an unjust law, and it was also an unjust state of things which allowed men to reap a rich harvest at someone else's expense.

MINERS' LODGE MEETING.

PICKETING AND MORAL SUASION.

SPEECH BY MR. BOWLING.

THE "CZAR" OF THE FEDERATION.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

A meeting of the Hetton miners' lodge was held at the lodge-room, Wickham, this morning. Mr. W. Sheridan, chairman of the lodge, presided, and there was a very large attendance of the men. The chairman in opening the meeting urged the men to stick together and act unitedly, and they would certainly win. But even if they were to go down they ought to go down fighting like one man.

Mr. T. Frith, lodge delegate, said that before he began his remarks he would like to know who was listening, as it was so easy for some people to carry tales which might bring a man into conflict with the law. Already they were told they had done things which were in opposition to the tyrannical laws of the country, but they were not afraid to let the public know what their cause was, although it might not be advisable at times to speak too hastily. He referred to the rules drafted by the advisory committee for the organisation of the men. He said one of the rules would govern the actions of the men, so that they would be able to know where all their members were, and not have them drifting about to any part of the country. His advice to their members was to stop at home and fight the battle in earnest. There was another rule, which would deal with the appointment of pickets. The duty of the pickets would be to see that the engine-drivers and other people about the collieries were made to stop with the miners. It did not matter if it took a longer time to get the pits into working order again when the trouble was over. So far as the collieries were concerned they would not allow anyone outside the district to dictate to them. The federation must be supreme in the district. At the same time no violence would be used towards anybody. They were going by means of solid argument to get these men out and to prevent others from going in. The duty of the pickets would be to stand by and see that these men did not forget and wander back again. He referred to the small pits around the district, and said they intended to use moral suasion to stop any that might still be working. If they were not successful then they would endeavour by moral suasion to get the carters to refuse to handle the coal. In regard to the scheme for relieving any cases of distress, a certain amount of strike pay would be distributed each week, but that might not be sufficient in some cases, and so a department would be established to assist large families. The regulations were unanimously adopted by the lodge.

Mr. Bowling, president of the federation, said he would like to emphasise what the delegates had said, and show them the urgent necessity for maintaining discipline in the federation. By that means they would be able to preserve law and order, and act for the protection of their own interests. At the same time, they would give the Government no excuse whatever for sending up any additional police or hirelings they might engage for the time being to Newcastle. He took it that there were plenty of men amongst them who would be able to give effect to such a scheme, and so safeguard their interests, and keep the spirit of unionism at its zenith. In former times the rule had been when men ceased work in this district to go elsewhere and try to get work. That was a foolish idea, and an exploded one. They should not vote for a thing unless they intended to stand by their comrades. There was not much chance of men getting work in the collieries in this State; but they might go to Victoria or elsewhere, and help swell the ranks of those who were producing coal to defeat the federation. The federation would have their names, and if they did that they would not be forgotten, for they would not be fit to be classed as unionists. Every man must do his share in helping to win the fight, and then he would have less time for criticising the actions of those who were fighting for him. The regulation about picketting was one for the purpose of letting strangers know what was taking place here. It was only moral suasion he was asking them to use, and he thought that was all that was needed when they were organised, and to put the matter clearly before the public. Very few men would come here to do work they should not do.

Speaking again of the interviews which had appeared in the press, Mr. Bowling said he was not the Czar of the federation. The delegate board had taken complete charge of the situation, and they, in conjunction with the executive officers, were responsible for the position as it existed to-day. He was only one man amongst the rest, and all were taking their share of the responsibility. As to the threats held out in some quarters, he knew he was subject to the law when he took the course he had done; but those threats had no perils for him. He had violated the law, and he hoped while he lived that he would be ready to violate the law; and he hoped while he lived that he would be ready to violate any law that stood in the road of progress for the class to which he belonged.

He had never neglected his duties to the detriment of the men. He would urge them to forget their little differences; to forget that their officers were not perfect; to forget everything but the fight they were engaged in. Let it be said when the fight was over, whether it was long or short, that the true spirit of unionism had prevailed. He referred to the petty jealousies which sometimes stood in the way of the progress of the federation, and caused the proprietors to take advantage of them. There were also persons who wrote to the press, airing all those grievances, instead of bringing them to the proper quarter, their lodge. What would be thought of any member of a co-operative society or a friendly society acting in such a way? He would be kicked out, and there was the greater reason for members of the federation to be loyal, seeing that they had to fight against fearful odds.

Mr. Bowling also referred to the fact that the waterside workers were with them in a body. They could, if they wished, stop the whole of the industries of the Commonwealth, but he did not wish to do that. Broken Hill had come to their help like heroes, and the action of the men showed that in sending him over good fruit had been borne, and the brotherhood of the men of the Barrier and the men of Newcastle had been made stronger than ever. The struggle in Broken Hill had shown the spirit which was coming over the unionists of Australia, and already they had telegrams and offers of assistance from all parts of the country and New Zealand. The name of the Newcastle miners was also a household word in many places beyond the seas. When an appeal was made to Germany, England, America, and France that appeal would be responded to, and they would get money to help them much quicker than the proprietors would get coal.

Mr. A. Biggers, of Aberdare Lodge, addressed the meeting, and referred to some of the grievances existing in the district. He also spoke of the scheme which had been drafted by the Aberdare Lodge for relieving any case of necessity.

Mr. T. Frith referred to the remarks made by Mr. Learmonth and other proprietors, and said the delegates were not likely to forget how they had been treated by the proprietors. After the latter had asked for the conference in July last they had, metaphorically speaking, taken the delegates in their arms and kissed them, and told them what good children they were. But when they found that the strike in England was over, they threw the poor infant in the gutter to starve.

MR. HUGHES' VIEW.

DOESN'T WANT LEADERSHIP.

SUMS UP THE CASE.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Mr. W. M. Hughes, president of the Waterside Workers' Union, made the following statement to-day with reference to the coal strike:—"The secretary of the Waterside Workers' Union and myself are leaving for Sydney to-night for the purpose of attending the conference of the unions to-morrow at the Trades Hall. The position at the present time seems to be as critical as ever, and amply justifies my forecast of the strike. Although it has only lasted now five days, I see that a very large number of men have already been thrown out of work, and the train service of Victoria is to be reduced. One factory has already closed down; in others the staff has been reduced by half; ships are rapidly lying up; and none but passenger ships will shortly even attempt to run a reduced service. Clearly unless there is some settlement in a week's time the pinch will be felt in the ferry service, trams, and every walk of industrial and social life. Again I wish now to impress upon those in authority the importance of bringing the parties together, and for my part shall resolutely decline to accept from either side any excuse for not meeting each other. I see that Mr. Bowling has very kindly handed over the conduct of this trouble to me. It is a matter with which I have nothing directly to do. My opinion was not asked till the trouble had been precipitated. I had no voice in it; I was not consulted in any way. Now that the matter has reached its present stage, Mr. Bowling calmly proposes to wash his hands of any responsibility, and hands it over to me. I must decline to accept it. In my own sphere in connection with the transport workers I have never been afraid to accept full responsibility; but there I have had a voice from the beginning. Here I have not. I have no doubt that Mr. Bowling and the miners clearly understand my position. It is this: That, while I shall resolutely set my face against any attempt to impose unjust and intolerable conditions, I have never been a party to throwing the industrial world of the Commonwealth into hopeless confusion; but one has to face the facts. I have said already, and I repeat it, that in my opinion the grievances of the miners are very substantial; that they go in many cases to the very roots of the relations between employers and employees; that they have continued for a long time; and the employers have on one pretext or another declined to adjust them. I am sure the public will agree with me that it is an intolerable state of affairs that a handful of men in the Newcastle district calling themselves the proprietors of the mines, should be able to throw the industrial world into hopeless confusion. One fact emerges clearly, and that is that these mines ought to be owned by the State for the benefit of the people of the State, and not for a handful of individuals."

THE BARRIER MINES.

COAL CONTRACTS SUSPENDED.

PORT PIRIE SMELTERS MAY SHUT DOWN.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The coastal shipping companies have notified the Barrier mining companies and others interested in the Barrier trade that all contracts with them are suspended. This means that the contracts for the shipment of lead concentrates and zinc concentrates may be stopped at any moment. Consequently either the works will have to be closed down or the material stacked—to stack the produce means a loss of interest.

Should the waterside workers come out matters will be brought to a head at once, and there can be little doubt that the Port Pirie works of the B.H. Proprietary Company will have to shut down, as that company treats ore for the Sulphide Corporation, the Junction North, South Blocks, Block 10, and Zinc Corporation companies.

The far-reaching effect of such a labour disturbance can be realised. There are some 8000 to 10,000 workers engaged on the mines, and should the smelters be stopped the result may be that a very large industrial population will be affected.

Mr. J. M. Joshua, ex-president of the Chamber of Manufactures, when asked to-night whether the increased freight charged by the shipping companies had so far had any effect on interstate trade, said, "The trade has not been affected very much yet. Those who are 'hollering' now are crying before they are hurt. Next week will see the trouble."

MINERS CONFIDENT.

BROKEN HILL, Friday.

The Combined Unions' committee have asked the Northern Collieries Federation to send a delegate to Broken Hill to make known the facts connected with the strike. The committee has also decided to wire to the New South Wales Parliamentary Labour party urging members to do all in their power for their Newcastle comrades.

Mr. Brennan, secretary of the federation, has telegraphed to the Combined Unions:—"Cannot find words to express our admiration of your magnificent donation. We are out to win, and feel confident."

IN THE WEST.

STRIKE APPROVED.

ZIG-ZAG PIT IDLE.

LITHGOW, Friday.

A delegate meeting was held last night with closed doors. There was a full attendance, and the sitting lasted from shortly after 7 o'clock until after midnight. The general secretary, Mr. Truscott, declined to give any information as to the decision of the meeting. An aggregate meeting is to be held to-night, when the recommendation of the delegate board will be considered. Various disquieting rumours are abroad, and many fear a stoppage within the next 24 hours.

The miners of the Zig-zag pit made the first break in the peaceful continuity of operations by declining to work this morning. A meeting was held, and the men resolved not to commence work. Mr. Griffiths, secretary of the Zig-zag miners, and checkweighman at the mine, stated that he did not know anything about the matter until he saw some of the men going home. He was told the men had decided to come out in sympathy with men on strike in other districts.

Mr. Burns, a northern delegate, who has been here since Wednesday afternoon, said this morning: "I am here to lay the position before the men from the northern miners' standpoint, and ask them to make common cause with miners of the north. I am doing this with the endorsement of the Combined Unions' Conference."

A report from Piper's Flat received to-day is to the effect that the men at Ivanhoe were interviewed by Messrs. Burns and Truscott yesterday afternoon, when leaving the mine, and subsequently it was decided to take a ballot on the question of striking. The men evidently are not anxious to come out.

SUPPORT FROM ADELAIDE.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

The Trades and Labour Council to-night resolved to send the following telegram to the Miners' Federation:—"Stand firm for just principles of unionism. Reply if financial assistance is necessary."

THE MINERS' GRIEVANCES.

HELENSBURGH, Friday.

Mr. F. Dunleavy, miners' district president, has supplied the following list of grievances, and states that they are the main issues selected to place before the conference for ratification:—

1. Eight hours from bank to bank.
2. Definition of and payment for deficiency places.
3. Conditions governing the ascertainment of the selling price of coal.
4. Minimum hewing rate.
5. Payment for slabs, bars, planks, and baulks.
6. Supply to miners of an equal turn of skips.

KEIRA MINERS DOWN TOOLS

BUSINESS PEOPLE ANXIOUS.

PAY DAY AT COLLIERIES.

(BY OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

WOLLONGONG, Friday.

The only sign of any life to-day was the puffing from the stack at Mount Keira colliery, the only mine that continued to work. The men ceased operations this evening, in accordance with a resolution passed at a meeting of the miners' lodge on Wednesday last. On Monday the stoppage will be complete at the whole of the collieries.

The present strike is the most serious experienced on the coast since 1890, when the whole of the miners came out in sympathy with the maritime strike. At that time the idleness extended over a period of five months. The miners then were able to live very well, as the storekeepers at that time stuck loyally to them throughout the whole of the trying time; but the miners individually were much better off financially then than they are now, as most rented small farms and combined mining with farming.

It is not so now, as all the farms in the vicinity of the coal mines have been subdivided and sold as building lots. It was nothing twenty years ago for a miner to own a herd of 20 or 30 cattle, and being in that happy position enabled him to hold out for months. At the present time few of them own anything above a goat.

A great season of depression on the South Coast followed this trouble, and miners as well as other members of the community suffered keenly. The bitter lesson of that period has not been forgotten by the old hands employed in the collieries of the south, and it is stated that that is the reason in a great measure why the Keira miners are so loth to follow the other collieries in the present trouble.

A small mine is being worked at Balgownie by Colonel Owen, the output of which is used for supplying household coal. The proprietor has five miners employed, and is adverse to shutting the mine down. He is also interested in the Tongarra mine, near Albion Park, and it is understood that if there is to be any interference in the working conditions at Balgownie steps will be taken to open up at Tongarra, where it is said labour is available to place the coal at the Albion Park railway station for shipment by rail to Sydney.

Mr. T. Cater, manager of the North Bulli colliery, one of the leading mines on the South Coast, where a valuable plant has only recently been installed to conserve byproducts from the coke works, states that the strike on the part of the men at his colliery is most inexplicable. Many of the men admit that they are doing well, although, like other collieries, they have some differences of opinion as to the rate of payment for hewing coal. "But," said Mr. Cater, "a colliery must be run on commercial lines, and wages can only be paid in accordance with the selling price of coal. Take the deficiency-place question, for instance. When a miner strikes a harder place to work than ordinary he demands his wages to be made up by the manager. If he is on an easy place, in many instances a miner earns up to £1 or £1 5s per day. The proprietors, however, are allowed no concessions whatever when they are losing money, so that really then I am working on a deficiency. But does the miner come to me with an offer to make up my loss? Certainly not. Then, again, we are shown no consideration in the laying up of valuable machinery; and although we are expected to make up all losses to the men, in never a single instance has the same consideration been shown to us." He regretted the stoppage for the sake of all concerned, as this colliery had worked hand-in-hand to keep the mine constantly employed for a considerable time, with prospects of fresh contracts being secured any day. Now the trade would be diverted, and it would take years to recover the lost business. The company had up to this week over 100 coke ovens constantly burning, with orders for the whole output. The last batch of coke was to be taken out this evening, when the whole of the works would close down.

EXTRA POLICE AT HELENSBURGH.

ARRIVAL RESENTED.

HELENSBURGH, Friday.

Extra policemen arrived at Helensburgh this morning. Many consider such a step absolutely uncalled for, and look upon the action as an insult to law-abiding citizens.

SAFEGUARD AGAINST STRIKES.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

An application from the Port Philip Pilots' Association for permission to erect a building at a cost of £500 for the storage of coal needed in times of strikes was granted by the Marine Board to-day.

WHARF LABOURERS IDLE.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The secretary of the Wharf Labourers' Union to-day stated that in the port of Melbourne there were from 2500 to 3000 wharf labourers. Inquiries from the men on the wharfs show that already as the result of the cargo boats being laid up employment has fallen off, and scores who expected that they would be working to-day are now idle.

SOCIALISTIC SUGGESTIONS.

COMMONWEALTH SHOULD WORK MINES.

PRIME MINISTER DISPELS ILLUSIONS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

In the House of Representatives this morning Mr. O'Malley, a Labour member from Tasmania, asked the Prime Minister if he had noticed that the representatives of trusts, rings, and combines, running the coal industry had refused to meet the men in open conference to settle the trouble. He would like to know if, in view of the fact that the strike would cause great distress throughout Australia, would seriously interfere with the interstate trade, handicap the train services, throw large industries idle——

The Speaker: Will the hon. member confine himself to the question.

Mr. O'Malley: Yes, Mr. Speaker. I ask the Prime Minister if, in view of all the trouble this strike is about to cause, will he put into operation the law of eminent domain which president Roosevelt was going to do and work the coal mines for the good of the Commonwealth?

The Prime Minister said that the law of eminent domain did not exist in Australia, and the position of the United States was not the position of the Government of the Commonwealth. He could not follow the hon. member into the intricacies of the question.

Mr. Bamford, another Labour member, thought the Prime Minister's reply was somewhat light in character. He wanted to know if in view of the fact that 50 or 60 proprietors were responsible for the trouble, would he make some arrangement whereby the Government could take over some of the mines and work them?

Mr. Deakin pointed out that his answer to Mr. O'Malley was not light in character, and again explained that the Commonwealth had no jurisdiction over the lands which were controlled by the States.

Mr. O'Malley: The law of eminent domain was taken by the United States from England, where the King never gives up the possession of the land.

Mr. Wilks (N.S.W.): Neither does King O'Malley give up any of his land.

Mr. Deakin, in conclusion, said that he was sure that every man and woman in the Commonwealth viewed the present situation with great apprehension, but he thought that the least said about the trouble in Parliament the better.

FINANCIAL AGREEMENT.

THIRD READING CARRIED.

DISORDERLY SCENE.

THE CLOSURE APPLIED.

SLIM TACTICS BY OPPOSITION.

TELLERS REFUSE TO ACT.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

To-day the House of Representatives finally decided to allow the people to say whether the agreement arrived at between the Prime Minister and the Premiers of the States with regard to the future finances of the Commonwealth should be placed in the Constitution. This was not done until there had been several of those scenes in the Chamber which the present Opposition is making itself famous for.

When the formal business of the House had been transacted, the Prime Minister, with a nod to the clerk, moved the third reading of the Constitution Alteration Bill. The first speaker was Mr. W. H. Irvine, who has fought tooth and nail against the Government's proposals, ever since they were first introduced. His speech was not of the character of those he had previously delivered, for he was explaining that he was going to vote for the third reading of the measure in accordance with a promise he had made that he would support the Government if the bill went through the committee stages.

The next speaker was the leader of the Opposition, Mr. Fisher, who broke no new ground in his effort to get members to oppose the bill. Next came Mr. Harper, one of the most bitter opponents to the agreement. For an hour before lunch he spoke, attacking the Government proposals, and those members who had declared against them, and were going to vote for the third reading. When the House resumed at 2.15 o'clock he continued his tirade against the measure, and then announced that he was not going to vote in the division, because if he voted with the Opposition he would be misrepresented, and it would be said that he was voting with the Labour party. When Mr. Harper sat down a number of members, including the Prime Minister, Mr. Hughes, and Mr. Wynne rose. The speaker called upon Mr. Deakin, who gave way to Mr. Wynne, saying he understood that that gentleman had a personal explanation to make. The Speaker then called upon Mr. Wynne. Then followed an uproar of disapproval, which was led by Mr. Hughes and Mr. Fisher. When order was restored the Speaker learned that Mr. Hughes expected to receive the call, as he was on the opposite side to the last speaker, and he said it was the custom of the House that no speaker from the one side should follow a speaker on the same side, if a member on the opposite side wanted to speak. The Speaker explained that it was the general rule to call upon the Prime Minister, whenever he rose. That gentleman had given way to a member, who wished to make a personal explanation, a custom that was invariably carried out in the House. He assured members that he had no desire to specially favour one side against the other.

When Mr. Wynne had made his statement there was another effort on the part of several members to catch the Speaker's eye. Among the number was the Prime Minister, who again got the call. His remarks were brief, but to the point, consisting of the few words, which have made so much trouble since the beginning of the session, "I move that the question be now put."

This was the signal for an outburst of hostility from the Opposition. From nearly every member of the party came a roar of dissent. The uproar was deafening, and out of the din could be heard the epithets, "Traitor," "Coward," "Bounder," "Skunk," "Crawler," and "Judas." Hoots, too, were numerous; while the noise was heightened by the laughter of the Government supporters. After some minutes, the Speaker succeeded in restoring order, and when he put the question, Mr. Hughes rose and tried to explain that, in calling the Prime Minister, the chair had done wrong. The Speaker explained that he did not know what was in the Prime Minister's mind when he called him, and, in taking the course he did, he was only following out the practice of the House. The decision on the closure was in favour of the Government, and the motion that the bill be read the third time was put. This was carried by 29 votes to 27. Of those who voted against the Government in committee, Messrs. Wynne, Crouch, and Irvine sat behind the Prime Minister. Messrs. Bruce Smith, Wilks, and Harper did not vote; while Messrs. Coon and Willis were the only members of the fusion party who threw in their lot with the Labour party.

The voting was as follows:—

AYES, 29.

The Speaker announced that as the statutory majority had been obtained the measure had been carried. This announcement was greeted with cheers from the Government supporters, and hoots from the Opposition.

The Speaker, in announcing the result of the division, said that as the statutory majority had been obtained, the third reading was carried. This was greeted with a further outburst of hoots from the Opposition. The Prime Minister then rose and moved that the House adjourn. There was another wild scene, and when Mr. Fisher rose, it was plainly evident that an effort would be made to stonewall the adjournment. No sooner had the leader of the Opposition said half a dozen words than the Minister for Defence jumped to his feet and moved that the question be put. Again came the roars from the Labour party, and again epithets were hurled at the Ministerial front benches. When quietness was restored the Speaker put the question, and called upon Messrs. Watkins and Tudor to act as tellers for the noes. Instead of rising and taking their places, both these members objected to perform the duty allotted to them, and asked to be relieved of the task. The Speaker was in a quandary. He had never heard of such a case before, and as he stood wondering what to say the clerk of the House (Mr. Duffy) was busy turning up the standing rules. After a few minutes the section bearing on the taking of a division was found, and the Speaker announced that the standing rules did not provide for such an emergency as had arisen. No member was given power to refuse to act as teller—"Nor have you power to make him," interjected Mr. Chanter. This was a facer for the Speaker, who, however, has become quite an adept at getting out of trouble. He thought a few seconds, and then announced that there was nothing to say from which side he should take the tellers, and he would ask two members from the Government side to do the work, if those on the Opposition still declined. Mr. Willis, who was sitting with the Labour party, then rose and volunteered, and on the Speaker calling on Mr. Coon, who was also with the Opposition, the gentleman responded and took the position beside Mr. Willis. The closure was agreed to by 33 votes to 26. When it came to the motion for adjournment it was found that Dr. Liddell had left the Government side and ranged up alongside the Labour men for the purpose of acting as teller if wanted. He was called on, and together with Mr. Willis took the division. The motion for adjournment was carried by 35 votes to 26, and the House adjourned at 3.45 p.m.

FIRE IN WOOLLOOMOOLOO.

WOMAN'S HANDS BURNED.

A fire occurred in a house occupied by Mrs. Mary M'Mahon in Judge-street, Woolloomooloo, shortly after 8 p.m. yesterday, owing to a candle coming in contact with bed curtains. The brigade attended, but the flames were extinguished by the inmates with buckets of water, after a bedroom on the ground floor had been slightly damaged by fire and water. Mrs. Mary M'Mahon, aged 65 years, had her hands severely burned while attempting to extinguish the fire. The M.F.B. rendered first aid, and she was afterwards taken to Sydney Hospital for treatment.

THE NEW DESTROYERS.

NAMES OF EARLY NAVIGATORS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Senator Pearce (W.A.) asked the Vice-President of the Executive Council to-day whether he would suggest to the Minister for Defence that the names of well-known early Australian navigators be given to the new destroyers.

The Vice-President of the Executive Council said he would be glad to bring Senator Pearce's suggestion before the Minister. Mr. Cook had expressed his willingness to receive suggestions.

CHILD'S TERRIBLE FALL.

INSURANCE COMPANIES AT LAW.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The hearing of the libel action in which the Mutual Life and Citizens' Insurance Company is seeking to recover £20,000 as damages from the National Mutual Life Association of Australasia was continued to-day. Argument for the defence was concluded, and addresses on behalf of the plaintiff company were begun. It is expected that they will be finished on Tuesday.

A FALLING RESERVOIR.

BROKEN HILL, Friday.

A matter seriously affecting the solidity of the city is the rapidly diminishing water supply. The recent light rains have been of no use to the reservoir, and there is little reason to doubt that water now in the reservoir will not last beyond January next. The late estimate, that water would last till March or April, has been greatly discounted by a movement of the bed of the creek.

FINANCIAL.

AUSTRALIAN BANKS' MONEY IN LONDON.

At various times the Australian and New Zealand banks have considerable sums of money to their credit in London. This money they usually invest in short-dated securities. A month or so back this investment was only yielding 1 per cent. To-day it is yielding 4 per cent., which forms a nice addition to the income of those institutions fortunate enough to have goodly balances at that centre. Quite recently in the New Zealand House of Representatives the Bank of New Zealand was accused of having sent to London five millions of depositors' money "to gamble with on the Stock Exchange." In reply the chairman of the Bank of New Zealand, Mr. Harold Beauchamp, said:—

The statement is perfectly ridiculous, and quite contrary to fact. None of the banks doing business in the Dominion have deliberately transferred any portion of their funds to London for the purpose of gambling on the Stock Exchange. It so happens that at certain times of the year, when large realisations of produce take place in London, that banks do accumulate substantial funds, but these are from time to time transferred or retransferred to the Dominion, in accordance with the demands that arise for banking accommodation. In point of fact, this happened to a large extent during the late financial stringency, and had the banks not been in the position at once being able to get their funds from London to meet the demands then existing in the Dominion that financial stringency would have been much more acute than it really was. The Bank of New Zealand was able at that time to draw something like two millions sterling from London to meet the stringency. This is really a benefit derived through many banks making temporary investments of funds in London, and these funds are more or less invested in liquid securities.

METROPOLITAN FIRE RISKS.

As the metropolis is advancing skywards, and hundreds of thousands are being invested in new buildings and extensions, the amount covered by fire policies is naturally mounting up, in more or less corresponding ratio. Here are the figures for the last eight years:—

Year.	Net amount at risk.	Year.	Net amount at risk.
1898	£61,861,969	1902	£71,750,461
1899	63,689,331	1906	81,364,129
1900	66,427,642	1907	86,563,304
1901	69,495,391	1908	89,971,992

Those offices which had risks amounting in the aggregate to over £3,000,000 in the metropolitan area in 1908 were as follow:—

Mercantile Mutual	£10,688,001
Australian Mutual Fire	10,000,104
Commercial Union Assurance	7,335,979
United Assurance Co.	6,185,800
Liverpool, London, and Globe	4,728,822

Norwich Union	3,304,170
Royal Insurance Co.	3,198,740

GRADUATED LAND TAX.

An interesting return has been officially compiled, showing that there are 143,243 landowners in New Zealand, of whom 24,629 contribute towards the graduated land tax. The large majority (over 15,000) pay less than £50 per annum, 77 pay between £90 and £100, while higher up in the scale come the following:—

Land Tax.	No. of Taxpayers.

SARGENT'S INCREASE CAPITAL.

The board of Sargent's, Limited, has decided to offer for subscription amongst members 10,000 new shares on the following terms:—

The shares will be issued at a premium of 5/ per share, and the whole amount available from such premium, viz., £2500, will be credited to the company's account and added to the reserve funds.

The present market price of the company's shares is 32/ per share. Shareholders are thus given an opportunity of taking up the additional shares now offered at 7/ per share below current rates.

Eighty thousands shares have already been issued, of which the vendors received 50,000, and the general public subscribed for 30,000.

As a concession to the latter class of shareholders it has been determined that instead of limiting their applications to 3750 shares, or one in eight—the proportion to which they are strictly entitled—they shall be given the opportunity of taking up these new shares in the proportion of one to every five now standing in their respective names. In other words, they may increase their holding in the company by 20 per cent., as they, will have the option under this arrangement of taking up 6000 shares of the new issue provided they subscribe for same under the above conditions prior to the end of the current year, as the list will close on December 31, 1909.

The holders of the vendors' shares, in addition to taking up the remaining 4000 shares of the new issue, for which they will pay 25/ per share, have further undertaken to subscribe at the same rate for the balance (if any) of the aforesaid 6000 shares which still remain unissued on the above date.

The new capital is said to be required for extension purposes.

DECREASING GOLD PRODUCTION.

The gold production of the Commonwealth still tends downward. For the first 10 months of the current year there has been a shrinkage of about 116,000oz. In New Zealand, on the other hand, there has been a small increase, details for Australasia being as follow:—

AUSTRALASIAN GOLD YIELD.

	First 10 Months. 1908. Fine oz.	1909. Fine oz.
New South Wales	189,822	173,101
Victoria	566,792	530,748
Queensland	378,296	365,255
Western Australia	1,371,750	1,328,019
*South Australia	6,500	6,500
*Tasmania	50,000	40,500
Totals, Commonwealth	2,563,161	2,447,083
New Zealand	392,629	396,112
Totals, Australasia	2,955,800	2,843,195

*Estimated.

The above figures are necessarily more or less approximate, especially as regards the least important gold-producing States.

MARCUS CLARK AND CO., LTD.

At the seventh annual meeting of the above company Mr. H. M. Clark presided, and moved the adoption of the report and balance-sheet, particulars of which we have already given. The chairman spoke confidently of the position of the company and its future prospects. Since the last meeting the company has extended and improved the branch at Lismore, and has also built new premises at Dubbo, the results so far being most satisfactory. He referred to the wonderful prosperity of the State, in spite of strikes and industrial disputes. Commenting briefly on the coal strike, expressed the hope that an amicable adjustment of matters in dispute would soon be effected. It was his ambition to see the business grow to one of the largest institutions in the Commonwealth, and to secure for the shareholders by following a conservative policy a "gilt edge" security for their investment. The business done since August has been very considerably in excess of the corresponding months of the previous year, and generally bids fair to eclipse all previous records, a very healthy aspect being the fact that the cash transactions had been larger in proportion to the total output. The report was unanimously adopted.

LONDON FINANCIAL CABLE NEWS.

The reserve of the Bank of England has considerably increased during the past week, and the proportion of reserves to liabilities has consequently grown from 45.42 to 50.71 per cent. There has been an addition of over one million sterling to the bank's stocks of gold, the first upward movement since the rate was advanced. No alteration is advised on the London or Paris money markets, but the Berlin rate has again advanced, being now 4 5-8 per cent. Government securities are somewhat irregular. Consols have advanced 6/3, while Australian Government stocks have moved up and down without much apparent reason. The Bradford market is advised as dull, but topmakers have raised their prices for spot and forward delivery by ½d per lb. the result, quite possibly, of the likelihood of a stoppage of supplies through the strike. The wheat markets rule firmer, owing partly to adverse reports from Argentina. Copper has risen £1/3/9, while lead has eased by 3/9 per ton during the week.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The Australian Widows' Fund Life Assurance Society closed its thirty-eighth financial year on October 31 last. The new business completed amounted to £707,828, which (with the exception of 1907, when the whole of the employees of the Melbourne Harbour Trust were assured with the society) is the largest amount for 20 years.

Mr. Peter Leslie, who it will be remembered managed the Co-operative Wool and Produce Company, Limited, after its formation, but who owing to the pressure of private business was compelled to relinquish the position, has again been appointed general manager.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

The markets yesterday were feverish, buyers purchasing nothing, except for prompt delivery, and declining to take any chances so far as next week is concerned. In cornsacks prices fluttered exceedingly for on spot, and, whereas buyers were offering 5/9 in the morning, sellers were in the afternoon asking anything between that figure and 6/. For forward delivery prices were much easier, but buyers were scarce. Branbags were firm, and there was a good deal of inquiry. Several sales in small parcels were made at 3/10. Woolpacks remained at late quotations, with very little demand. Tinned fish were good, owing to deliveries of scroll salmon ex Century, the first steamer to arrive with new season's fish. A cable has, however, been received, advising that no further sales of Sockeye be made until further advices. A very active demand exists for dry, evaporated, and tinned fruits, while currants, dates, and other dried fruits are selling exceedingly well. There is no change in prices. Orders are being received for sugar for immediate delivery. Candles have risen /⅛ lb. Metals and oils were unchanged.

LONDON BUTTER MARKET.

Dalgety's London cable, received yesterday, advised that the Copenhagen market was cabled as higher by 4 kroner (4/6) per cwt. In London finest quality was selling at the following prices:—Danish, 131/ per cwt; New Zealand salted, 119/ per cwt; Australian salted, 114/ to 116/ per cwt; Australian unsalted, 118/ per cwt. The advance in Danish is due to increased demand in the north of England. Poor quality butter is difficult to sell. Imports into the United Kingdom last week totalled 58,000 cwt, as compared with 63,000 cwt for the corresponding period of last year. This shows a decrease of 5000cwt. The cheese market is steady. Canadian is selling at 58/ per cwt.

BREADSTUFFS.

Wheat shippers were giving from 3/10 to 3/10½ yesterday, but growers were not disposed to quit under 3/11, and prompt delivery was insisted on. A country seller, through his agent, disposed of a parcel of wheat yesterday morning, the condition being that delivery should be effected at once. He was, however, not able to procure trucks, and the transaction was declared "off." A parcel of 4000 bushels of old wheat changed hands at 4/1½. Flour was selling freely at late rates.

At Darling Harbour yesterday 93 tons of wheat and 80 tons of flour were manifested to arrive.

Mr. M. G. B. Jefferson (representing Ellis, Kislingbury, and Co., butter salesmen, London), advises receipt of cable yesterday regarding the London butter market. Since last week the steamer Marathon and R.M.S. Mooltan have arrived, and discharged their butters in London. These vessels left Sydney on September 11 and 25 respectively, and realisations for Australian consignments have been as follows:—Ex Marathon, first quality, 115/ per cwt; second quality, 112/ per cwt.; ex Mooltan, first quality, 114/ per cwt.; second quality, 112/ per cwt. There has been an improvement in the demand, and the market is firm at present prices. Danish butter has advanced equal to 4/6 during the week, top quotation now being 132/6 per cwt.

WHEAT.

The wheat market is firmer, consequent upon stronger American advices and rumours of frost in Argentina, but is inactive. PRODUCE MARKETS.

TRADE EXCITED.

GENERAL IMPROVEMENT IN VALUES.

Nearly every commodity had an excited tendency. There was a noticeable uncertainty both on the part of buyer and seller as to whether to transact business or not. The strike completely disorganised trade, and threatens to paralyse it very shortly. The result of this brought about a further rise in most lines. Hunter River lucerne rose another 5/ per ton, in spite of 400 bales arriving. New season's lucerne at auction realised up to £5 per ton. A big shipment of 3700 bags of Clarence River potatoes was placed on the market, and the demand was so strong that the best brought £10 per ton. At the railway market potatoes met intense competition, and realised 10/ more than the rivers. There was hardly a seller of prime maize. Some were asking 4/6 for the very best; one or two quoted 4/4, but hesitated in making sales. South African was still quoted up to 4/3. Oats met a further advance of /1 for choice stout whites. There was practically no prime imported chaff offering. At rail, bidding was so strong that choice wheaten brought £6, and oaten £5/12/6. Onions of choice quality rapidly sold at firm prices. Other lines were firm.

Current quotations were:—

DAIRY PRODUCE.

The egg market displayed unusual excitement. Values showed considerable irregularity, and a big margin in the quotations eventuated. There was an effort on the part of one or two holders to boom prices. The reason, it was stated, was due to the rumour of the cold stores closing down shortly on account of the strike. The object of the higher price would give anyone who bought the cold-stored eggs a chance to speculate. Northern River eggs, of which 450 cases arrived, were quoted from /9¼ to /11. Such a big margin as this was brought about through one agent allowing his neighbour to sell out quickly at a low price, and then demand /2 more for his own eggs. Cheese was steady. A big demand ruled for sides of bacon, and late rates were firm. Lard sold well. Butter was plentiful, and if anything a little livelier than yesterday.

Current quotations were:—

Butter.—First grade, 98/, good seconds 88/ to 94/, good third and pastry 78/ to 84/, inferior 66/ to 70/ per cwt.

FIREWOOD.

Another big supply was marketed, comprising 64 truckloads. There was too much inferior wood offering; on this account values eased on the previous day's rates.

The following are the values:—

Best boxwood, 15/ to 16/9, good 15/ to 16/; ironbark, 11/ to 12/6; stringy, 11/ to 13/6; bakers' wood, one truck good £1 per ton.

AUCTION SALES.

REDFERN RAILWAY MARKET.

CHAFF AGAIN FIRMER.

The chief feature at the auction produce sale held at the Redfern station yards yesterday morning was the brisk competition for chaff and lucerne hay. The former was in abundance, and a large attendance of buyers were over anxious to buy. The quality was about the same as at the previous day's sale, but the price for choice wheaten rose to £6 per ton. Oaten chaff was in good demand, and as very few consignments of this variety were offered, and the quality was of the choice sound order, the auctioneers had very little difficulty in disposing of it at high rates, choice bringing £5/12/6 per ton. Lucerne hay was of the new season class, but whether hot or dry, the buyers did not seem to mind, and some good sales were effected, choice bringing £5 per ton. Rye straw, maize, and oats were neglected, bidders showing no inclination to buy at all. Potatoes were not so briskly competed for as they have been previously, 9/9 to 10/6 were paid for poor quality. Prime wheaten chaff realised from 5/4 to 5/9, medium to good 4/6 to 5/, prime oaten 5/3, new chaff 4/6. Choice new lucerne hay in small bales brought from 4/8 to 5/, prime 3/7 to 4/3, medium to good 3/ to 3/5, choice large bales (new hay) 4/6, prime 4/.

STOCK TRUCKINGS.

The following trucks have been ordered for the forthcoming sales:—November 15, 521 sheep vans, 142 cattle waggons; November 18, 317 sheep vans, 137 cattle waggons.

CITY YARDS.

At the auction sales 386 pigs were yarded, being chiefly made up of porkers. Good competition prevailed for porkers, which sold at firm late rates. Baconers were only in small supply, but the demand was lacking, and values ruled lower. There was only a sprinkling of backfatters, and, as a dull inquiry existed, low values ruled.

The following prices were realised:—Best backfatters £4, good and heavy £3/5/ to £3/15/, others from £2/10/; baconers, best 75/, good and heavy 60/ to £3/12/6, medium from 45/; best porkers, 50/, good and heavy 40/ to 46/, medium 35/ to 40/, prime light 25/ to 30/, others from 15/.

MINING.

THE SHARE MARKET.

The attention of the market yesterday morning was principally devoted to silver shares, but the business recorded was against sellers, the trend of prices in every case, with one exception, being downward.

This will be seen by the fact that B.H. Proprietary receded from 8/ to 7/6, B.H. Junction from 5/9 to 5/6, B.H. South (paid) £5/15/ to £5/13/6, B.H. South (contg) from £5/9/6 to £5/7/6, B.H. Junction North from 35/6 to 34/6, and B.H. Norths from 83/ to 82/. Zinc Corporation, pref., sold six weeks forward at 44/6, as against the previous sale some time ago at 45/ for ordinary delivery. The only stock that held firm was British (old).

Copper shares were very slack, only two transactions being recorded, namely, in Kyloe Copper and Queen Bee. Gold shares also commanded very little attention, the only sale booked being in Black Range West (contg) at 3/, an advance of /1½. Tin scrip was neglected.

Whilst there was an improvement during the afternoon in the amount of business done in copper shares, silver scrip again commanded most attention, but prices were still on the down grade, showing that the tone of the market was weak. Copper shares also did not show firmness, while gold and tin scrip commanded very little attention.

MINING NOTES.

The Queensland gold yield for October was 41,226oz, an increase of 983oz as compared with the corresponding month of last year. The calls amounted to £9948, and the dividends to £12,350.

For the week ended November 10, the Broken Hill Proprietary Block 10 treated 2551 tons of crudes, assaying 14.3 silver, 12.8 lead, and 15.8 zinc, and produced 385 tons of concentrates, assaying 36.9 silver, 62 lead, and 7.9 zinc.

The north stope at the 510ft level of the Mungana mine (Girofla section) is reported as looking well, and keeping up the usual grade of ore. For the week ended November 1, 392½ tons of ore were despatched to the smelters.

The dredge No. 1 of the Associated Golddredging Company is operating in ground that is getting poorer, so the dredge will be turned round, and it is hoped, with gradually improving returns. Owing to the breaking of the pivot-shaft in No. 2 dredge, alterations are being made to permit of a large shaft being used, and it is expected to be dredging on November 14. There will be a clean-up on November 21.

Operations at the Stannary Hills Mines for the week ended October 22 show that in the Ivanhoe section the bottom of the south stope at No. 6 level becomes small, and work has been started in rich ore 20ft down the south end winze, where from 3 to 4 feet of rich ore are showing. No. 7 level stope is 12ft long and 15ft wide. A small seam of ore was cut in the Hornet's Nest tunnel. The diamond drill bores failed to reveal anything of importance.

The report of the Broken Hill Junction North Company for the past fortnight states that the cutting out of No. 13 plat was started. Production from the levels was: From No. 9 level, 232 tons, average assay 18.5 per cent. lead, 12.5oz silver, 10.2 per cent. zinc; from No. 10 level, 887 tons, average assay 15 per cent. lead, 11oz silver, 8.8 per cent. zinc; from No. 11 level, 1480 tons, average assay 17.1 per cent. lead, 10.7 oz silver, and 9.6 per cent. zinc. The new revolving screens for the crushing system have been placed in position, and arrangements almost completed for a trial run in the No. 2 section. Progress has been made in replacing the Krupp tables with new tables of an improved design, and with the erection of the second set of settlers in the slimes system. An electric pump for returning water from the slime dam has been erected, and put into commission.

In the course of the monthly report of the Harden Gold Mine the secretary states:—"The whole of the new crushing plant was put into commission towards the end of the month, and has worked smoothly. As the plant is quite modern and well erected, it is expected that very good results and lower costs will be obtained. The boiler power has again proved insufficient to cope with the increasing flow of water underground, another large boiler has been purchased, and will be erected without delay. Owing to the increasing percentage of concentrates in the ore from the deeper levels a very indifferent recovery has been obtained from the slimes during the past few months, and it has been decided to suspend operations at the slimes plant. Experiments are being carried out to determine whether a satisfactory recovery of those concentrates cannot be obtained by means of slimes tables, and it may prove profitable to dispense with cyaniding altogether in this department. No dividend will be paid for the month of November, but if developments underground continue satisfactory it is hoped that a dividend will be paid for the month of December. The mill ran 513 hours, crushing 758 tons, yielding bullion to the value of £1226 14s 5d. There were cyanided 580 tons of sands, yielding bullion worth £276 2s; and 584 tons of slimes, yielding bullion to the value of £86 1s 4d. There were sold 28.4 tons of concentrates, realising net £832 12s 10d. The scaling of the old battery plates yielded £242 6s 3d. The revenue for the month was £2663, and the expenditure £2718. Commenting on the fact that for the whole length of 484ft driven east on the reef at No. 4 level has averaged 165/ per ton for a width of 62in, and an undetermined width of apparently similar ore unbroken on the football side, the report states:—"The discovery of this make of high-grade ore has come at a very opportune time, as the rich ore above No. 3 level is now nearly exhausted, and the average value of the ore stoped nearer the shaft, above No. 4 level, is low, and its occurrence irregular."

MINING IN THE STATE.

ADELONG, Friday.

Bollard and party, who have been engaged sinking a shaft for some time on a leader in Crain's Paddock, had an unexpected development at 50ft. Another leader, carrying a considerable amount of mundic, and showing gold freely, has made its appearance on the opposite wall. The party has wisely decided not to open out at the 50ft level, but to continue the shaft to 100ft before doing so.

BOMBALA, Friday.

Mining round about Bendoc is still being successfully carried on. Jamieson and Jackson have two shafts, each down about 70ft, on the same reef as the Dunlop. They are also down 20ft on a different reef altogether, which they consider to be particularly rich. This find was made quite by accident, when Mr. Jamieson was out looking for timber in connection with bridge-building. He knocked a piece of surface quartz with his axe, and found that the stone showed gold freely. He then tried for about 40ft, getting rich specimens all the way. It is thought very likely that Sydney or Melbourne companies will take up some of the mining properties out Bendoc way.

DELEGATE, Friday.

Jackson and Kelly crushed 20 tons of stone at Bendoc for 119oz 12dwt of gold.

FOREST REEFS, Friday.

The remainder of the mining plant at the Ballarat Gold-mining Company was submitted to public auction. The attendance was fair and bidding keen, everything, including dwellings, being sold.

GOULBURN, Friday.

Bungonia news states that the latest returns from Styles and Hawkins' mine, Tolwong South Extended, give:—Lead, 65 per cent.; silver, 116oz.

MOUNT DAVID, Friday.

The Mount David Gold-mining Company have taken up a 50-acre lease west from Mount David mine, and occupying a section of the distant continuation of the Main Ridge. Included in the lease is Croker's shaft, which was sunk some years ago, with the object of intercepting Mount David line of reef. This is sunk to 120ft. The objective of the company is to continue this shaft, and try for the wash, which from the conformation must be underlying, as on the Main Ridge.

The development of the Main Ridge line of country is exciting the gold speculator, both far and near, at present. The rush for leases is unprecedented in this district. Sophia Ridge, about seven miles from the Nardon Litchfield Company's property, has been floated for £10,000; and property of this description is eagerly sought for.

WEST WYALONG, Friday.

The output of stone from the combined True Blue and Junction property is fairly heavy just now, sufficiently so to keep 40 head of stamps going most of the time, and there is also a good percentage of refractory ores which have to be sent away for treatment. In addition to the company's work, several parties of tributers are obtaining ore, with more or less favourable results. The Welcome Stranger party are obtaining payable stone from between the 200 and 300 ft levels, and will have a parcel treated shortly.

The Santa Claus syndicate continues to raise good quality ore, and will have about 20 tons treated before Christmas.

The Golden Fleece developments are on very favourable lines, and continue to improve, especially in the most southerly extension of the workings.

WELLINGTON, Friday.

An interesting point in mining law arose before the Warden in a case in which Charles Lam applied for the cancellation of an authority to enter held by P. E. Casey for the Federal Company. After the application for cancellation had been lodged application was made for a lease of the ground in dispute, and on the case being called the Warden stated that, in view of an application having been made for a lease, he had no power to deal with the matter unless it was referred to him by the Minister. Mr. Kelly, who appeared for Mr. Casey, stated that he had intended to raise that point. The applicant protested that the breach of the conditions occurred before the application for the lease was lodged, but the Warden stated that that had nothing to do with him, and pointed out that the only course open to the applicant was to make representations to the Minister.

YERRANDERIE, Friday.

The manager of the Prince of Wales South Company, Kowning, reports under date November 1:—"Since starting operations about the middle of September last, the tunnel has been extended 20ft. The country is close-grained slate being very hard, and difficult to shoot. It is expected the reef will be cut any day now. The lode known as No. 1, on the mountainside, is showing promising tendencies. The shaft, which is over 30ft in depth, has been recently timbered, and all surface requirements put in order. The reef formation is lying on well-defined footwall, though on the hanging wall side serious disturbances are to be met with."

BROKEN HILL MINES.

BROKEN HILL, Friday.

The excavations for the Elmore zinc treatment plant on the B.H. Block 10 mine are about complete. The machinery is now on the way out from England.

BALFOUR COPPER FIELD.

LAUNCESTON, Thursday.

Dr. Eckberg passed through to Hobart today, to urge the Premier to press forward with the bill this session authorising the construction by the Mount Balfour Copper Mines Company of a railway from Balfour to Stanley.

Another find has been made six miles south of Balfour. Blue oxide ore was found within 2ft of the surface, and proved for two miles, running north, and adjoining sections held by A. G. Black. Much excitement prevails, and the country is being pegged for miles. Too many miners are arriving, as work on a large scale will not be started until the new year.

KALGOORLIE MINES.

KALGOORLIE (W.A.), Friday.

The Golden Horseshoe, during October, crushed 25,006 tons, for 11,496 fine oz, valued at £48,836; working expenditure, Australia and London, £26,195; profit, £22,631; capital expenditure, £2601.

It was recently stated that the South Kalgurli Company had declared a dividend of 1s per share, payable on December 10. The general manager now says that the date of the distribution should have been given as November 10, the mistake being due to an error in translation of the cable covering announcement.

CHINESE RAID AT BOTANY.

CHEW LUM'S WELCOME.

At the Redfern Police Court, before Mr. Smithers, S.M., George Wong, aged 42, a gardener, was charged with having acted as banker, and Chew Lum, aged 60, as croupier, in the conduct of a common gaming-house in Smith's garden, off Denison-street, Botany, on Sunday last, at a time when the house was entered by the police armed with a special warrant. Mr. Mant appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. Sullivan for the defence. About a dozen Chinese, ranging in ages from 30 to 48 years—all market gardeners—were also charged with having been found on the premises without lawful excuse. The whole of the defendants pleaded not guilty.

The evidence for the prosecution was concluded on Tuesday, and Mr. Sullivan yesterday called evidence for the defence.

George Wong denied that he was banker on the occasion of the visit of the police. He was in the garden when they came. He admitted that fan-tan was played in the house sometimes, but he could not say who was banker or croupier. As the market gardens were a long way from town, the men assembled at the house on Sunday evenings, and spent an hour or two in a social way. They were always by themselves, and no Europeans mixed up with them.

Chew Lum gave evidence that he was not acting as croupier that night. He had only arrived from China that day by the Empire. He had been 10 years in China on a visit, and had just returned.

Mr. Sullivan: And yet the Crown is in another case stopping a Chinese who has only been away six years, and creating quite a scene over it.

Continuing his evidence, the witness said he had only been in the place three minutes when the police came.

Mr. Sullivan: I do not believe the police in this matter; but if your Worship will not go out there I will have to plead guilty; but I do not think my clients are getting justice. How many laymen's evidence, I ask, would it take to weigh down a solitary policeman's evidence?

The magistrate: You have no right to say that, Mr. Sullivan.

Mr. Sullivan: But I know the Redfern police better than you, your Worship.

Sub-inspector Kelly objected to Mr. Sullivan making such remarks about the Redfern police.

The magistrate: I order the banker and the croupier each to pay a fine of £20, and 10s costs, in default imprisonment for four months, and each man found on the premises to pay a fine of £3 and 10s each costs, in default imprisonment for one month. Time was allowed to pay the fine.

Six other Chinese were then charged with having been found in a cottage in Wright's garden, Botany, on Sunday night at a time when the place was being used as a common gaming-house. Two of the number were also charged with having acted as banker and croupier in the conduct of the game.

Mr. Mant withdrew the more severe charge, and Mr. Sullivan pleaded guilty to all the men being found in a common gaming-house. They were each fined £3 and 10s costs, in default imprisonment for one month.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

Metropolitan racegoers will this afternoon have the choice of horse-racing at Rosehill or pony and galloway racing at Victoria Park; the November meeting of the Victoria Racing Club provides an outing for Melbourne sporting folk; at Newcastle the local club opens its King's Birthday reunion; while the Queensland Turf Club's spring meeting commences at Ascot, and the programme includes the Q.T.C. Derby and the Hopeful Stakes for two-year-olds.

Victoria Park will this afternoon be the rendezvous for followers of pony and galloway racing. Large nominations have been received, and as usual a hurdle race is included in the programme. The arrangements for the convenience and pleasure of visitors leave nothing to be desired, the track is in splendid condition, and the opening event is timed to start at 2 p.m. As usual an efficient tram service will run at short intervals from midday, landing passengers at the racecourse gates.

An attractive programme has been framed for the King's Birthday Meeting of the Newcastle Jockey Club, which opens to-day on the well-appointed racecourse at Broadmeadow. Metropolitan visitors can travel by the trains starting from the Central Railway Station at 6.50 and 9 a.m., and can return the same evening. The first race is timed to start at 2 p.m. Similar arrangements will be in vogue for the second day of the reunion on Monday.

Visitors to Rosehill this afternoon will find that the arrangements for entering the racecourse have undergone some alterations, which will tend to the better convenience of racegoers. Turnstiles have been erected for holders of different tickets, and racegoers who witness the sport from the grand stand reserve will act wisely by securing the necessary tickets at the Central Railway Station, where they can purchase the combined ticket, covering the railway fare and entrance to the reserve for 13s 6d, whereas if they postpone the matter until their arrival at the railway platform the cost will total 14s. Holders of members' or complimentary tickets will not be affected by the alteration.

The scratchings for to-morrow's Caulfield races (wires our Melbourne correspondent) are as follow:—Ormond Welter: Moruga, The Trout, and Ben Miller. Kasonka Hurdle: Garland and Wyangerie. Rosstown Plate: Lady Joan. Tarna Steeplechase: Kororoit and Obydos.

On Tuesday next at 4 p.m. entries close with the secretary, Mr. J. Jolly, for the half-dozen events on the programme for the Moorefield November meeting, and for which the prize money totals £456.

There are eight acceptors for the Q.T.C. Derby to be decided at Ascot this afternoon, of whom three—Patris (by imported Sir Tristram), Scope (by imported Skopos), and Colossus (by Gaulus)—were bred in this State; Braw Laddie and Lazylad, both by imported Ladurlad, were bred at the Lyndhurst stud, near Warwick (Q.); The Orphan and Favour—both by Optimist—were bred in the northern State by Mr. J. Finnie; and Mischief (by Birkenhead) first saw the light in New Zealand.

The principal handicaps included in the programme for the A.J.C. December and summer meetings at Randwick on December 18 and 27 demand the attention of owners and trainers on Tuesday next, for at 4 p.m. nominations must be in the hands of the secretary, Mr. T. S. Clibborn. The items are the Villiers Stakes, a handicap sweepstakes of 10 sovs, one ft., with 500 sovs added, second to receive 100 and the third 50 sovs from the prize, 1m; and Summer Cup, a handicap sweepstakes of 10 sovs, one ft., second to receive 100 and the third 50 sovs from the prize, 1m 5f.

The defunct sire Sir Foote, whose memory was kept green during the late spring campaign by Prince Foote, Lord Foote, Footpad, and Co., will be represented in the Q.T.C. Hopeful Stakes at Ascot this afternoon by Fred Foote, a son of Rosalind, by Marvellous or Epigram from Rose Anteros, by Anteros. The youngster was bred by Mr. John M'Master, Binnia Downs, and was purchased at the Randwick yearling sales for 130gs.

The scratchings notified yesterday in connection with the Rosehill King's Birthday meeting were Neirbo, out of the Jumpers' Flat Race; Lady Amietto out of all engagements; Maltrona out of the Granville Stakes; Harbour Lass out of the Flying Welter Handicap; and Le Vivant out of the Dundas Handicap.

Frank M'Grath's team, comprising the dual Derby and Melbourne Cup winner, Prince Foote, Lord Foote, Kyeadgerie, Tanami, Desert Rose, and Sweet Brew, arrived by rail yesterday morning. They are all bright and hearty after the Victorian campaign.

The Grafton horse King's Cross, who has been purchased by Messrs. Emmanuel Bros., of Western Australia, was shipped for his new destination from Melbourne by the steamship Riverina on Wednesday last, and was accompanied by Solution's half-sister, Prophecy, who broke down during the late V.R.C. autumn meeting, and has in the meantime been mated with the Bundoora Park sire Wallace.

ROSEHILL RACING CLUB.

KING'S BIRTHDAY MEETING.

The King's Birthday reunion of the Rosehill Racing Club opens on the popular convincing ground near Parramatta this afternoon, with an attractive programme comprising half a dozen events, which foreshadow interesting sport. The track is first-class going, and the reserves and lawn are at their best, owing to late favourable weather conditions. An efficient transit service will be in vogue, trains starting from the Central railway station at 11.45 a.m. (horses), 12.12 (mixed), 12.48 (first-class), 12.52 (mixed), 12.56 (second-class), 1.0, 1.9, 1.18, and 1.43 p.m. (mixed), while the 12.12, 12.52, 1.18, and 1.43 p.m. stop at Strathfield to pick up passengers.

Racing commences at 2 p.m. with the Dundas Handicap, and the most reliable at the weights appear to be Malt Rose, The Reckoning, Master Foote, and Racia, while the judge may declare for Malt Rose, Master Foote, and The Reckoning. Minea, Well Done, Boro, and Lady Hasty read as well as anything in the Granville Stakes, and the numbers may be hoisted for Boro, Well Done, and Lady Hasty. Hermes, Golden Brown, and Master Fred may pass the judge in the order named for the Jumpers' Flat Race. Empirical, Barley Brew, Simonides, and Helga should have the settlement of the Flying Welter among them, and the honours may be divided by Barley Brew, Empirical, and Simonides. Medallurgy, Nangroo, Wee Laddie, Duke of Lancaster, and Orange may fight out the finish for the Rosehill Handicap; and the situations may be occupied by Duke of Clarence, Medallurgy, and Orange; while Ambassador, Brackenburg, Confetti, and Forte should have most to say towards the finish of the Club Handicap; and Brackenburg, Confetti, and Forte may get home in the order written.

THE MOTOR-CYCLING CONFERENCE.

A conference between representatives of the Cyclists' Union, the Auto-Cycle Union, and the Sporting Federation was held at the Sports Club, Hunter-street, on Thursday evening, with the object of endeavouring to come to some equitable arrangement by which the members of the Auto-Cycle Union could be admitted as amateurs to the Cyclist's Union. The difficulty hitherto has been that some of the auto members have competed against professionals, but as motor-cycling is a new sport it was thought that the matter might be arranged insofar as those members are concerned, who have only so competed in motor-cycling and have not forfeited their amateur status in other sports. Mr. A. G. Arnold, hon. secretary of the Sporting Federation, presided over the conference.

COMMER COMMERCIAL CAR.

INTERESTING TESTS.

The Commer commercial chassis recently imported by Motories, Ltd., of Pitt-street, was tried a few days ago up some of Sydney's steepest gradients in the presence of a number of interested business men. The first test was undertaken at the request of Mr. Gray, of Gray Bros., Ltd., carriers, of Sussex-street. He wanted to know whether the chassis with temporary body could take a two tons load from Parbury's wharf to the main street. This test Mr. Gray considered the severest possible about Sydney, not only on account of its stiff gradient, but also because of the difficult S-like bend in the road. Fully 200 business men witnessed the trial. The Commer car had a load of 2½ tons, not including the driver and companion. From start to top of this awkward gradient the car ran smoothly, silently, and without any apparent effort. Indeed, half way up it was stopped at the request of some interested persons—just to see if it would be able from a standing start to complete the journey. Needless to say the trial was most satisfactory in every way, and judging by comments made, those present were not only interested but surprised.

A few days later a similar test was held up Margaret-street. The trial, though up a stiffer gradient, was not nearly so difficult owing to the straightness of the run. It was sufficiently severe, however, to merit the applause of fully 400 people who had assembled to witness the tests. With 2½ tons on the Commer chassis went up at her ease, stopped when asked, and advanced or backed at will.

DAVIS CUP.

AMERICANS AT PRACTICE.

During the past week the Americans have been engaged in easy work preparatory to hard and sustained practice later on. In their practices it has been evident that they have not been "all out," but sufficient has been seen to make it plain that our visitors have infinite possibilities.

M'Loughlin is the more spectacular of the two, and with his lightning services and phenomenal smashes, is sure to be a favourite with the crowd. C. P. Dixon, of the British Isles team, says of M'Loughlin: "He is a wonder and the idol of the American crowd. His most dreaded point of all is his service. Not only does he employ every known species of American service, but, more important still, as a rule he gets it in. Occasionally he is guilty of a double fault, but lucky the player who contrives to win even one of M'Loughlin's service games. His service is considered in America by those who have played against it, to be more difficult than that of Norman Brookes." This is high praise, but few of those who have watched M'Loughlin in Sydney will dispute it. As to seldom making a double fault, that is hardly the case here, but it must be remembered that the Americans are not yet nearly at the top of their form or, as they express it, they are not yet "on edge." M'Loughlin's service is certainly most varied. He gets many into the corners with such pace that his opponent never gets near them. Then there is the original American service with off-break, and another which comes from "leg," to use a cricket term. All these are made with so little variation of action that it is very hard to anticipate which is coming. In addition, he has the reverse twist, in making which he crouches very low, and the ball, diving suddenly, breaks away to the fore-hand. His smashes are absolutely crushing, and made with a full swing of the arm. His ground shots are made with a lot of spin, sometimes over-spin, and more frequently under-spin, both on the fore-hand and back-hand, and he half-volleys frequently.

Long is a player of a steadier type. He serves with little break—at all events, he has not used that variety much so far—but he gets overspin on, and sends in his second as fast as the first, and seldom makes a double fault. His ground strokes are made with less spin than those of M'Laughlin, a back-hander down the line being apparently a favourite shot, as he brings it off with great precision. He is good overhead, but there appears to be some hope of recovering his smashes; with M'Laughlin there is none.

So much for first impressions of the strokes of the Americans. As to tactics, it is yet too early to speak. They are very wisely practising with a view to perfecting their strokes at present, and although they play sets it is manifest that their object is not so much to beat the opponent as to try shots and become accustomed to the courts; and, with this aim in view, they are probably playing much more at the back of the court than they will in the match. Several of the local players, amongst whom are Wright, Jones, Marsh, Kidston, and Colquhoun, have had sets with the visitors, who have almost invariably won easily, in spite of the fact that they have not taken it too seriously, sometimes good-naturedly giving a particular service desired by one of the photographers usually present, while their opponents have naturally been doing their best to win.

As advertised, the box plan for reserved seats opens to-day at Paling's. The cup will be exhibited in the window of J. M. Dempster, jeweller, King-street, until Tuesday next, and the rest of the week at Paling's.

THE INTERSTATE CONTEST.

VICTORIA SCOOPS THE POOL.

This year's interstate contest between New South Wales and Victoria is over, and our men will return without having won one match. Many Sydney players were hopeful that the team, having lost the rubber, would at least save the situation to a certain extent by winning the last match, but not so. The Victorians were out to win, and they gave our representatives no quarter, and won by a larger majority than has been recorded for a long time. On the three games the Victorians had a majority of 83 points. On their side Waxman's rink won each game, and put up a total score of 97, which was the highest made. Stanhope's rink won in two matches, and tied in the third. Smith's team was beaten twice, but won in the first match. On the New South Wales side Forsberg's quartette was in the lead, with a total of 70 points. They won in the first match, and tied in the second; but went down badly against Waxman in the last game. Chapman's team, which did so badly in the first two games, made a splendid recovery in the third match, and this put them into second place in the total, with a score of 66. Harrison's rink was not far behind with a total of 64. They only won in the second contest. Bromwich was lowest of all the rink totals. His team put together 49 points in the three games. They lost in all three matches, making only 12 points in the second game, and 15 in the third game.

ANGLING.

WARM WEATHER STIMULATES SPORT.

The recent hot days have had a beneficial effect upon the shallow fishing grounds of the coast. Flathead will succeed the sand whiting which are now being caught, and flounder will become active. Prawns are becoming cheaper, and with sea worms and pippies are constituting the best baits for the nursery fish. The trains to the northern grounds each week-end are now regularly filled, but the gradual forcing of anglers further afield is constituting a serious tax upon their pockets for travelling. At the northern side of Lake Macquarie plenty of miners are now fishing, some professionally, with hand lines.

No class of anglers is so heavily penalised as fly-fishers, who have to travel hundreds of miles to the best rivers. In England fly-fishing for trout is stimulated by the railway companies, who grant reduced fares to small parties of anglers on production of certificates from the hon. secretaries of the angling clubs to the effect that they are travelling solely for angling purposes. An application is now being made to the Chief Commissioner for Railways for concessions to bona-fide anglers here.

A report from Brindabella is to the effect that five rods have averaged 50 trout daily, the fish averaging a pound each. Fifty pounds weight of fish daily is a very solid addition to the food list of the boarding-houses on the river. Half of the fish may, however, have been returned to the water, as they should have been. Lower down the Goodradigbee plenty of anglers are out for fish, and the Barrenjack district includes at least 20 men who use trout rods and tackle, as well as a hundred or more men who fish with hand lines with natural baits for fish. The junction of the Goodradigbee and Murrumbidgee should be well worth fishing with rod and fly just now.

Skilful angling was exhibited at Port Hacking last week-end by Mr. J. Donaldson, a suburban bank manager. In company with Messrs. R. Lyne and H. J. Sykes, he moored on a bream ground. Mr. Donaldson had a rod with a spoon-bait for kingfish if they appeared, and a red bream was caught and hooked on the flight of this bait. There was a solitary kingfish there who hitherto could not be persuaded to bite, but now he seized the hooked fish. Then began a great contest between a skilful and cool angler and a game and active fish. It lasted 22 minutes, during which Mr. Donaldson had to manage his line on the rod without using the reel. The fish bore the healed mark of a gaff hook near the tail. It scaled 12lb. The party had a fine mixed bag of bream, trevally, and whiting, as well as the kingfish.

Another good feat was performed by Mr. F. Charles at North Head last Saturday afternoon. Fishing with fine tackle he hooked a 10lb schnapper and got it alongside. This feat is to be rewarded by the Manly A.F.A. certificate.

Perch-fishing is increasing in favour, and the best of sport is being obtained by men who use the little spinning bait, or live crickets. Messrs. C. Turner and C. Wiseheart struck a nice lot at National Park last week-end.

Bream are being caught at several grounds by those who use berley and fish the schooling places. Mr. J. Serbutt found 20 bream willing to accept his baits at Port Hacking last week-end. A good run of whiting is also reported from the same locality. Mr. Serbutt's feat of catching a 7lb trevally on a gossamer line has not been excelled in the port this year.

At the last meeting of the Amateur Fishermen's Association Mr. R. J. Geddes, one of the vice-presidents, was welcomed back after an extensive trip to Queensland waters.

Trout-fishing is improving as the rivers have lowered, but there is still a good body of water coming down in the southern streams. Oberon and Tarana fishing is satisfactory, but anglers at the latter place are troubled over the refusal of one landowner to allow anglers to trespass on his ground for fishing.

At Berowra Creek last week-end a competition for a prize, valued at £1, given by Mr. J. Smith, of the local boatshed, was carried out. The winner was Mr. Edwards, of King-street, Newtown, who had a bag weighing 24½lb of mixed fish. Mr. Lyons, Parramatta-road, was runner-up, with 21lb of fish.

Trout catches reported: Messrs. Osmond, at Reeve's Point (Murrumbidgee River), four weighable trout; Mr. Reeves, a 4lb trout from the Duckmaloi, near Oberon; Messrs. Grady, several trout from the Fish River near Tarana; Mr. W. Galvin, three trout, aggregating 4½lb, from the Duckmaloi; Mr. G. Nunan, two 2lb trout from the Duckmaloi; and Mr. Poole and party, in the same locality, had a good bag; Mr. J. Franklin reports a nice run of trout to have been caught by Captain Colomb, Dr. Grazebrook, and Lieut. Dinwiddy, at Brindabella, the river being in great order. Nothing definite is to hand from the northern rivers.

Coastal catches: As anticipated, bream have been well up the creeks of Lake Illawarra owing to the closure of the lake entrance by a bar. Mr. Roberts, stationmaster at Unanderra, and party caught 34 black bream in one day. Mr. T. Bull has had great hauls of whiting at Port Hacking. Mr. C. Parsons is reported to have hooked and landed a 24lb schnapper at Port Hacking, and Mr. W. Bardsley a 10lb schnapper at Flagstaff (Quarantine Point), on a light line. Messrs. J. Balson, J. M'Grath, and G. Elliott at Port Hacking caught four dozen mixed fish. Sport is recorded as being very good in the estuary of the Bega River, and at Cowan and Newport.

PIGEON HOMING.

WOLLONGONG, Friday.

Yesterday the members of the newly-formed Wollongong Pigeon Homing Club held their first race. The fly was from Kiama, for young birds. Results:—D. Anderson's Son of the Marsh, 1; J. Hart's Pendel, 2; R. Sloan's Maltine, 3.

BILLIARDS.

The game was called:—M'Kelvey, 103-68; Griffiths, 119-161; M'Kelvey, 215-148, 264-208, 319-219, 353-323, 363-350, 420-377; Griffiths, 424-420, 435-431, 500-545. WHY KENSINGTON GROWS.

Nothing happens by accident or by chance. A suburb does not grow as Kensington does without very strong reasons for that growth. Care to have those reasons?
To begin with Kensington is within 20 minutes of the G.P.O., on the 2d tram. It is a suburb of nice homes—not a poor dwelling is to be seen there. The surroundings of Kensington are ideal. Centennial Park, Moore Park, the Golf Links, Sydney Cricket Ground, the Show Ground, all great open spaces—are in Kensington. They keep the air pure, they make for health. Altogether Kensington is a high grade, desirable suburb the kind you want your family to live in.
Lots on KENSINGTON ESTATE, third subdivision, close to tram, 50/ a foot. Terms. £5 deposit, balance spread over 6 years. Managing agents, TEMPORARY PREMISES: 16 DALLEY-STREET, OFF 57 PITT-STREET, SYDNEY.

FROM THE INDIAN TO THE PACIFIC OCEAN, OVERLAND FROM FREMANTLE TO SYDNEY.

by FRANCIS BIRTLES, in 44 days, who yesterday completed another of his long and arduous rides, during which he rode one pair only of

which carried him throughout the journey

WITHOUT A PUNCTURE,

and without using using a pump, except after deflation of tyres for riding through sandy country. Birtles has always selected for his hazardous rides, and he selects them because his life often depends upon the

of his equipment. We shall be pleased to forward to anyone, on application, a Sample Section of exactly the same type of

as ridden by Birtles, and we will also send our booklet on the management and care of tyres. Post free to any address.

You can own a car which will go anywhere any motor car will go—will climb any hill—whose first cost is less than any other strictly high-grade car of equal efficiency; whose cost of operation and maintenance is less than any car ever made; a car which is silent, simple, comfortable, and handsome; a car which is backed by a reputation of

A PRACTICAL TEST OF THE "COMMER" COMMERCIAL CAR.

Another convincing test of the very fine "Commer" Commercial Car was carried out recently. This Car was in competition with Messrs. David Jones, Ltd., best team of horses and van. The "Commer" Car left Sydney at 5 a.m., arrived at its destination, Berkshire Park, 12 miles beyond Blacktown, at 7 a.m., where two tons of furniture was loaded up on it. The return journey was commenced at 10.15 a.m. The horse team left 2½ hours previously with a similar load, and was passed before it had reached Blacktown. The car reached Sydney at 2 p.m.

The point is that the horse team took two whole days and part of the third day to do the work. The "Commer" Car occupied only 9 hours to do exactly the same work.

The Car did its duty without a single hitch, and in spite of the hot winds the engine did not get hot, no adjustments were made, and the Car took the hills marvellously well, and never came below its second gear during the whole trip except when starting.

16-h.p., 4-cylinders, SIZES 1 to 6 tons.
